Interest Increases in City Treasurer's Post

Mrs. LaVern Heise First to Enter Race

There appears to be considerable interest among possible candidates for the office of city treasurer since the death of Nelle Hammond occurred after her nomination at the recent primary election. Only one of those interested, however, has stated for publication that she is in the race. Mrs. LaVerne Heise announced her candidacy Wednesday morning.

Whether or not a candidates name may be placed on the ballot by the city Republican committee remained a question Wednesday noon. If election laws do not permit this procedure, all candidates must depend on a "sticker" or "write-in" campaign to get their votes as no name will appear on the ballot for the office of treasurer. This could lead to a wide open race among the possible six or eight candidates with the winner getting little more than a token vote.

Mrs. Wilma Novotny who was appointed to the office of city treasurer by the city council Monday night, stated Wednesday that she is definitely not a candidate. She has been a deputy treasurer under Mrs. Hammond for a number of years.

[illegible] Heise, a native of Charlevoix, has been employed as a bookkeeper in Charevoix business places much of her working career. She is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and attended a Grand Rapids business college. Her bookkeeping career includes employment with the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., the former Robert Sloan Chevrolet Sales in Petoskey, and the Burkholder Agency in Grand Rapids, secretary and clerk for the superintendent of the Charlevoix schools.

She held a position with the U. S government Home Owners Loan association in Battle Creek for two years and served as bookkeeper for a real estate firm in Flint.

For the past two summers she has been the bookkeeper at the Chicago club during the summer and doing part-time secretarial work for the Rev. Harold E. Kohn during the winter months. Mrs. Heise also has served as a deputy under the late Mrs. Hammond.

The city council Monday night set the city treasurer's salary at $3,600 a year. Fringe benefits include a $2,000 life insurance policy, hospitalization insurance and a two week vacation.

McSauba Group Plans Menue For Smorgasbord

Fine foods prepared to please the palate of the most exacting gourmet will be served at the smorgasbord to be held at St. Mary's school Sunday, March 27 for the benefit of the Mt McSauba winter sports park, Bob Neff, general chairman, reported following a meeting of committee chairman at the Weathervane lodge Wednesday night.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the event which will feature roast turkey, baked ham, potato sausage, Swedish meat ball, sylta, picklked and imported herring and cold cuts plus a choice of vegetables, gelatine salads, cole slaw, breads and rolls, relishes plus a dessert and beverage.

Tickets are now on sale for the dinner which will be served from 1 to 5 p.m. Paul Olsen and Bob Pearl are heading the ticket committee.

The smorgasbord will truly be a community project with people with various interests combining their talents to present this popular event for the benefit of the winter sports park.

Funds derived from the project will be used to enlarge park facilities, according to William Fochtman, president of the Charlevoix-Mt McSauba Recreation Corp.

Businessmen State Views at Senate Hearing

What is the Michigan Business climate? By and large it has some drawbacks in the opinion of businessmen, industrialists and civic leaders of Northwest Michigan. These people had their say Monday at Gaylord before the senate interim committee on business climate.

While a few who accepted the opportunity to speak at the hearing voiced general satisfaction with the general business climate in the state, there were others who were concerned about the present and future tax structure, the state's future attitude about the employee-employer relationship, unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation, and transportation costs and highways in the north.

The hearing was one of a series of regional hearings being conducted by the senate committee headed by Senator Morris (R-Kalamazoo). Other senators on the committee are Senators Ryan (D-Detroit), Smeekens (R-Coldwater), Geerling (R-Holland) and Francis (R-Midland). Geerling and Francis were not present at the hearing.

North state cities represented at the hearing included Alpena, Boyne City, Cadillac, Cheboygan, East Jordan, East Tawas, Grayling, Kalkaska, Mancelona, Traverse City, Rogers City and Charlevoix.

Honors Evened In 30th Annual Cribbage Tourney

The Oddfellows were trailing by 81 points when the round started and completed the evening of play with a 384 point lead.

The pay-off was last Monday evening when the Masons served the annual supper for the visitors. Twenty nine players attended the supper. The veterans were Ray Ashdon, Robert Mitchell, Joe Williams, Ernie Hiller, Robert Stafford and Perry Smith.

In the final match rounding out the thirtieth annual tournament, high honors went to Joe Williams with 967 points for the Oddfellows. Bonnie Nickerson, playing for the Masons, was a close second with 952.

Those who played in the final match this year and also participated in the first tournament 30 years ago were Nickerson, Ashdon, Mitchell and Williams.

The gift may he as elaborate or as modest as the participating member may wish and may be in the form of merchandise gift, a gift certificate or a discount on the first purchase or service.

Assessed Valuation Up to $5,225,000.00

The Charlevoix city council, at its regular meeting Monday night, gave its approval to a budget of $175,186.00 for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The budget, as approved, will necessitate a levy of 14.83 mills on the city's assessed valuation of approximately $5,225,000 which will raise $77,486.75 toward the general fund budget.

An additional 2.17 mills, bringing the total tax levy to 17 mills, will raise another $11,338.25 for the interest and sinking fund.

Estimated revenues from other sources which will be applied to the budget include: delinquent taxes, $7,000; interest and penalties, $75.00; revenue from other governmental agencies (including motor vehicle highway, liquor and and sales tax, trunkline maintenance, etc.) $60,250; public service revenue (golf course, cemetery, docks and airport, etc), $15,500; miscellaneous revenue (fire department millage, parking meter revenue and fines, property and equipment rentals, etc.) $14,200.

The city's assessed valuation, an increase from $5,106,850, is given as "an approximate figure" because the board of review, currenty in session, has not adopted the valuation figure for 1960-61.

The 1959-60 general fund budget was $181,405 of which only $164,843 was actually spent. The expenditures had to be curtailed when several state revenues were not forthcoming as the result of the state's critical financial status.

Last year's 17 mills tax levy was allocated thusly; general fund, 14.7 mills and interest and sinking fund, 2.3 mills.

In other action the council established the salary for the office of city treasurer at $3,600.

Mrs. Wilma Novotny, who had been serving as deputy city treasurer, was named to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Nelle A. Hammond who was completing her nineteenth term in the office at the time of her death last week. The term will expire next month.

Th council also voted to advertise for bids on a car for joint use by the city superintendent and the police department. Specifications may be obtained at the office of the ciyt superintendent. Bids will be received until 8 p.m. Monday, March 28.

Bills amounting to $20,917.28 were approved and ordered paid. The figure includes $3,600 for fire and extended coverage insurance on city-owned buildings; $1,000 payment for fuel oil and $1,675 fee paid to Scott Engineering Co. for engineering services (a survey of the city's harbor improvements).

Featherbedding -- A Free Ride

Internal economic conditions continue to deal death to American industries, including newspapers. Many publishers who try to overcome inefficiency and meet competition through modernization are finding the road a rocky one because of featherbedding.

Stereotypers recently went on strike in Portland, Ore. The issue was a new machine which enabled one stereotype to do the work which had required four. Other crafts honored the picket line. The stereotypers didn't object to the labor-saving machine but demanded the unneeded three men be kept on the job.

Both the Oregon Journal and the Portland Oregonian were involved. They managed to meet the emergency by publishing one combined edition in a single plant.

The union's charge of unfair labor practice beforo the National Labor Relations Board did not stick. Then, one Sunday night ten trucks belonging to the newspapers on two lots exploded. Police found dynamite and a fizzled fuse in an eleventh truck, and cannily "suspected sabotage," according to the United Press International report.

The union asserted its innocence and the publishers had no reason for blowing up their own trucks. The explanation leaves us puzzled except for one fact. Those trucks didn't commit suicide.

But we ask, is this just one more instance of contempt for law and human decency so typical of labor disputes in our time?

Are We To Shield Subversives

Senator Pat McNamara's "Washington Report" this week states he approves of students participating in the National Defense-Education Act taking an oath of allegiance to the United States but he objects to requiring a participating students to submit an affidavit stating he is not a member of a subversive group and does not advocate the overthrow of our system of government by illegal means.

His objection to the affidavit is that it creates a double standard because others who work for or receive assistance from the Federal government are not required to do so. The answer is, let them all submit a "disclaimer affidavit." No loyal citizen will knowingly support a subversive group in the first place. Secondly, why should a loyal citizen have any quams in divulging his convictions?

Raising the big objection to the "disclaimer affidavit" are a number of universities and colleges along with organized student bodies all capably and subtly directed. They are making so much noise that the Senator may be deaf to the overwhelming majority of taxpayers who are footing the bills.

If we can't have some assurance of loyalty from those we aid with their education it is just as logical to share our atomic weapons with the commies to keep the peace.

ONCE THERE WAS a Train-of-Cars and she was flying merrily across the country with a load of Christmas toys for the children who lived way over the other side of the mountain.

But all of a sudden, right at the foot of the mountain, the engine broke down.

Things looked pretty grim until The Little Engine That Could came along. Chugging "I think I can" with every turn of the wheels, the Little Engine pulled the toys over the mountain.

ANOTHER LITTLE ENGINE is toiling to get another train underway.

"I think we can do it," said Sen. John H. Stahlin (R-Belding). "I think we can tell the true Michigan story and counteract the unfavorable publicity that the state has been receiving."

Stahlin's proposal for a "truth train" has picked up momentum since he put it on the tracks at a meeting of the Michigan Products Subcommittee of the Michigan Week Committee late in January.

MICHIGAN WEEK planners generally agree there is not time to launch Stahlins streamliner in time for the 1960 observance May 15-21. But there is a feeling it could be a major feature of the 1961 celebration.

Time is needed to raise the money and manpower to put the show on the road. Manufacturers and others who would supply the exhibits need more time to prepare their displays.

Stahlin, a Belding manufacturer who has stirred more interest than most freshmen senators in recent history, will devote much of his time these next few weeks to drumming up support from business and industry.

"The train is rigidly non-political and would be devoted entirely to selling Michigan," said Stahlin, a politician who feels there has been too much politics connected with Michigan business climate controversy.

OTHER MEANS of promoting Michigan products are in the making.

Manufacturers, retailers, newspapers, radio and television, and other interests are planning an all-out program.

It looks like another successful year for Michigan Week.

MICHIGAN'S SUCCESS—and failure—in industrial development have been compiled by the Michigan Economic Development Department.

Most states report only favorable movements.

But Dr. Paul Herbert, the department's research chief, doesn't believe in sweeping dirt under the rug.

HERBERT'S ANALYSIS of reported industry movement in Michigan last year revealed 96 "unfavorable" movements, including 39 expansions outside the state, 26 closings, 23 move-outs, and 8 contractions of operations.

There were 313 "favorable" reports, including 199 local expansions, 50 new starts, 36 instate expansions, 17 move-ins, and 11 reopenings of operations.

In general, there were more favorable industry movements reports in 1959 than 1958—an increase of 49 or 19 percent.

POLITICAL AMMUNITION for both sides is available in Herbert's report.

Someone wanting to "prove" Michigan has an unfavorable business climate need only cite that 23 industries moved out of Michigan, while only 17 moved in.

Everything would appear rosey if it were reported that 199 firms expanded operations, while only eight reduced operations.

THE BEST BET is that Michigan's economic climate will be an issue in the 1960 election campaign — but not to the extent it was in 1958.

For one thing, there are other issues; viz, taxes, constitutional convention, legislative reapportionment, and the 1959 cash crisis.

A state nursing its 1959 black eye is beginning to realize it's better to build an out-of-state reputation by bragging from the rooftops instead of dragging thru the mud.

telephone lines

by LES JOHNSON, Manager

A BUSINESSMAN knew he had good telephone service but he had to go to Germany to find out that it was the best in the world.

While visiting his birthplace in Berlin, he looked up a childhood friend who lived a few blocks away from his hotel in East Berlin. He picked up the phone to call his friend, and there the trouble began. There were no direct connecting lines between the Western and Eastern Zones. Eventually, he made his call, but he had to place it through Rome—a distance of 1800 miles—to talk with a friend who lived less than three miles away.

SMOKE SIGNALS were a fast and easy way for Indians to talk across the hills and lakes of Michigan, but they had their limitations. For one thing, the man sending the signal couldn't say anything beyond a prearranged message. Suppose, for example, a hunter told his wife that one puff of smoke would mean that he'd be coming home for dinner and two puffs meant that he wouldn't be home. If he was late, or if he wanted to bring a friend along, there was no way he could warn his wife! These smoke signals might have been our first long distance communication, but for speed and convenience, nothing can beat today's telephone call.

ON NASTY WEEKENDS in March, amateur gardeners like to get together to discuss the Spring planting. Whenever this happens, and whenever a problem comes up, they're likely to get out the handiest shopping guide there is—the Yellow Pages. Aside from numbers and addresses, there's lots of specialized information in the Yellow Pages, and it's solved many a question for amateur gardener and garage mechanic alike. So if you want a product or service, look for the detailed information in the Yellow Pages. It's put there by businessmen to help you.

PARTING SHOT: Whenever trouble comes, there's one good thing to have up your sleeve: a funny bone.

Mrs. David Juilleret Honored at Shower

Mrs. David Juilleret and infant daughter, Rebecca Ann, were honored guests at a baby shower given Friday by Mrs. Clarence Murray, Mrs. Bruce Bartlett and Mrs. Ingma Pontious at the latter's home.

Twenty-five guests enjoyed an evening of games and a social hour followed by refreshments served from a table centered with a story-book doll cake.

Guild Notes...

Miss Anne Baumgartner gave an interesting and informative talk on the x-ray and radiology department at the hospital before the regular meeting of the Womens Guild of the Charlevoix hospital Tuesday night. Miss Baumgartner explained the various uses of the equipment to be found in the department and said that the equipment in the local hospital compares favorably with that in the larger hospitals in the area.

Speaking of the x-ray department colorful new artificial white daisies and blue asters have been added to the planter at the entry way, giving the corridor a 'touch of spring' look.

A word of gratitude to the Inwood Ladies Aid Society for making up a bolt of flannel into kimonos for layettes given by the Guild to indigent mothers. Three such layettes have been distributed in the past 10 months.

Anyone wishing billing envelopes, cards, stationary or other paper products are asked to call Mrs. Karl Schultz to place their order.

Nursing scholarship blanks are now available in the offices of principals in the area served by the Charlevoix hospital. See story elsewhere regarding qualifications, etc. A $300 scholarship is offered annually by the Guild to encourage young women to enter the field of professional nursing.

Meggison Tries Skin Diving to Repair Fish Tug

There's nothing new under the sun?

Don Meggison is ready to debate that statement after his experience last week as a skin-diving mechanic who had to break away several inches of ice in Lake Michigan at Northport to put a new propellor on the steel tug, Hazel W., owned by Jake White Sr.

It all started when the tug and a small freighter, the Tramp, tried to break their way out of the harbor at Northport. The tug lost its propellor and had to be towed back to port.

But how to make necessary repairs? There was no dry-dock and anyway, how could the tug be towed any place through the fields of ice?

And then Mr. White remembered Don and his skin-diving.

As Don said "I'm not exactly a marine mechanic but I was willing to give it a try. So I donned two suits of insulated underwear under my rubber suit, special foot gear, plus canvas gloves under rubber gloves and gave it a try. I was surprised that it worked so well . . . and after only five trips down."

Don added that it isn't a job he'd like every day but it was an experience he'll long remember.

It looks as though this albino porcupine might be getting ready for a meal of bark. His quill-armored compatriots in the upper peninsula, particularly in the western end, are drawing the attention of state and federal foresters because of their eating habits which demage timber. Conservation Department officials favor selective control of porcupines on a local basis where the enimals cause excessive damage to timber and buildings. Tho officials cite "the porcupine's distinct value as one of the most fascinating and easily observed species of north woods wildlife" in opposing any non-selective measures to thin the animal's numbers.

The quill-pig, porky hog, prickle-cub, quiller or just plain porcupine is also sometimes called "trouble-maker" in state and federal forests of the upper peninsula.

The animals preference of bark for food has earned him this latest moniker! Effects of the porcupine's eating habits are nothing new, but foresters have become more concerned by the extent of damage being eaused.

Most of the damage is being done in hardwood stands, particularly those in the western end of the upper peninsula. The porcupine's girdling of pine, spruce, tamarack and hemlock is also quite obvious, foresters report. Maple, birch, basswood and other trees are deformed, stunted and killed by the animal's gnawing.

The porcupine has also been known to stir the ire of hunters and cabin owners. The hunter isn't exactly overjoyed to find his dog decorated like a pincushion after it has curiously but unwittingly come too close to the porcupine's sharp quills. However, the porky has simply acted in self-defense.

The cabin owner harbors little love for the porcupines who raids his camp, chews his axe handle, eats his soap and so on. The animal's notorious "salt tooth" is considered the cause for such escapades.

For all these reasons, the Conservation Department has not backed protection of porcupines. As with most other animals that may cause damage, the Department and its foresters favor selective control on a local basis where the animals cause excessive damage to timber and buildings. And so it is with the porcupine.

However, despite his ignorance of human values, his clumsiness and slowness, the porcupine is still regarded as an important character in Michigan's wildlife picture by Department officials.

They cite "the porcupine's distinct value as one of the most fascinatng and easily observed species of north woods wildlife" in opposing any non-selective measures to thin the animal's numbers.

BY MEG

After a week lay off we're back to the Alley's again. Before I get into this weeks scores a run down of the make up game between Central Drugs and Swanson Gravel. They split the points 2 apiece. For Swanson—Fergie bowled a 202-585 series followed by Stub's 449 series. For Central Keith Miles was high with a 502 series, Herb next with a 469 series.

Now for tonights action: Moonlight dropped FOUR (4) to Puff's. This puts Moonlight still on top by only one point over Neff's. For Puffs — everyone was over average. Puff had a 201-211-594 series. Coach Terry followed with a 209-544 series. Ron had a 523 series. For Moonlight Sgt. Hedrick had quite a load to haul with his 564 series. Ed Hansen helped but it was just too many feet dragging. LV had a 128-480 series, Grover 128-474 series and then came Doc with a 449 series. It's hard for two men to hold up three men. Ed also had a 202 third game.

Neff's stepped a little eloser to first place tonight by taking 4 points from the fighting Lake Cinstruction crew. They all tried hard but still couldn't win a point. All were over average. For Neffs, Bob Livingston had a 539 series followed by Big with a 528 series. John Wojan took top honors for the Lakers with his 207-213-574 series. Hal had a 494 series.

Steve's team rolled high team game and high team series for the year tonight, also took 4 points from Central Drugs. High team game was 982, high team series 2750. Ken Cel finally broke the jinx on the East Jordan alleys and rolled a 233-216-628 series. O'Rile missed in the 10th frame of the third game so all he could get was a 214-208-597 series. Meg followed with a 543 series. Bob had a 512 series. For the Pill Rollers, Frank was high with a 439 series followed by Herb with a 434 series.

Freedman No. I ran into the fighting No. II team (who rolled with only 4 men tonight) and got stung for 4 points. Les Smith had a 496 high for No. II followed by Trowbridge with a 486 series. Big John tried hard to hold the No. II team but his 210-203-595 series wasn't enough. Cal had a 408 series, Jesse had a 104-108-381 series.

Airport Inn sneaked 3 points from the United Farm and didn't roll their average once. Des was high with his 515 series, followed by Ron Cunningham's 472 series. Ed Culbertson was high for the United Farm with a 457 series. Red followed with his 441 series. Swanson Gravel took Browe Electric for 3 points, even though Dave Clark had a 212-575 series for Browe. Ted followed with a 470 series. For Swanson Fergle led the way with his 528 series. Dave Miller followed with a 426 series. Max Moore had a 203-429 series for Browe's. John Sladek bowled for Browe's too.

LANSING OBSERVER

By FRANK G. MORRIS

Michigan and the United Automobile Works have come now to the crossroad. With the magic of Gov. Williams' charm swept from the platform, the people can make a clear, bold decision next November about the road their state is to follow.

Even the most radical dreamer of the crew-cuts surrounding the Governor has known that the majority of the voters did not swing to the Democratic Party because of the Platforms written for it by the UAW.

Like Walter Reuther, the eggheads in the State government have realized that Williams alone led them to victory by the sheer force of his personal appeal.

No politician in the history of the United States understood better than Williams the knack of appearing down among the people and making them feel important, by dancing and cracking jokes and handing out green ties. Williams created a relationship that has been little short of real love.

It is a paradox of politics that the Governor's decision not to run again has created a keen sense of loss among hundreds of thousands of citizens who are violently opposed to the socialistic aims of the UAW.

So that voters next November will be able to make a clear choice between the road being paved for them by Solidarity House and the path away from group dictatorship. Their decision will be made free from the personal attraction of a popular leader.

As the 1960 election draws close, the goals of the two political parties will be crystalized for the first time since Hicks and Martha Griffiths came out of a basement meeting in their Detroit home carrying a banner with the strange device "Soapy For Governor."

That was in 1948. Walter Reuther and his union associates were not parties to the scheme. But when Williams won the nomination from Victor Bucknell, backed by the AFL and from the late Garnett J. Abbott, backed by the "regular Democrats," the UAW jumped aboard the bandwagon.

Williams won the election that year by 1,154 votes over former Gov. Harry F. Kelly following a recount. The union took command. The boyish Governor submitted, because he believed in the program prepared by Reuther and the socialistic Americans For Democratic Action, of which he had been a founding member in Michigan.

Williams realized, too, that he needed the potential political power of the union if he was to be re-elected.

The development of the union's astonishing political organization is an old story. Yet even after 11 years, few voters realized that the UAW sponsored every present member of the executive staff (except the Governor's personal secretary, Julie Lawler); every state official appointed by Williams; every candidate that was nominated with him for state office in five elections and every judge he appointed.

The spotlight was on Williams alone in those elections.

The stage this year will be well lighted. The real issues will become obvious.

Republicans hope the people will see that Gov. Williams is leaving Michigan bankrupt, facing either a bigger sales tax or an income tax, disgraced nationally as a bungling laboratory controlled by a labor union, and suffering from an illness that is causing industry to flee.

LANSING OBSERVER

By FRANK G. MORRIS

Michigan and the United Automobile Works have come now to the crossroad. With the magic of Gov. Williams' charm swept from the platform, the people can make a clear, bold decision next November about the road their state is to follow.

Even the most radical dreamer of the crew-cuts surrounding the Governor has known that the majority of the voters did not swing to the Democratic Party because of the Platforms written for it by the UAW.

Like Walter Reuther, the eggheads in the State government have realized that Williams alone led them to victory by the sheer force of his personal appeal.

No politician in the history of the United States understood better than Williams the knack of stepping down among the people and making them feel important. By dancing and cracking jokes and handing out green ties, Williams created a relationship that has been little short of real love.

It is a paradox of politics that the Governor's decision not to run again has created a keen sense of loss among hundreds of thousands of citizens who are violently opposed to the socialistic aims of the UAW.

So the voters next November will be able to make a clear choice between the road being paved for them by Solidarity House and the path away from group dictatorship. Their decision will be made free from the personal attraction of a popular leader.

As the 1960 election draws close, the goals of the two political parties will be crystalized for the first time since Hicks and Martha Griffiths came out of a basement meeting in their Detroit home carrying a banner with the strange device: "Soapy For Governor."

That was in 1948. Walter Reuther and his union associates were not parties to the scheme. But when Williams won the nomination from Victor Bucknell, backed by the AFL, and from the late Burnett J. Abbott, backed by the "regular Democrats," the UAW jumped aboard the bandwagon.

Williams won the election that year by 1,154 votes over former Gov. Harry F. Kelly following a recount. The union took command. The boyish Governor submitted, because he believed in the program prepared by Reuther and the socialistic Americans For Democratic Action, of which he had been a founding member in Michigan.

Williams realized, too, that he needed the potential political power of the union if he was to be re-elected.

The development of the union's astonishing political organization is an old story. Yet even after 11 years, few voters realized that the UAW sponsored every present member of the executive staff (except the Governor's personal secretary, Julie Lawler); every state official appointed by Williams; every candidate that was nominated with him for state office in five elections, and every judge he appointed.

The spotlight was on Williams alone in those elections.

The stage this year will be well lighted. The real issues will become obvious.

Republicans hope the people will see that Gov. Williams is leaving Michigan bankrupt, facing either a bigger sales tax or an income tax, disgraced nationally as a bungling laboratory controlled by a labor union, and suffering from an illness that is causing industry to flee.

Action at the recent Class C regional tourney at Petoskey during which the Charlevoix Rayders played three crucial games supplied the setting for the above pictures.

A Houghton Lake player tries to block out Joe Beaudoin's shot, one of six buckets he made in the game which the Rayders won by a one-point margin, 55 to 54.

Frankfort Wins Regional Championship

Rayders Chalk Up 20 Wins Before First Defeat Of Season

The Charlevoix Rayders' victory skein was snapped at 20 games Saturday night when the unbeaten quintet bowed to Frankfort by a score of 68 to 62 in the Class C regional finals at Petoskey Saturday night.

Going into Saturday night's game, the Rayders had boasted 16 victories during the regular season plus two wins in the district and two in the regional tournament.

Charlevoix had advanced to the regional finals after defeating Houghton Lake 55 to 54 and Kalkaska 81 to 56.

The regional title won by Frankfort was the first one in the school's history.

Frankfort was scheduled to meet the upper peninsula regional champions, Gwinn, in the quarter finals at Grayling last night.

In the regional finals Saturday night, the Charlevoix Rayders jumped into an 8 to 1 first quarter lead only to see the determined Frankfort Panthers catch fire midway in the quarter. When the period ended the Panthers led 12 to 8.

In the second period the Panthers continued to control the game, outscoring the Rayders 18 to 10 for a 27 to 18 halftime advantage.

The Rayders came to life as the second half got underway and, paced by Dave Schuchard who dumped in five field goals, outscored the Panthers 26 to 20 to cut the latter's margin to three points, 27 to 24, as the game went into the final period.

With their first regional title in view, the Panthers romped to a 55 to 44 lead before Joe Beaudoin scored a bucket. They continued their torrid pace to go ahead 61 to 48 midway in the final period before the Rayders, in a desperation try, came back to cut the lead to six points as time ran out.

Frankfort lost the services of forward Ken Jensen with five minutes remaining and forward Larry Walkley at 2:10 when the Rayders lost Schuchard.

Everet Erickson and Bill Johnson with 20 points each and Del Parsons with 18 paced the game for the victors.

Schuchard, Dick VanRaaphorst and Joe Beaudoin shared scoring honors with the Rayders with 13 points each. Bruce Pease and Charles Coleman, the other starters had five points each; Sam Supernaw had nine and Jim Ladd and Stan Smith two points each.

In the game with Kalkaska when everything clicked for the Rayders, Charlevoix jumped into a 10 to 2 lead which they never relinquished as they led the Blazers 17 to 11 at the quarter; 37 to 25 at halftime and 55 to 48 going into the final period.

Dick VanRaaphorst with 23 points, including 20 scored in the second half, paced the game for the Rayders. Schuchard followed with 22 points while Beaudoin had 17; Coleman nine; Pease six; and Supernaw four. Jim Ladd, Stan Martin, Ralph Brock and Bud Balch also saw action in this meeting.

Paul Brower with 15 points and Jerry Andrews with 14 were top scorers for Kalkaska.

Missionaries to Speak at Church Convention Here

It is Missionary Convention time at the Charlevoix Assembly of God at 203 E. Upright ave. according to the pastor, the Rev. T. B. Thodeson, who has announced the names of the missionaries who will appear at the church beginning Sunday.

Beginning at 8 p.m. Sunday the convention will present Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kensinger of Nicaragua, a Central American republic. The couple are senior missionaries and under their supervision the mission work has developed to a national indigenous church. They also pioneered a national daily radio broadcast of the church and are in charge of the construction of the Steelberg Memorial Evangelistic Center in Managua, the capital city. Colored slides depicting the story of their work will illustrate their message.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bascue of Upper Volta in French West Africa will be the featured speakers at the convention. The Bascues report on this older mission field will be an interesting one since the peoples of this country have sprung into focus only recently. Supplementing the report will be a film designed to help the home churches see the job the missions are doing.

The public is invited to attend the two day convention sessions.

Republicans Start 'Recruit for '60' Campaign Drive

A "grass roots" program to bolster Republican organization in Michigan for the 1960 election campaign is taking shape under the banner "Recruit for '60."

Joel Mill, an Atlanta attorney, has been appointed a regional vice chairman to head the recruiting campaign in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Antrim, Otsego, Montmorency and Alpena counties by State Chairman Gordon Getsinger.

"This election is one of the most important in years and we can expect the largest turnout of voters in Michigan history," Getsinger said. "The object of 'Recruit for '60' is grass roots campaigning to keep the people fully informed of the issues."

To Hold Hearing Mar. 29 on Harbor Improvements

The deadline for filing objections to proposed harbor improvements in Round Lake with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in Detroit has been set for March 29, it was announced this week.

A public notice to this effect has been posted in various places in the community including the post office and the city hall. Objections must be based upon reasons affecting navigation.

The proposed improvements for which the city has requested assistance from the Michigan State Waterways Commission include construction of one 40 ft. pier and four 45-ft. piers on the west side of Round lake between the laundry and the municipal dock; the extension of eight existing piers on the waterfront; reconstruction and relocation of seven 32 ft. piers between Clinton and Mason sts. and the dredging of the area north of the laundry.

The proposed improvement program would give the city five new piers and enlarge existing piers to allow many sorely needed mooring areas for pleasure craft in the yacht basin which will then extend from the municipal dock to the foot of Antrim st.

Easter Seals to Benefit Crippled Children's Fund

More than 3,800 letters bringing the Easter Seal message to residents of Charlevoix county were placed in the mail this week according to Mrs. George Lusk, president of the Charlevoix county chapter of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc. which benefits from the annual sale of Easter seals.

In making the announcement, Mrs. Lusk said that funds raised through this means were used to assist crippled children and adults in the county as well as purchasing Salk vaccine for use in the county to prevent crippling polio. A total of $150 was used to purchase the vaccine which was given to school children who had not received any or all of their shots. Another $50 was sent to the Mary Free Bed hospital in Grand Rapids, earmarked for dental care. This year the local chapter is hopeful of sending a child in the county to a camp for diabetics.

"Our funds ore limited" Mrs. Lusk said "but we are attempting to assist as many persons as possible with what monies are available. If you know a crippled child or adult who needs assistance, you are asked to call me or Mrs. Keith Miles, our community nurse, and we will investigate and do what we can"

The 29 days he had served on Friday were to be applied to the total. He can be released as soon as his seasonal job on Beaver Island begins. A nightly curfew wos set at 11 p.m.

Robert D. Cole, 39, RR 3, pleaded guilty to a morals charge when arraigned before Judge Brown. He was remanded to the county jail after failing to furnish $3,500 bond. The case was referred to the probation department for investigation. He will be sentenced later.

Telephone Co. to Distribute New Directories

New telephone directories for 1960 will be delivered in seven local communities beginning April 1, C. Lester Johnson, district manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has announced.

There will be 10,700 directories needed in these communities, distributed as follows: Charlevoix, 2,900; Boyne City, 2,000; East Jordan 1,400; Harbor Springs, 2,400; Mancelona, 1,100; Pellston, 400, and Walloon Lake, 500. This will be an increase of 300 over the area.

Old directories should be discarded with the arrival of the new ones. Patrons are advised to use the new directory only when looking up numbers because of the many changes and new listing since the printing of the last edition.

"It s desirable to get the old directories, with their obsolete information, out of circulation as soon os possble," Mr. Johnson explained. "But, before doing so, the old books should be checked in case valuable papers might have been placed in them."

Bell Telephone To Raise Rates This Month

Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced today that residence service here will go up 5 to 10 cents a month under new rate schedules approved by the state Public Service Commission.

The nickel increase will apply to all classes of residence service except 1-party, which will go up a dime. Most business service also will be raised 10 cents.

The new schedules provide for intrastate long distance rate adjustments which will increose the price of most short-haul calls and reduce the cost of medium and long-haul calls.

There will be a 10-cent extra charge for station-to-station collect calls, and night and Sunday discounts will be eliminated on person-to-person calls.

Other increases will apply to miscellaneous items, such as service connection and automatic telephone answering and recording equipment.

The Charlevoix Jaycees will show a 30-minute film this evening at 8 p.m. in the City Hall Community Room covering the activities of the Teen-age Safe Driving Road-e-o sponsored nationally by the "United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, the American Trucking Associations, Inc., The Chrysler Corporation, The Pure Oil Company and The Insurance Institute For Highway Safety."

The Road-e-o is open to all single teen-agers who can qualify for a driver's license and have not turned 19 years of age before August 11, 1960. Preparedness Is Key to Survival In Fallout Area

There is no place in our state sufficiently remote from a possible target to be free from radioactive fallout, Gen. George B. Ely, director of civil defense in Chorlevoix county, told Kiwanians at the regular dinner meeting Monday evening.

Gen. Ely urged individuals to be prepared in the event of an enemy attack. He believed the time element is an important factor for survival. That time element may be as little as 15 minutes, depending on targets hit, wind and weather conditions. In an emergency, however, individuals should be prepared to seek shelter for at least a two-week period.

The director is not satisfied with the warning signals that would reach this area. He pointed out that should all radio and television stations go off the air except those designated to give general warning, it would be impossible for county residents to get specific instructions applicable to this particular area because the signal received might be coming from an area far removed.

Survival in a fallout area may well depend on the individuals advance preparation. This would include adequate shelter, a food and water supply for at least two weeks. The greater the shielding from fallout, the greater the protection. Staying indoors offers some protection. Retiring to a basement offers far more safety but a specially prepared shelter in the basement or underground provides the maximum shelter.

Gen. Ely invites the public to get the various informative literature, available at the Civil Defense office in Boyne City. Following their instructions could well be the means of survival if fallout spread over the area.

Branch Office to Close Two Days

The Secretary of State branch office operated by George A. LaBlance will be closed Friday and Saturday while Mr. and Mrs. LaBlance are in Detroit to attend the Democratic Midwest conference being held there March 25-27.

They will attend the Charlevoix county Democratic committee at the conference and attend the Jefferson-Jackson day dinner.

At least 25 northern Michigan farmers are expected to get first hand information about agriculture in European countries this summer, according to Edward K. Shanahan who has been accepted to represent this area. The Northern Michigan delegation will be one of 23 groups of American farmers making good will tours this year.

The group from this area is scheduled to leave a New York airport Aug. 22. The itinerary will include visit to Belgium, Holland, Poland, Germany, France and Russia, returning to New York Sept. 11.

Farmers are selected for the tour on a first come first serve basis with each participant paying his own expenses. The totol number of members on this tour has been limited to 25.

Marine Club to Launch Plans for Venetian Parade

Planning for the annual Venetian night boat parade will be on the agenda of the Charlevoix Marine club meeting next Wednesday evening, according to Vice Commodore Arthur Osborne. The meeting will be held in the Court House at 7:30 p.m.

Other plans coming up for consideration will include improvement on the outboard launching ramp consideration of a Power Squadron for Charlevoix.

It is pointed out by Robert Hamilton that some of the outboard boat operators have been under the impression that the Marine club is for large yacht owners only. This is a misconception, he says. The Marine club is vitally interested in promoting outboard boating in the area and is especally anxious to have the outboard enthusiast take an active part in the activities of the club.

Cancel Tonights Marine Class

The Power Squadron class, regularly held Thursday evenings, (tonight) has been cancelled this week due to the illness of the instructor, Ken Barnett of the Traverse City Power Squadron, according to Arthur Osborne.

Regular classes will be held next week Thursday evening with either Mr. Barnett or a substitute instructor.

New Candidates Enter Race for Treasurer

Only two candidates were definitely in the race for the office of city treasurer as of Wednesday noon, Miss Annabelle Cunningham and Mrs. Ivan (Helen) Phillips. Others who have been interested in the office have either withdrawn or may be waiting to see what their competition will be.

Mrs. LaVerne Heise, the first to announce her candidacy last week has withdrawn. Mrs. Phillips announced Friday that she would be a candidate for the office and Miss Cunningham announced Tuesday that she is in the race. Mrs. Phillips says she is running as an independent candidate and Miss Cunningham has entered the race with the endorsement of the city Republican committee.

Rumor has had it that Mrs. George (Edna) LaBlance would be a candidate, although she has not publicly announced her candidacy. She said in an interview Wednesday she was not a candidate "as of now" but she could change her mind.

The endorsement of Miss Cunninghom by the city Republican committee was the outcome of meetings the committee held with three possible Republican candidates, Mrs. Heise, Miss Cunningham and Mrs. Cecil (Vida Black) Richardson who has not publicly announced her candidacy. These three agreed to let the committee select one candidate to represent the party. Miss Cunningham was chosn on a secret ballot, according to James Hiller, chairman of the committee.

City Attorney Norman Ance has pointed out that some persons interested in the office have been under the impression that it was necessary to be nominated before they could be a candidate. It should be made clear, he said, that any citizen is privileged to run for an office as a "write-in" candidate at any election.

In the present situation the candidate nominated in the primary was deceased prior to the election. The name therefore will be deleted from the ballot and neither party is permitted to place a substitute name on the ballot. Political parties may support a candidate but all candidates, whether independent or supported by a party, must depend on "write-ins" or stickers for their votes.

Fishing Boat Goes Aground on Beaver Island

The 36 ft. lifeboat from the Charlevoix Lifeboat station was dispatched Wednesday morning to the assistance of the 40 ft. fish tug, F. Hunter, out of Manistique which went aground on Indian Point on the northwest side of Beaver Island in Monday night's storm, according to Ch. Bosn W3 Albert Bates of the Group office.

The lifeboat left here at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday enroute to St. Jomes harbor to pick up the three-man crew of the tug who came ashore Tuesday morning and walked to St. James for assistance.

The tug owned by Melvin Frasier of Manistique had in its crew Russell Jensen, 47, and his sons-in-law, Raymond Wilkes, 20, and Lee Boynton, 22, also of Manistique. The tug left its home port at 8 a.m. Sunday enroute to fishing grounds west of the Beavers. After setting nets there they continued to the northwest, planning to cross through the Garden island passage to a point east of St. James harbor to set nets when they were caught in the storm that blew up out of the southwest Monday afternoon.

They sought shelter in the lee of the north end of Beaver Island when one of two anchor lines caught in the propellor and they went aground at 11 p.m. Monday. The men remained aboard until the storm cleared, and then walked the beach to St. James to ask for assistance.

The U. S Coast Guard group office here was notified of the accident and advised to give assistance when the weather moderated.

An attempt will be made by the crew of the lifeboat to pull the stranded tug off the beach. Mr. Jensen had said the tug was not damaged when it hit the beach.

Snow and Winds Block Highways

Travel was limited to main highways and county roads and driving was hazardous Tuesday morning as the result of Monday night's storm which dumped neorly a foot of snow in the area.

Driven by southwest winds up to 40 miles an hour which drifted rural roads full, the storm abated Tuesday as the wind shifted to the west and later to the northwest.

Charlevoix county road commission plows had all main highways passable Tuesday morning and school buses traveled oll but the most isolated sideroads.

By noon Tuesday most roads were open to traffic.

South of here in the Cadillac-Grand Rapids areas extensive damage from winds were reported. Many schools in the areas were also closed Tuesday.

School Youngsters Take to Spanish

"Hace frio;" "Hay hielo" "Patinomos."

These are expressions in Spanish heard on Charlevoix's popular ice rink recently but they are words few Spanish children or the Spanish-speaking peoples of Mexico have occasion to use for they mean, in order, "It's cold;" "There's ice;" "Let's go skating."

But expression such as these and others that apply to things youngsters do here have become a part of the vocabularies of elementary students in Charlevoix's public school since classes in Spanish were introduced in the classrooms just six weeks ago at the beginning of the second semester.

And the youngsters: They've taken to the language like a small Mexican boy to a freshly-baked tortilla, or, as American might say, like a duck to water.

The program, strictly an experiment, got underway in the third through the sixth grades under the direction of William Ratigan, author-turned-teacher, who teaches the living language in high school. Youngsters in the third through the fifth grades have one session a week with sixth grade students enjoying two lessons each week. In addition, the students practice their newly-acquired tongue in the classroom, on each other and their families.

It is quite a challenge to them as they learn to count, name the colors, classroom objects and articles of clothing and discuss every-day happenings and doings such as skating in a foreign language.

It is interesting to hear the youngsters respond in Spanish to Mr. Ratigan's greeting as he enters the classroom and carries on a conversation with them as they answer, in chorus, in the new language.

Children the world over love the comics. Local youngsters are no exception and were quick to acquaint themselves with those from below the border. They readily identified the doings of Terry and the Pirates, Donald Duck and other old favorites which are translated directly into Spanish but it was something before they discovered that Dagwood and Blondie appear in the Latin American version of the comics.

Educators have long had the idea that the time to teach a second language to a child was during his most receptive years; that is, when he is young. The youngsters in the Charlevoix schools where the program is proving not only successful but popular bears out this theory.

The teacher, too, might have a great deal to do with the success of the project for Mr. Ratigan has shown that he is equally as adept before a classroom of students as he is behind a typewriter where he has written such books as "Soo Canal," "Captain McCargo" and his most recent publication, "Highways over Broad Waters," the biography of Dr. D. B. Steinman, builder of the great Mackinac Bridge. Another new book, "Great Lakes Ship Wrecks and Survivals" is scheduled for publication in June.

Scholarship Is Offered by County Cancer Society

The Charlevoix county Unit of the American Cancer Society will again offer a $300 scholarship to a Charlevoix county high school senior or graduate who is planning to enter the field of professional nursing, Mrs. Marion Jackson of East Jordan, chairman of the county unit, has announced.

Offered on a competitive basis, the applicant must be a resident of Charlevoix county, must be a senior or a graduate of a high school located in the county, must have applied for admittance to an accredited school of nursing before applying for the scholarship and must be financially worthy. Any applicant who has received any other scholarship will not be eligible for the scholarship offered by the Charlevoix county Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The $300 scholarship will be paid at the rate of $100 upon her entrance into a school of nursing and $100 for the next two years on the anniversary of the date of entrance. It must be understood, however, that should the student withdraw from the school for reasons other than health that the money she has received shall be repaid to the Charlevoix county Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Nursing scholarship blanks may be obtained at the offices of superintendents or principals at Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, St. James and Charlevoix. They must be returned to Mrs. Marion Jackson at East Jordan by May 1 along with a transcript of the applicant's high school grades. The scholarship will not be awarded until all applicants have been informed of their acceptance or rejection by the schools of nursing where they have applied.

Expect Increased Enrollment at N. C. M. College

Applications for admission to North Central Michigan College in Petoskey for next September are ahead of what they were at the same time last year Dean A. D. Shankland reported this week.

A total of 110 full-time freshmen students enrolled last fall and if early enrollments are any indication of the number to enroll next fall this number will be considerably increased.

In addition, a large number of this year's freshmen are expected to enroll in the sophomore program that will be added to the college schedule this fall.

Sophomore subjects will be added in all fields of the curriculum. Among them will be second subjects in the field of Accounting, Secretarial, English composition, English literature, Speech, French, Calculus, History and Political science.

In the field of Science new equipment is being purchased so that the following subjects can be added to the Science curriculum: as Sophomore subjects: Bacteriology, Comparative anatomy, Physics, Qualitative analysis and Quantative analysis. Four additional staff members will be added to the faculty to handle the additional courses being offered and the increased enrollment.

A new catalog for the 1960-61 school year is available. These and other information may be obtained by contacting the office of the Dean at the college or high school superintendents or principals in area high schools.

Sundew Reports

The Sundew left Charlevoix Saturday, March 3, enroute to Chicago, Ill., for ice breaking duties as ordered by the Commander, Task Group Pipeline.

Our first duty was to relieve the Cutter Woodbine (WAGL 289) to enable her to return to her home port of Grand Haven for two weeks Charlie Status.

The tanker Detroit was assisted to open water and the tanker Traverse City Sacony followed our track back to Indiana Harbor. The next morning assistance was given to the Edward G. Seubert and the tanker Chicago Sacony, both in-bound for Indiana Harbor.

Indiana Harbor and Calumet City were the two centers of traffic. Tankers come in, load up and leave as soon as possible. A northerly or easterly wind in that area will cause the ice to jam. As soon as a path was made it would freeze up before the tankers could make use of it.

Our hardest job proved to be the assistance of the tanker Detroit. Being wider than the Sundew and being unable to follow in our track easily, it took 62 hours to get her into harbor. Throughout the remainder of the week assistance was given to tankers in and out of the afore-mentioned harbors.

On Sunday, March 13, the Cutter Mesquite (WAGL 305) relieved us and we were underway for Racine, Wis., to give assistance to a tanker. Upon completion of assistance, the Sundew moored in Racine. The week of ice breaking had been hard on our engines. Lube lines had been broken and parts sent out for repairs were held up by company strikes. But on Friday, March 18, we were underway for Traverse City. After spending Saturday night at Traverse City, we were underway Sunday morning to clear a path for an incoming tanker. On completion of this operation, the Sundew headed for Charlevoix, arriving Sunday night.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

The ice breaking operations were well covered by two Chicago papers as well as a Racine and Milwaukee publications . . . all carried pictures and stories describing the assistance operatinns . . . Gordon Brodie was readmitted to the Charlevoix hospital for treatment of a back injury . . . Wally Wenzel is doing nicely at the USPHS Hospital in Detroit following minor surgery.

Surviving are his wife, Peggy, and one sister.

With only six weeks to go in the second half Moonlight still leads by 2 points. Should they win the second half, there would be a 9-game roll-off between Steve's Bar and Moonlight for total pins. Moonlight had only one man in the 500's tonight but still lucked out for 3 points. L.V. had the 500 series followed by Grover who was 12 pins under average with a 480. Poor Airport Inn couldn't find the range, They didn't roll too bad except for the middle man (Nick) who bowled 129-197-106 332 series and that's 58 pins under his average. I couldn't say for sure, but maybe he wants Moonlight to win the second half or else Moonlight paid him off. Anyway Hank was high with his 523 series. Al followed with a 511 series.

Steve's team rolled on for four points over Puffs. O'Rile led the parade with a 234-549 series. Ken Cel next with 200-548 and Meg followed with 210-544 series. Lou and Bob were both above their average. For Puff's "Ole Dad" was high with his 510 series, (that's 30 pins under his average) Coach Terry followed with a 505 series, that's 10 pins over his average.

Neff Grocery had trouble with Central Drugs tonight and came out on the short end with only one point. Gordon was high with his 201-483 series. Big followed with 472. For Central Drugs "Grandpa Pete" rolled a 209-486 series, 84 pins over average, Al followed with a 435 series. Mike had a 101 third game.

Freedman No. I could only get one point from the United Farm tonight, even though Jess rolled 31 pins over his average and that is something new for him. John was high for the No. I with 203-563 series. Cal Peters followed with 482. The United Farm had a visiting bowler who showed them all how to bowl. Weldon Culbertson (Ed's Dad) rolled a real nice 222-201-244—667 series. His son tried hard to keep up but fell short with his 483 series.

Freedman No. II took 3 points from Browe Electric. They are now tied with the No. I team for 5th place. Les Smith was high with his 520 series followed by Bob Coakley with a 519 series. Bob Ouderkirk was high for Browe's with his 499 series followed by John Sladek with a 464.

Swanson Gravel led by Fergie's 201-213-212-616 series took Lake Construction for 3 points. Stub followed with his 450 series. The poor Laker's again rolled over their average but only one point again. They have rolled over average almost all the second half but Lady Luck hasn't been with them. John was high with a 511 series. George followed with his 441 series.

Driver of the Year!

In behalf of the trucking industry—and the people of Michigan whose needs the industry serves — we salute Lawrence E. Durham, the Wolverine State's 1959 Driver of the Year! Mr. Durham, who drives for White Star Trucking, Inc., of Lincoln Park, has driven over 2,000,000 miles without a single chargeable accident—and half of this congested city driving . . . Married, the father of one son—who is also a truck driver—Mr. Durham has driven trucks for 30 years. He and eleven other truck drivers who competed for the number one honor have spent a combined total of 245 years driving 13,893,000 miles with only one very minor chargeable accident . . . No wonder they call them professional truck drivers!

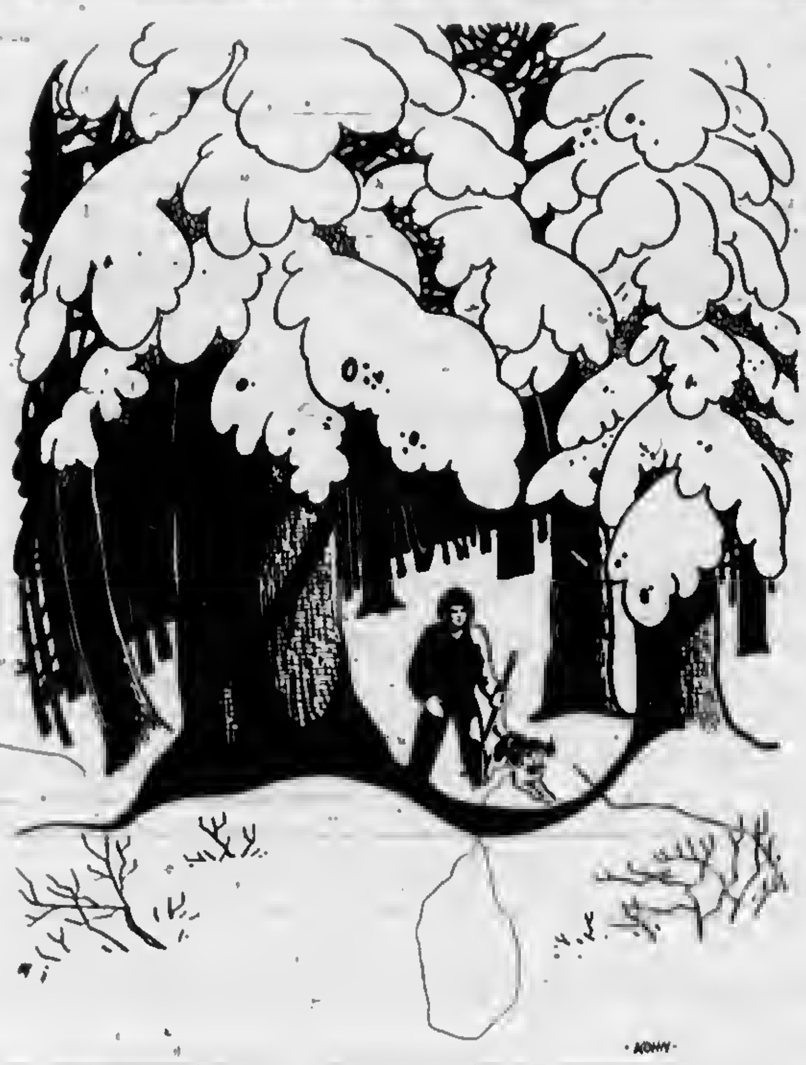
Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn



When the Insulation Is Removed

Why are children likely to be more mentally alive than are most adults? Could it be because they have not yet allowed their minds to become overlaid with thick insulation? Their awareness of the world about them has not been deadened by familiarity. Their curiosity has not yet been dulled by too much adult scoffing at childish questioning, and their capacity for wide-eyed wonder is not yet lessened by the busyness with little things that all too soon robs life of its luster.

Watch a boy and his dog walk through the wintry woods. They take time to dawdle and to investigate the sights, sounds, and smells that on every hand greet their senses. They trace a snowshoe rabbit's tracks across the white silences; they snap to attention at the cracking of a distant twig; they sniff and savor the frosty air. They are fully alive, and completely enchanted.

And when at the end of their sauntering they bound into the house the lad and his furry friend remain impressionable. There follows much exploration of pots and kettles on the cook stove, and a zestful scenting of their contents. They listen for clues that dinner is ready, and respond with delight to every word or gesture of affection. Their inner joy gets expressed in the boy's excited talk and the dog's glad wagging of his "happy ending." A little lad and his dog are open to the world. They sense their surroundings, and something of the abundance of life within them makes itself felt on the world about them. Their uninsulated condition makes it possible for a two-way current to flow from the world to them and from them into the world.

Children and their dogs teach us something of what we should be — uninsulated. If it is easy to disappoint them and make them sad, it is just as easy to make them happy. If they are quickly impressed by our harsh scoldings and punishments, they are as instantly responsive to our praise and kindness. This appreciation of the surrounding world, this openness to experience and free flow of good between the world that is without and the inner world is greatly needed today and it is a kind of childlikeness we must never lose. We become emotionally insulated at our own peril.

The spiritually healthy person does not feel less discouragement, less grief and pain than does his fellow men. He feels more — much more. He feels his own plus that of others around him because he is not insulated against their feelings by his own self-centeredness. He is open to their anguish. But while the vital person senses more of the world's trouble — that of others besides his own — he also feels more of the world's joy. His lack of selfish insulation leaves him open to the excitement and glory of another's achievement. He partakes of a neighbor's quiet pride in his home and of a friend's delights in his family. Another's gentle amusement becomes his own and he shares a smile or a laugh, and someone else's fervid hope for success becomes his own desire and he joins in another's prayer. The sound, prime, spirit is like an alert youngster walking in the woods. The boy is in the woods, but the woods is also in the boy. So with the fully alive soul. He is in the world, but the world of sorrows and joys, the world of man's need and God's power is in him, too.

The uninsulated person may not be beautiful but he can appreciate beauty; he may not be highly educated but he has an unstopped mind that is hospitable to information and ideas; he may not be great but he can expose himself to greatness, admire it, strive toward it and seek to emulate it. Very few people are absolutely vicious. Abysmal meanness is not the world's major evil. But too many of us are leading trivial lives so laden with the mediocre that the best cannot get through to us and so encrusted with narrow self-interest that the best cannot find its way out of us. We are far "too busy" to read the great books and the Holy Book, to listen to the finest music, to absorb the glories of nature, to become slowly saturated with enriching friendships, and to be host to the Great Companion. And we are so stiffened by fear that our spiritual resources are running low that little of our meager concern for the world and love for others can be expressed.

We need to strip ourselves of our "civilized" insulation that we may feel the electric surge of God's world moving in upon us, and that the world might sense the response of our souls to its need.

Census Takers Start County Canvass Friday

The 1960 Census of Population and Housing will be underway Friday morning when 15 enumerators under the direction of the Charlevoix county group leader, Dawson Way, start counting noses. Enumerators assigned to canvass every dwelling in the city of Charlevoix are Mrs. George (Shirley) Lusk, Mrs. S. E. (Marjorie) Coleman and Rev. L. L. Lewis.

Three enumerators have been assigned to Boyne City and two to East Jordan. The other seven have been assigned to the townships in the county. Mrs. William (Bertha) Parson will cover Norwood, Marion and Charlevoix townships. Mrs. Dale (Marilyn) Boss has been assigned Hayes and Bay townships.

Residents of the area can speed up the count by having their Advance Report Forms filled out and ready for the census taker. This action will save time for both the householder and the census taker, Mr. Way said. These forms have been distributed to all residents in the county.

Enumerators attended a four-day training course at the Charlevoix county court house this week. They have taken the oath of secrecy and will ready Friday morning to join the 160,000 census takers in contacting every dwelling unit in the United States. All information about individuals and their homes furnished to census takers is held in absolute confidence under federal law. It is used only to provide figures such as totals, averages and percentages. The information about individuals cannot be furnished to anyone other than sworn census employees and can not be used for investigation, taxation or regulation, District Supervisor Stewart T. Moran points out.

All enumerators are provided with a red, white and blue identification card to be worn on the lapel. The card bears the seal of the Department of Commerce and printed across the face are the words "Census Enumerator, Official Credential." Persons purporting to be census takers who do not have this identification card should be reported to the District Census Office, 101 E. Portage, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The decennial count this year will cover the 50 states of the Union, about 3½ million square miles of land area. It is estimated the combined distance to be traveled by the census takers will total 28 million miles or 1,000 times around the world. It is expected the enumerators will have their work completed in three or four weeks.

Bids on a [illegible] for use by the city superintendent and police department were opened and examined. The bids, received from Brown Motors, Charlevoix Oil, Northern Auto and Uhrick Pontiac, were turned over to the City Superintendent for tabulation.

Deputy City Clerk Herbert Campbell was designated as street administrator to handle any comunications and other papers passing between the city and State Highway Department.

An election board was named for the forthcoming General Election Monday. Members are: Helen Meggison, June Heise, Henrietta Gill, Grace Geneit, Edna LaBlance, Vivian Trimble, Edna Miller, Billie Smith, Katherine Donaldson and Herbert Campbell.

Judge Downs Is Representative To Youth Conference

Probate Judge William T. Downs left Sunday to attend the "White House Conference on Children and Youth." He was selected by Goveroor Williams to represent 10 northern Michigan counties. President Eisenhower is honorary chairman of the conference and was the principal speaker at the opening session Sunday night of the week-long meeting.

The youth conferenee was established in 1909 and has been held each decade since that time for the purpose of appraising the impact of modern living on young people and to discuss ways in which parents, schools, churches and community institutions are meeting, or failing to meet, the real need of the nation's children.

Some 7,000 civic leaders, educators, clergymen, social workers and young people, including delegations from 54 foreign countries are expected to participate in the conference.

State Collects 35 Cents Extra on License Plates

Motor vehicle licensing offices in all 83 counties in Michigan began collecting an additonal 35 cents on each registration under a license plate reflectorization law passed by the 1959 legislation which became effective Friday.

As the law now stands it is mandatory for branch managers to collect this additional fee on all passenger, commercial including pick-ups, farm commercial, half-year commercial, stickers except those issued for trailers, motorcycles and transfers involving these vehicles.

Further information regarding the new ruling may be obtained at the branch office of the Secretary of State operated here by George A. LaBlance.

No Inductees to Be Called in May

Sen. Andrews Is Candidate For 7th Term

State Senator Frank Andrews of Hillman, completing his twelfth year in the upper chamber of the Legislature, announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for a seventh term. He represents the 29th Senatorial district, the largest in the state geographically which includes a tier of seven counties extending from Lake Huron on the east to Beaver Island on the west.

The Senator was stricken by illness during the long fight against the income tax last year. He says his health is now improved and he has been on the floor constantly since the 1960 session started last January.

He is one of four senators with more than 10 years of service and is chairman of the municipalities committee controlling all legislation affecting cities and villages. He also has served as president pro-tem.

One of his outstanding achievements was his successful fight for an act permitting departmental consolidation by decree of the governor with either branch of the legislature having the power of veto. The plan was devised during the time he headed the "Little Hoover" committee.

There are no restrictions for legal loads on those trunklines designated as 'all season' trunklines.

First Maple Sap Run of Season Started Tuesday

It's sugar bush time in Charlevoix!

Sunny skies and temperatures near the 60 degree mark Tuesday set the maple sap to running into the more than 1,000 shiny buckets which hang on the more than 800 sugar maple trees bordering the city streets. The trees were tapped earlier in anticipation of the maple sap season.

The Sugar House located in the block between Clinton and Mason sts. was a beehive of activity late Tuesday afternoon and evening and hundreds of gallons of the sweet sap was collected by Charlevoix Boy Scouts for the 'boil down' which will result in gallons of golden syrup.

The first 'boil down' officially launched the second annual Maple Syrup Festival in Charlevoix. The official observance of the festival, however, will be held during Michigan week in May.

The maple syrup making project is sponsored by the Kiwanis club to assist the local Boy Scout troops. The Scouts assist with the entire operation and benefit from the proceeds. This year the Girl Scouts will assist with the bottling of the syrup for the first time.

Edward K. Shanahan, who for years operated his own 'sugar bush' at Birchwood Ranch is in charge of the event.

Contest for Treasurer Indicates Large Vote In Monday Election

A contest for the office of city treasurer promises to bring out the largest vote in recent years in the General Election Monday.

Hawley, and supervisor, Ivan Phillips; second ward: alderman, Kenneth A. Staley and supervisor, T. R. Miller; third ward: alderman Jack Grubaugh, and supervisor, Harry Gebeau.

For those who will be unable to visit the polls Monday for some reason, applications for absent voters ballots may be obtained and absent voters ballots cast until 2 p.m. Saturday. These may be obtained at the office of the city clerk.

Around Town

The hungry people of our fair city should, for the most part be well fed after the Mt. McSauba Feed. Such a mob! and such Food!

That was some wind we had last week—a few business places around town suffered slight damage, but we sure had a flock of happy skiers they were looking for a couple of weeks of extra skiing, seems Sunday's thaw dampened their spirits.

For all you people who have been saying this is the worst March ever, you're right. According to the Weather Bureau files, it's the coldest March since 1872 and that was the first year they kept records.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

A Prayer of Thanks At Winter's End

God of all seasons,
God of all time and of eternity,
As the great earth swings on its trunnions,
Until the North is brought face to face with the life-giving sun,
I thank Thee for the return of spring

Hear my thanks
For every hopeful sign of change,
For every cheerful sight
That greets my winter-weary eyes;
For swelling buds, on barren limbs, that bear promise of new life;
For cheerful sun that brightens bleak and leaden skies;
For longer days and shorter nights;
For tulips that kindle April and banish winter from the heart;
For these springtime joys that gladden sight I thank Thee.

For the sounds of spring's return I thank Thee:
The crow's call; the jay's chatter;
The woodpecker's drumming and the first robin's trill;
The spring peepers' anthems chanted from the marsh;
The rain's faint patter;
The warm wind's whisper;
The stream's gay laughter;
For all the joyful songs of living things,
Thy name be praised!

For the flavor of spring on my tongue,
And for the taste of spring to my mind,
I thank Thee:
For sunlight and moisture converted to food;
For the sirupy goodness of the maple's amber juice:
For refreshing sips of water from the new-unlocked stream;
For savor of sassafras shoot and spicebush twig;
For all the sweetness and the tang
Of the rich, green world
That Thou hast long-since made,
And now dost make anew,
I thank Thee

For spring perfumes, I praise Thee:
For pungent scent of moisture-laden leafy mold;
For fragrance of lilacs in the warming sun;
For incense of blazing daffodil and hyacinth
Wafted by wandering breezes;
For every floating essence of spring the moving air brings my way,
I thank Thee.

For every touch of spring I feel,
Accept my praise, O God:
For the soft, goodbye caress of winter's last snowflake upon my cheek;
For the fall of spring's first jeweled drop of rain upon my sleeve;
For mists that gently bathe earth's children in exciting vapors;
For warmth that moves across the land
Lately hurt by wintry blasts;
For every springtime miracle that beckons to me,
Seeking my notice and Claiming my wonder,
I thank Thee.

For sights and sounds, for tastes and smells and touches of spring;
For its zestful youthfulness,
Its promise,
Its mystery and wonder
I praise Thee,
O Creator and sustainer of life.

Now, in these days of great, deep stirring,
In these glory-filled moments of elemental change,
Stir and change me, too, O God,
That all hidden good which is merely seed
May soon blossom and bear fruit before Thy face.
—AMEN—

High Team Game — Steve's Bar 957.

High Team Series — Browe's Electric 2693.

High Game — Ted Browe 229.

High Series — Ted Browe 811.

Moonlight rolled tonight, but couldn't handle Freedman No. I. John Swanson was high for Freedman but was still 3 pins under average with his 529. Jess had a 477, Cal 479, George McWaters 431. For Moonlight Big Jim came back to lead his boys with a 507 series followed by Doc with a 498. Sgt. had a 122 first game.

Neff Grocery rolled into a tie for first place tonight by taking 4 points from Puff's. Bob Livingston was high for Neff's with a 527 series, Gordon 515 and Big with 514. Coach Terry took the honors for Puff with his 568 series, Puff had high game with a 202 third game 520 series. Ron Wojan bowled the first game but came up lame and had to set out the last two.

Steve's Bar couldn't handle Browe Electric so we came out on the short end of a 3 to 1 whipping. For Browe's Max Moore really blew a fuse and rolled a 502 series, his lifetime high. Ted also rolled his high series with a 211-171-229 — 611 series. John Sladek also made his presence known by rolling his first 502 series in quite a few weeks. For Steve's Meg rolled a 204-566 series followed by Ken with a 212-562. Ted had a 224 but also a 138 game so his total was only 518. O'Rile had a 516 series.

Freedman No. II and Lake Construction battled it out for a 2-2 split. High game between the two was a 188 by Les Smith and low game a 108 by Don Trowbridge. Les was high for the No. II with his 488. Harry next with a 486. Hal was high for his crew with a 453 series followed by John with 449.

United Farm took it on the chin for 1 point from Central Drugs. They had a new man tonight (George Goike) who rolled a 202-487 series, but Ed took the high honors by one pin with his 488 series. For Central, Al Bergmann set a new record with his second game. He rolled 77 pins. Frank Ochs was high for Central with a 220-476 series, followed by Keith with his 478 series.

Airport Inn and Swanson Gravel were gentlemen tonight and split 2-2. Swanson's won the first game and total pins, Airport took the 2nd and 3rd game. Al Anderson was high for Airport with his 571 followed by Hank with a 527 series. Stub led his boys with a 490 series. Fergie followed with a 480. Dave Miller started out like a house all afire the first game with a 200, but the debil stepped in and he had a 113-118 following.

A word to the (farsighted) readers who read last week's bowling news. Nick had a 129-157-106 392 series. This week he rolled a little better, he had a 120-150-150 —420 seri(ous), this is quite a change after rolling so long in the 300's.

There is still five weeks of bowling left, anything can happen. Let's hope its all for the best. Two fellows were sidelined tonight with back trouble, LV Miles and Bob Miller hope to have them back for next week's bowling.

John Slade wanted it known that he left Nick behind tonight by 82 pins. They have a little battle going on.

20 Scholarships Offered at NCMC

The deadline for filing applications for the 20 scholarships now being offered by North Central Michigan College in Petoskey is April 15, Dean A. D. Shankland has announced.

Most of the scholarships are one-half annual tuition or about $100 each. The scholarships have been made available by service clubs, individuals, businesses and other organizations throughout the area served by the college and are available to students from any high school in this area.

Application blanks are available at high school principals' offices or at the college office in Petoskey.

In addition to these scholarships, there are many other sources of financial aid for students attending college, Mr. Shankland said.

At the present time, there is $2,000 in the National Defense Student Loan fund and the H. Carl Spitler Student loan fund available to send year students at the college.

The college is approved by the Veterans Administration for training of veterans; war orphans may also receive financial aid while attending this college.

For people with physical disabilities, the Michigan Department of Vocational Rehabilitation will furnish aid in the form of tuition grants to attend the college. Four such students have attended the college on aid from this source this year.

Additional information regarding these sources of assistance may be obtained at the college office.

Cornet Duet Wins First Division Rating in Ensemble

A cornet duet composed of Evelyn Peters and Gary Chew and accompanied by Marilou VerWys, all members of the Charlevoix high school band, earned a coveted first division rating in the State Solo and Ensemble Festival held in East Lansing Saturday under the sponsorship of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, according to their director, C. A. Odmark.

Other participants won second and third division ratings.

The oboe duet composed of Marilou VerWys and Richard Odmark and the woodwind quintet of Sandra Toumela, flute, Richard Odmark, oboe, Marilyn Novak, clarinet, Robert Odmark, French horn and Judy Koteskey, bass clarinet, earned II ratings which denote good performances but with minor flaws which would keep them out of the top bracket.

The clarinet quartet composed of Lynette Mayne, Betty Stoel, Sharon Abfalter and Sharon Cunningham received a III rating as did the brass sextet of Gary Chew and Evelyn Peters, cornets, Kathy Boss, horn, Jack Stewart, baritone, Georgia LaBlance, trombone and Bruce Kroll, bass.

In commenting on the trip, Mr. Odmark said the participants agreed that it was an enlightening and challenging experience.

Housing Needs Are Increasing In Charlevoix

If you have an apartment or house you would like to rent or sell, you are advised by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce to list the unit with a local real estate agent.

The Chamber of Commerce is not in the real estate business but it does receive many inquiries regarding housing of all kinds which are refered to the five real estate agencies in town, Paul Kohler, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce said.

At the present time there is great need for all types of housing so those persons wishing to rent or sell are urged to list their units with the agencies.

Right now there is need of several modern, unfurnished homes, preferably one-level units, Mr. Kohler said. If you have such a house you would like to rent or lease you are advised to contact the Chamber of Commerce to notify them of the situation and then list it with an agency which can handle the transaction.

'Emerald Isle' Opens Ferry Service to Beaver Island

The ferry, "Emerald Isle" of the Beaver Island Boat Co. made its first trip Wednesday according to James W. Gallagher, local manager for the company.

The ship opened the navigation season between the mainland and Beaver Island 18 days earlier than last year when heavy ice conditions kept the Emerald Isle in the local harbor until April 25.

The C. G. cutter Sundew broke ice in the harbor at St. James two weeks ago thus making it possible for the ferry to open its season at this early date.

A large load of freight, furniture, four cars and other supplies as well as mail were included in the boat's first trip since Dec. 31.

Since the first of the year all passengers, mail and supplies have been transported by air by the McPhillips Flying Service operated by Joseph McPhillips.

Thirty Minutes From Annihilation

How many of us could survive for the next couple of weeks if right now we had just thirty minutes to seek shelter from atomic bomb fallout? Civil Defense can't provide safety for each family. It can only offer general plans which the individual must alter to fit his particular situation. The importance of saving the civilian population in the event of attack is pointed out in the followng editorial in the Santa Rosa, California Press Democrat of Feb. 26.

"Awarding a government contract for construction of a demonstration Civil Defense fallout shelter in Santa Rosa — one of 50 which will be built in each of these United States — is far more serious business than you may imagine.

"Nobody seems to be doing much shouting about it, but the grim truth is that the best guarantee that nobody in this country will ever have to seek shelter from atomic bombs is for the population to have shelter ready."

The editorial adds that Russia and the United States apparently have reached a stalemate on weapons capability, with either nation in a position to attack or retaliate, and continues:

"But from the standpoint of being able to survive such an initial attack, Russia's position is far superior to that of the U. S." because industry is better dispersed and the population has fallout shelters and is trained to use them. Concludes:

"The cold fact, however, is that so few people in this country have taken any precautions against atomic fallout danger that, while we have the military power to retaliate, we might suffer such a tremendous civilian death toll that we would not have the civilian capaciy for sustained resistance to the enemy.

"Wars are not necessarily won by machinery, important as it is. They are won by people — living people, who continue to fight. Wars are won when an entire nation is either reduced to destruction, or has lost its will to resist. And that's exactly why the best guarantee that fallout shelters will never be needed in this country is for the individual families to asume the indivdual responsibility of seeing that their homes are thus protected."

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Before The Curtain Rises

Too often we are like latecomers entering the theatre during the second act of a stage play: we miss the beginnings and rob ourselves of the full flavor of the drama.

This is true in our observance of nature. We are inclined to notice spring-time only when it is well along, when tassels of silvery pussy willows suddenly appear by ditches filled with melting snow; when the first April robins brace themselves on our lawn against the resisting struggle of earthworms, and when marsh hawks return from the South; when the white trillium unfurls and nods in moist May breezes, and spring peepers chorus in the swamp; when smelt "run" in rivers and streamlets and baby raccoons awkwardly scramble down from their lofty cradles in hollow trees. Then spring is plainly here.

But the first act of spring starts many weeks earlier. It opens while snow lies inches thick upon the North, before antlers are shed by the last procrastinating buck deer, while dark limbs of the hardwoods are still naked. Tender twigs of ground shrubs then bear buds, prophetic of next summer's green leaves. Then the deep silences of evergreen forests are stirred by the wierd wooing calls of courting barred owls who are among the first of the bird kingdom to sense the approach of the nesting season. Under the wood's coverlet of snow the first delicate, pale blossoms of hepatica cautiously begin to open. Now, in the second week of April, the plot of Spring is well developed. But the observer who first notices spring's arrival now is late in coming to the drama. We are already in the second act.

One of the chief handicaps of being a city dweller is that one seldom sees anything at its beginning. Almost everything comes to a city person in a late stage of development. He rarely sees raw material. His is a world of finished products. City people eat bread, potatoes and beef like the rest of us. But how many urbanites arrive at the play of natural forces before the first act begins, when the plow is set deep into the good earth and the long straight furrows are formed, and the wheat that is to become bread is sown? Or how many know what it means to plant potatoes and nurse along the vines and protect them from insect pests until the hidden tubers are ripe for digging? How many have studied the breeding of good beef cattle, planned the matings of cow with bull for improvement of the stock, or attended the birth of a hereford calf that one day will feed a hungry Detroit family and be converted into their flesh and blood? Creation is more than the country man's natural environment: creation is his business. He must be present at the beginning of things.

There is something elemental and indescribably satisfying to being aware of beginnings. I'm sorry for the people who never arrive on the scene in time for the first act — the folks who get their dogs half-grown and never knew them during clumsy puppyhood; the people who arise when the morning is half gone and rarely see a dawning and the first twenty minutes of a day; the many who can never appreciate budding possibilities in children that throng our streets, but who can only recognize greatness when it has obviously arrived at ripe maturity. The late-comers miss more than half the fun.

An eye for beginnings is a mark of wisdom and goodness. The wise man reflects on what he is tempted to say before it is said. The foolish man reflects on what has already spoken. The wise man sees the harsh deed budding in his rising temper and checks it. The foolish spends much of his life cleaning up the messes he has made with his passions.

One of the best ways to avoid moral downfall is to recognize the weed of evil while it is a little sprout, and root it up. How many moral collapses could be avoided if the victims would have seen what was coming before the tragedy was in its last stages! The adolescents who engage in "heavy petting" but do not intend to "go all the way," the politicians who think they must promise almost anything to get votes, although they intend to avoid political corruption, the employee who thinks he can compromise his moral standards in the slightest degrge in order to make an advancement in his firm —although he does not intend to become downright hypocritical, all need to remember that he who does not take the first step in the wrong direction cannot take the last one. As Shakespeare cautioned, "Loo to the budding mischief before it has time to ripen into maturity."

Life is a Broadway, with many dramas, good and bad, opening and closing all around us. Elemental to our Christian faith is the belief that, if we will have it so, the present moment is the beginning of a new play. Do we want to be better than we are although our past has been sullied with sin? What's the use? Well, under God, the old tragedy can end and a new drama can be enacted. The curtain can rise on a new beginning. Bishop Bruce Baxter once told of a teacher asking a class of children, "How many of you can name the four main points on the compass?" A little lad responded, "Excuse me, teacher, but the compass has five chief points." The teacher replied, "Now I always thought there were only four, but if there are five, you name them." The youngster said, "North and South, East and West, and the place where you are right now." And the last is as important a point as you will find on the compass. It is the place of beginning again. Dissatisfaction, regret and penitence may be "where you are right now" but they are the commencement of change. No noble living starts with radiant character and gracious deeds. They come in the second act. At the beginning is the desire to be better. And most of us have that. And we know the One who makes the best Director, and who should "call the changes."

Then — on with the play!

The word "mushing," which refers to traveling over the snow with sledge dogs, is an English corruption of the French "marchons" (let us march). Early French Canadian woodsmen used the command in the sense of the English "giddap."

Suddenly It's Spring!

Spring is the revolving door of the year. A season of beauty in a hurry. Since a revolving door is no place to stop and think-about fashion or anything else — it's the time for impulsiveness; a time to push right on through to color on a "love-at-first-sight" basis.

It's the most colorful fashion season in a decade. Take a plunge with an open mind—forget old color taboos — and begin with the greatest morale builder of all time. — "A New Hat."

WORKINGS of the Legislature seem strange to the casual visitor, but there is really much more organization than appears superficially.

For example, on March 9, a deadline when all bills introduced had to be acted upon by the appropriate committee or be automatically dropped from consideration, some 450 bills out of the 797 introduced died. And while there were undoubtedly some worthy proposals in the group which died, it is a safe bet that many of the 450 never had a chance to become law and should have stayed in committee.

MOST CONTROVERSIAL of the bills not reported was the Civil Rights legislation. This died in the House State Affairs Committee when Chairman Lloyd Gibbs, Portland Republican, simply did not appear for a meeting the afternoon of March 9. While it is possible for the House to bring an unreported bill to the floor, such a parliamentary maneuver has taken place only twice in Michigan's history. In the case of civil rights and from a practical standpoint, it is likely that the bill would not pass the Senate even if it did clear the House.

WHY ARE BILLS left in committee? Several reasons.

One is lack of time. If a committee has a large number to consider, it is just impossible to consider them all.

A second reason might be called political expediency. When a legislator is pressed to introduce a bill by a constituent, it is easier to agree than to refuse. So he introduces the bill knowing full well it will go and stay in a committee.

A lesser understood situation is demonstrated this year in conservation matters. There was a very controversial bill to prevent the harvesting of does and fawns. It died in committee.

At least one other bill which concerned harvesting of wild life was purposely held in committee because of a legislative rule which permits amendments to a bill so long as it concerns the same general subject. So the committee did not report out a bill which would have permitted the taking of black squirrels in three counties for fear a floor fight would develop from an attempt to amend it by stating that anterless deer could not be killed.

COMMITTEE chairmen are subject to considerable pressure to report out certain bills while there is still time to do so. Rep. Gibbs, incidentally, is well known for his negative reaction to such pressures. He considers any approach by a group or even individual who does more than explain the facts of a proposal as unfair pressure and resents such action. He is considered a blunt, tenacious, even stubborn, man who speaks his mind and then does what he says.

It came as no surprise to Capitol observers that a demonstration in force, no matter how orderly or what the issue, failed to force Gibbs to favorable action.

THERE VIRTUALLY is no end to bills which could be passed if there were no deadlines, so perhaps the public should be content with the ones that get considered rather than the ones which died. There are those, it should be noted, who consider there are already too many laws.

A ONE MAN BATTLE is underway to change the mortgage laws of Michigan. Protagonist is Lansing mortgage banker, William H. Sill, who says that present laws constitute the major reason it is so hard to get a mortgage in this state.

"The present law is so terrible," says Sill, "that four major insurance companies who finance homes on a large scale will not even operate in Michigan."

"MORE BENEFIT than 100 new industries, would be a sensible mortgage law," he argues. "This would make available millions more which could be lent to our citizens," he states.

"Overnight several very desirable things would happen if the state had a sensible law: interest rates would be reduced; property prices would drop; discounts which must now be paid by a seller would lessen or disappear; real estate activity would increase."

BIG TROUBLE with present law is that it takes 16 to 18 months to foreclose. Sill favors a shorter period: four to six months. "It is possible, and it actually happens," says Sill, "for a buyer to thumb his nose at the lender and pay nothing for nearly two years while he lives in a house." "You can imagine the kind of care the house gets," he continues. In the meantime the lender must pay insurance and taxes to protect what is left of the investment.

"IF A PERSON cannot pay and is going to lose his house," Sill argues, "it is better to get it over with." He believes that once a person is four months behind in mortgage payments, he is not likely to catch up.

"Protecting the ne'erdowell or the unfortunate does him no real good, but puts the lender at an unfair advantage," says Sill. "Most of all, it forces all the people who should be eligible for low cost mortgage to pay higher rates."

PRESENT LAW forces buyers to accept land contracts with higher interest and less security than mortgage, and prices that are artificially high to allow for discounts. Even the federal government specifies a discount rate ½ to 1% higher in Michigan than other states, according.

Sill gets little support. Banker and real estate groups are not inclined to get excited about this, and legislators tell him the change is not good politics. But Sill says he'll keep speaking at lunch clubs, before trade groups and to whom ever will listen.

Law Prohibits Coloring Chicks

Easter chicks or ducklings that are colored in gay hues may be novel and attractive, but they are not legal in Michigan, according to Director G. S. McIntyre of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Under state law it is unlawful to sell artificially colored animals. Included are baby chicks, rabbits, ducklings or other fowl or game which may have been dyed or otherwise artificially colored.

Lt. (j.g.) Benjamine Beach of Beverly, Mass., contacted relatives here including his mother-in-law, Mrs. Victor Douglas, while on a trip to Michigan last week. The serviceman who at one time was stationed here with the U. S. Coast Guard flew to Traverse City to ferry a plane to the east coast and while in the area called briefly on relatives here.

With only four weeks left to bowl, the race is still going on. Tonight was a bad night for the top teams (Neffs & Moonlight) who both dropped four to their opponents. Steve's won 2 to make it a 3-way tie for first place.

Steves team came out with a 2-2 split with a determined Freed-No, I tonight. We lost the last game by one pin. Everyone bowled over their average with the exception of John who was 22 pins under average. For Steves Meg led the parade with a 215-573 series followed by O'Riles 525, Ken's 516, Ted's 513 series. For Freedman's Cal had a 200-561 series followed by John's 509 series. Jess rolled 64 pins over his average.

Moonlight just didn't have it tonight so they lost four points to Browes. Grover was high with his 484 series. Big Jim was next with his 200-468 series. L. V. had

122 - 112 - 160 — 394

(Doctor's orders: Large type for LV's series.) For Browe's Ted had a 536 series, Max and Bill both had 504 totals. That Max Moore sure is red hot, this is his second night with over 500. "Poor Moonlight."

Neff also ran up a stump tonight when Airport Inn took four points from them. Dave Clark led the way for Airport with a 202-245-600 series. Hank followed with his 541 series. Nick finally got over the 400 mark with his 446 series. That's 2 pins over his average. For Neff's Bernie led the way with his 525 series and then came Big with a 490.

Puffs made their move up the ladder by taking 3 points from Swanson Gravel. Ron Wojan had a 211-517 series followed by Lemcke's 202-513 and Terry's 504. Fergie led the way for Swanson's with his big 455 series. Stub next with a 401.

Freedman No. II took three points from Central Drugs. Harry was high with his 516 followed by Gene Bergmann with a 442 series, For Central Keith had a 525 series, Al followed with a 452 series.

Lake Construction finally got a break tonight and took 3 points from United Farm. Big John's 208-531 was high for the Construction crew, followed by Hal with a 466 series. George had a 200 second game. Ed Culbertson led the United team with his 474 series, Ken followed with a 426 series.

With a possible 10 points left in the second half eleven teams have a chance for first place. "Good Luck in the stretch fellows the team with the most points is bound to be the winner."

This is Our Michigan

BY WILLARD BAIRD

Any recital of Michigan's eminence demands mention of our Indian heritage.

Copper-hued warriors, trappers and hunters who roamed the Michigan wilderness long before the arrival of the first whites were well aware of the region's natural attractiveness which later appealed so strongly to French explorers.

They had named the area Mishigamaw — "Great Water."

Michigan was inhabited by Indian tribes long before Columbus discovered America in 1492. Evidence of mounds and garden beds and primitive copper mining in the Keweenaw peninsula and on Isle Royale attest to prehistoric Indian habitations.

Three great tribes once shared dominion over Michigan territory.

The Potawatomis were in control of most of southern Michigan below the Grand river . . . The Ottawas were in the upper half of the lower Peninsula . . . And the Ojibwas (also called Chippewas) dominated the upper peninsula.

Smaller tribes of Menominees, Hurons, Sauks, Miamis and Mascoutens occupied isolated villages throughout the vast Michigan territory.

For 155 years the French governors in North America, from their Quebec headquarters, ruled the territory which is now Michigan . . . proudly counting a growing number of white mission settlements, fur trading centers and military posts which their agents established.

Sault Ste. Marie came first in 1668 . . . then St. Ignace in 1671 . . . the tiny outposts at St. Joseph, Port Huron and Niles and Detroit in 1701.

Skirmishes between French and British, under way since 1689 led eventually to the First Treaty of Paris in 1703, giving England complete dominion over Michigan territory.

Toward the latter part of the eighteenth century another European power left a momentary imprint on Michigan history.

In 1781 a Spanish raiding expedition from the south seized the British fort at Niles, and the flag of Spain flew over that outpost for several days after the raiders withdrew.

Niles is today known as the City of Four Flags, the only spot in Michigan which has been under the flags of France, Great Britain, Spain and the United States.

Otherwise, the British Union Jack flew unchallenged over Michigan soil for 20 years until the Second Treaty of Paris in 1783, ending the Revolutionary War for American independence, ceded Michigan territory from Britain to the United States.

President Thomas Jefferson's choice to govern Michigan after it was accorded separate territorial status on June 30, 1805, was General William Hull, an easterner and a heroic figure of the American Revolution.

After Hull's ill-fated leadership of American forces in a short skirmish with British troops in the War of 1812 — during which he surrendered Detroit to the British — he was replaced on Oct. 13, 1813, by the younger and more vigorous Brig. Gen. Lewis Cass.

Largely because of the influence of General Cass, Michigan was ready for admission to the Union in 1837 — the 26th state, represented by the 26th star in the flag of the United States.

The young state chose 24-year old Stevens Thomas Mason for its first governor.

Actually, Michigan had itself adopted state government in 1835 when the first state constitution was ratified and state officers elected.

But southern antagonism in Congress toward accepting another non-slave state and a boundary dispute with Ohio over a strip of land five to eight miles wide between the two states delayed Michigan's entry into the Union until January 26, 1837.

The slavery issue was resolved by balancing the admission of Michigan as a free state with Arkansas as a slave state. Michigan lost the wedge-shaped boundary strip (including Toledo) to Ohio, but was compensated by Congress with a grant of the 16,538 square mile, heavily timbered upper peninsula with its later-found fabulous wealth of iron, copper and other minerals.

Mrs. Jerry Shupert holds e six-inch lake trout and with a quick snip clips the right reer ventrel fin. The trout is thus permanently marked end can be identified as one of the 1960 spring planting when eventually taken from the Great Lakes by fishermen.

Mark 90,000 Lake Trout for Release In Lake Michigan

More than 90,000 lake trout, hatched and reared at the National Fish Hatchery here, were fin marked last week in advance of their release in northern Lake Michigan waters the first part of May, according to J. G. Wege, manager of the local plant. It is all part of the program to restock the lakes with a fish that was once the mainstay of commercial fishing and an attractive prize for the deep sea anglers.

A crew of ten women were busy last week clipping off the right rear ventral fin of the 93,380 six-inch trout which will be a means of identifying the grown fish when they are taken by fishermen, thus furnishing valuable information to research workers in the restocking program. The fin is clipped in such a manner that it will never grow. Any trout taken in the future with this fin clipped and in this age group can be identified as one reared and released from this hatchery this year.

The clipping operation begins with scooping the fish out of the rearing tanks by dip net and placing them in small tanks from which the clippers take a few at a time by small nets and submerge them in a diluted solution of MS-222. In a matter of a few seconds the fish become inactive and easy for the operators to pick up and clip. They are then returned to the fresh clear water and almost instantly they dart away as lively as ever. Fatalities are negligible in the clipping operation. Only 45 fish out of the 90 some thousand died this year, Mr. Wege stated.

When conditions are right, probably early in May, the fish will be turned over to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries for release in northern Lake Michigan water. Locations for release will be determined by the available food supply and other factors favorable for continued growth.

How many will survive the first year is still somewhat of a guess but Mr. Wege points out that these fish are too small yet to be prey for the lamprey eel. They are canabalistic so the first year loss may be determined by the availeble food supply of small chubs and minnows. Those that do survive should average about 12 inches by next year.

When these trout are removed from the big rearing tanks they will be replaced by another 450,000 feeding fingerlings that were hatched out here in December and January. About 300,000 of these were hatched from spawn taken from inland lakes and 150,000 were furnished by the state of Illinois which is co-operating with other states bordering on the Great Lakes and Canada in the restocking program.

New Officer Takes Over

The Charlevoix Lifeboat Station has a new officer in charge.

He is Leo R. Norton, BMC, a veteran of 16 years in the U. S. Coast Guard, who arrived here recently from an isolated Loran station in the Philippines to take over his new assignment.

He succeeds Dellmar L. Reynolds, BMC who will depart later this month for Hawaii after serving as officer in charge of the local installation for the past 2½ years.

Mr. Norton, a native of Grand Rapids who was reared in Otsego county, comes to Charlevoix from Talampulan, a small island in the Philippines where he had served for the past year as a member of a crew of 14 men at the Loran station. Prior to going to the Pacific area he served at stations along Lakes Huron and Michigan including Thunder Bay island, Frankfort, South Manitou and Pentwater, at the Traverse City Air Station and aboard the ice breaker Mackinaw. He enlisted in the U. S. Coast Guard at Chicago in 1943.

His wife and their three children, Linda, 10, Michael, 6, and Laura Lee, 4, will join him here later this month. They lived in Gaylord while he was serving overseas.

Mr. Reynolds will remain on duty at the Lifeboat Station here until April 19 when he will depart on leave before reporting on the west coast June 3 for transportation to his new assignment. Mrs. Reynolds and their three children, Gladys, 7, Debra, 6, and Dellmar P., 4 will accompany him to Hawaii.

Mr. Reynolds' assignment to the 14th Coast Guard District with headquarters at Honolulu is his first overseas assignment since enlisting in the Coast Guard at Cincinnati in his native state of Ohio in 1943. He served at Sandusky, Ohio, aboard the cutter Mesquite and at White Shoals Light Station in Lake Michigan before taking charge of the Charlevoix Lifeboat station in August 1957.

MINUTES OF SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

March 21, 1960

Present: Smith, Lieberman, Freedman, Martin and Bennett, Supt. Absent: Boss.

The meeting was called to order at 8:17 p.m.

Minutes of the meeting of March 7 were read and approved.

Moved by Smith, supported by Freedman, that bills in the amount of $1,045.36 be approved and ordered paid. Motion carried: 4-0.

Mr. Frank Oleksy appeared for a discussion on clerk-of-the-works for the new high school.

The Board was reminded of the Citizens Conference on Education April 9, in East Lansing, and of the School Boards' meeting at Ann Arbor on March 31.

Members of the professional problems committee of the Charlevoix Teachers Club appeared before the Board and presented copies of suggested changes in the salary schedule for the coming year. A rather lengthy conference continued concerning the suggestions, and concerning the problems faced when such changes would be made. The suggested changes called for raising the schedule to a top of $5,700 annually for a person with a Bachelor Degree and $6,000 with a Masters Degree, and extension of the accumulative sick leave to 40 days.

The budget for the coming year was studied.

The plan for a meeting of the high school boards of education of the County, for April 28, was approved and the meeting planned for Charlevoix.

Mr. Freedman was appointed to arrange a meeting with the PTA Executive Committee for Monday night, March 28, to further plans for the coming year.

It was moved by Freedman and supported by Martin that the American Legion be offered the sum of $4,000.00 for clear title to the building and land now occupied by the American Legion, said land being that received by transfer from the Charlevoix School District; and furthermore, that the American Legion be permitted to retain ownership of the above said building, provided it be removed from the grounds by September 1, 1960. Motion carried: 4-0.

It was moved by Freedman, and supported by Smith, that the President of the Board be authorized to hire a man to make an appraisal of the so-called North Side school property. Carried: 4-0.

The meeting adjourned at 10:55 p.m.

ALBERT H. SMITH, Secretary.

Dear Dan: I'm 17 and a high school senior. A boy I like very much and who graduated last year, wants me to go steady. He's been asking me for about three months but I've always had excuses. My mother says I'll be making a big mistake to break away from all the other boys I know. I date several boys at the present time but the idea of going steady, which I've never done, sort of fascinates me. Besides, most of my girl friends have steadies. Do you think a high school senior, especially me, should date steady? — Wondering.

Dear Wondering: While I'm opposed to younger-age teenagers dating steady, there's nothing wrong with high school seniors doing it. At their age, they should be capable of making the right decision. However, your mother has a sound argument. When a girl begins dating one boy exclusively, she does take herself out of date circulation. Not only that, but she may lose some of her girl friends. You'll find you'll be unavailable for a lot of enjoyment you now take for granted.

Don't go steady with this boy because the idea appeals to you or because your girl friends have steadies. Another problem you have to consider is your immediate future. What if the boy goes into military service or away at college? What then? It's pretty tough going steady through the U. S. Mail. Think over all phases of the question before you take that big and important step.

Dear Dan: How can I break my boy friend of the very rude habit of sitting out in his car and blowing the horn for me when we have a date? It's getting so bad lately, he doesn't even get out of the car when he brings me home at night. — Judy T.

Dear Judy: Quit running out to the car when you hear the horn and that will solve Problem No. 1. Concerning Problem No. 2, your boy friend is either lazy, impolite or you've lost your charm. Which is it?

Dear Dan: My father and I are always arguing about the length of my hair. He wants me to get it cut short and says I look like a gangster because I wear it fairly long. I think a high school boy's hair is his own property, don't you? — Willie.

Dear Willie: You're right, your hair is your own property but if it's as long as I think it might be, I agree with your father that you should make a trip to the barber shop. You don't necessarily have to get your hair cut right down to the roots but why not try and meet your father halfway? Believe it or not, but most girls think boys look much neater with short hair than with hair that goes on and on in greasy waves.

Dear Dan: I'm in our local National Guard company and because I don't intend to start college until next year, want to take my six months of active Army duty now. My girl gets mad whenever we talk about this because she says she'll have nothing to do while I'm away. I realize that but I'm going to have to put in that time sooner or later and would rather get it over with now. But if I go away, I may lose my girl. What do you think I should do? — Stan.

Dear Stan: It's going to have to be your decision to make but I do know if I were in your place, I'd want to do the same thing you're thinking of doing. Your girl isn't being fair to you and should have realized a long time ago your National Guard duties would someday interfere with your social life. Ask her to be more understanding and if she can't, she may not be the girl for you.

Note: You can write your problem to "Under 21." Include a stamped, self addressed envelope for your reply.

The sparrow hawks name belies its nature. This handsome little bird rarely attacks sparrows or other birds, but lives largely on insects. Sparrow hawks often circle the edges of brush fires, catching insects flushed by the flames.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ...UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

Central Drug Posts Election Information

Complete registration and voting information for this area is posted in Harley & Frank Ochs' Central Rexal Drug Store.

Voters in this locality will find information there concerning who must register, where and when they must register and where they can vote. Mr. Ochs is providing this information as part of a national public service program by Rexall druggists.

"We have put up this bulletin board," Frank Ochs said, "because we want to make it easy for those who can vote to know how to go about it. People move, they become newly eligible or they want to exercise their voting privilege for the first time and often don't now the mechanics of voting."

"In the 1956 general election, only six out of every ten eligible voters in the nation actually voted — hard to believe in a democracy such as ours. Let's hope that percentage does not apply to our town this year."

Rexall pharmacists all over the country are posting voting information in their drug stores with the cooperation and backing of leading civic and political organizations. The Republican and Democratic parties, the American Legion, the League of Women Voters, and the American Heritage Foundation are all lending their support in this campaign by telling voters they can get the information at their nearby Rexall drug store.

Rexall drug stores are particularly suited to this purpose since there are over 10,000 of them, one within shopping distance of almost everyone.

Radioactivity Presents Peril

Radioactive fallout is a relatively new phenomenon — and it has added a new dimension to war as well as to the development of our national defense program.

When the fireball from a nuclear weapon touches the earth's surface, great masses of pulverized debris are sucked upwards. These minute particles, mixed with particles from the weapon itself, will be intensely radioactive. They may ascend into the stratosphere as high as 16 or more miles above the earth's surface. Eventually, however, the forces of wind and gravity will bring this dust-like debris, bearing its deadly radiation, back upon the earth. This is fallout.

Fallout, when it returns to earth, may appear as dust particles. Most often the particles will be too small to be seen. Moreover, the radiation borne by the fallout is invisible and odorless. It cannot be seen, tasted or felt. It is a silent killer. It can be deadly externally; it is even more likely to be lethal if the fallout particles are inhaled or eaten with one's food.

No one can predict exactly where or when the fallout will occur. This will depend on the site of the bomb bursts, the height of the explosion, the weather at the time, the size and weight of the radioactive particles, the strength and direction of the winds, and a number of other factors.

What can be predicted with certainty, however, is that, in the event of a major nuclear attack on the U. S. every village, city and farm will be threatened by fallout. The most intense radiation from fallout may occur as many as 75 miles away from the bomb burst; and radiation of fatal intensity can be expected largely downwind, but following no particular pattern — hundreds of miles away from the initial blast.

It is appallingly clear that an attack with a number of nuclear weapons of high power (millions of tons) on any part of the U. S. may blanket regions many miles from the target area with a lethal coat of radiation. What is also terribly clear is that, without protection from fallout, the death toll from radiation can be several times greater than the total deaths attributable to the blast and heat of the bursting weapons.

But protection can be had. It is possible for each of us to provide our own protection in our own homes. The cost is little more than what we spend for far less vital items — $100 to $500, depending on how much of the work you can do yourself in constructing a home fallout shelter. Stocking the shelter would cost little more — enough water and food for a two week period — and sanitation methods.

Board of Supervisors Elect Ivan Phillips; Committees Named

Ivan A. Phillips was elected chairman of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors by a 20 to 5 vote when this organization convened at the county building here Tuesday for its 92nd annual session.

He succeeds Russell L. Curtis who had served as chairman for the past four years.

Lewis B. Davis of Boyne City was elected vice chairman.

Following the election of a chairman, new committees were appointed (see below).

At the afternoon session Tuesday, Mayor E. James Hiller, City Attorney Norman Ance and Alderman Richard Donaldson appeared before the board to present the city's proposed annexation of city-owned property located in Charlevoix township. The property involved includes a section of the former golf course located east of Mercer Blvd. and that section of the airport located in the township. The subject was discussed briefly by the board and tabled until a later date.

On Wednesday the board was to hear reports from various offices and agencies which receive funds from the county. These offices and agencies were also to present their tentative budgets for 1961.

Because of Holy Week, the board was to adjourn Wednesday for the weekend and return to complete the session's business at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Mr. Phillips said Wednesday noon.

The newly appointed committees follow:

Equalization: Clarence F. Rabacb of Charlevoix township; Apportionment, Theodore R. Miller of Charlevoix; Advertising, Clyde Warner of Norwood township; Settlement with County Treasurer and Rejected and Charged-Back Taxes, Lloyd McDonough of St. James township; Civil Defense, Hugh Graham of South Arm township.

Ways and Means: Officers Salaries, William D. Taylor of East Jordan; Appropriations, Russell L. Curtis of Marion township; Resolutions, Harry Gebeau of Charlevoix; Finance, Lee Sneathen Jr. of Hayes township; Printing, Don Kondziela of Melrose township.

Welfare: County Welfare, Joseph Topolinski of Boyne Valley township; Child Guidance, Wm. Jenkins of Hudson township; District Health Unit; Leonard B. Nelson of Evangeline township.

Miscellaneous: County Roads, Ben Gardner of Boyne City; Veterans' Affairs, William Schmidt of Peaine township; Ironton Ferry, Henry Lamb of Boyne City; Agriculture, William M. Sanderson of Eveline township and Conservation, Leonard Cosier of Wilson township.

Special Committees: New Grandvue Medical Care Facility building committee: Mr. Barnett, chairman, Mr. Milstein, Mr. Miller, Mr. Curtis, Mr. Warner, Mr. Phillips and Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk.

Industrial Development committee: Mr. Rabach, chairman, Mr. McDonough, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Kondziela, Mr. Bathke.

Two new supervisors were seated at the present meeting. They are Mr. Nelson who was elected to succeed the late Mrs. Louvina Lockman of Evangeline township and Harry Gebeau who was elected to succeed Jesse Smith who was not a candidate for re-election in Charlevoix's third ward.

Mr. Bulow, by virtue of his office of county clerk, is also clerk of the board of supervisors.

Marilou VerWys to Visit Europe on Teen-age Program

Marilou VerWys, Charlevoix high school senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe VerWys, this week became the second local girl named to participate in the Teen-age Understanding program sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches this summer.

Ann Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Martin, was named earlier to take part in the program which includes eight weeks in Europe during which the partcipant lives with a western European family.

Marilou will join other Michigan youths in Detroit late in June for the trip via plane to the Netherlands from where the students will leave the group to join their respective 'families.' She will be informed later this spring where she will spend the summer and the name of the family with whom she will live.

She will return home late in August prior to going to Mt. Pleasant where she plans to attend Central Michigan College to study languages.

Marilou, who is 17, has varied interests which should make her an excellent "ambassador of goodwill." Her name has appeared regularly on the Honor Roll since it was established in the Charlevoix school system and she is a member of the Charlevoix chapter of the National Honor Society. She was a member of the casts of both the Junior and Senior Class plays and treasurer of the Spanish Club. She is a veteran of seven years in the 4-H program and last year was leader of two 4-H cooking clubs.

Her major interest, however, is in the field of music. In additon to being an accomplished pianist after studying for seven years with Mrs. Robert Wexstaff, she plays oboe in both the Charlevoix high school and the City bands and in 1958 was the recipient of the annual Interlochen scholarship which gives the winner two weeks at the National Music Camp as a member of the All-State band. She also played with the Michigan Honors Band composed of former students at the music camp. She also is a member of the Girls Glee Club.

She attends the First Baptist church where she teaches a Sunday scool class and plays the piano for the Sunday School department.

Lake Michigan Beaches Strewn with Fish

Michigan Conservation Department officials and Sheriff Glenn E. Rose (center) examine some of the thousands of small fish known as the alewife of the herring family which were washed ashore.

Examining the fish with Sheriff Rose are Louis Gray (left) assistant district supervisor of the Fish Division of the department who was called here from Gaylord.

Mr. Peterson said that there was no sure way of determining the cause of the mortality of the fish which ranged in size from two to five inches.

He added that the fish might have been trapped on a shoal or reef by ice and died of 'winter kill' or might have died as the result of a natural mortality which is sometimes found among smelt.

Commercial fishermen have since reported seeing many of the fish floating in various areas of Lake Michigan in recent weeks. Fox hunters who follow the shoreline while hunting also have reported seeing some of the fish at various times.

There were very few game fish such as perch, smelt or chubs found on the beach, Mr. Peterson said.

He explained that the fish, the alewife, was a small fish of the herring family that was a native of salt water but whihc had made way into the Great Lakes in recent years. He said they have no known value except as food for other fish.

The dead fish were first seen by Darrell Sommerville who saw them about dusk Sunday evening. His father, Robert Sommerville, reported it to the Sheriff's department Monday morning. Conservation Department officials were called in by Sheriff Rose.

A strong northwest wind over the weekend washed the fish onto the beach.

C. of C. Names Lieberman to Replace Hawley

E. D. Hawley has resigned as president of the Chamber of Commerce but has retained his place on the board of directors. Robert Lieberman has been elected by the board to head the organization.

At the time Mr. Hawley was elected president, he informed the board he could not accept the responsibility if the voters in the first ward elected him to represent them on the city council. He was unopposed in both the primary and general election.

The Chamber directors have been aware of the situation, realizing that there was little doubt about Mr. Hawley's election. Under these circumstances, Mr. Lieberman has assumed the responsibility in directing the 1960 program since the organizational meeting of the directors.

Directors, at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, approved the budget of $14,635. The adoption of the budget followed reports of the various committee chairmen and includes the costs of administration, advertising and promotions, and the staging of the Venetian Festival and other special events.

The greater portion of the budget must be obtained from membership dues and the finance committee, headed by William Carey, will begin a city-wide drive Monday for this year's membership. The committee and other members who will assist on the solicitation will meet at 4:30 p.m. today in the city hall to get final instructions, assignments and Chamber of Commerce kits which are to be given to each member.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

One Season Is Not Enough

April is a great month to celebrate Easter. Now Nature reminds us that all sepulchres are sealed in vain. What the glad gospel joyfully shouts concerning Christ's resurrection long ago is secretively whispered and subtly suggested now all across the North. The cold grip of ice on Lake Charlevoix's waters is broken. On southern slopes tender shoots of grass break through the frost. The creek overflows its snow-patched bank and skips, laughing and singing, on its way to the distant lake. Bursting buds proclaim the weakness of all bonds when April comes.

This is not just another April like the last. And this spring is more than a mere continuing of last summer's old forms of life. Nature is giving birth to new creatures that have been made ready in the silent womb of winter. Spring peepers that were last years pollywogs will soon sing from the marshes. Last autumn's mummy-like seeds will be this spring's sprightly flowers. Jacks-in the Pulpit in northern forests will preach new sermons to the greening glades. And even last month's newspapers, converted from last year's wood pulp, are transformed into this month's kites uplifted by damp breezes.

April is appropriate for Easter because the smell of thawing earth and blossoming twigs, the robin's and the thrush's call, distill a rich awareness of resurrection. The spendor of April is not in prolonging the visit of last year's graces but in the miracle of new life.

The message of Easter is not mere immortality — the infinite prolonging of such a life as we have here. Who wants that? In my brash youth I once thought that nearly everyone hoped to live forever. But with astounding suddenness I learned how mistaken I was. Speaking informally before a group of young people in a church where I was a guest, I began the discussion with a purely rhetorical question, "How would you like to live forever?" Expecting nodding afirmative agreement, I was convinced we would begin our thought with near unanimity. To my utter amazement my question met with a chorus of resounding "No's." Besides compelling me to do some rapid reshuffling of my plans for that particular speech, the response prompted me to revaluate what it is that people hope will be their experience after death. Because life was, for that moment, so good that I felt it could and should go on forever, was no evidence at all that everyone felt as I did — even those who were equally young.

Of course it does not take anyone long to discover that most people do not want a continued existence after death. Many would prefer utter annihilation to a further existence as they are now. They do not want their anxieties and discouragements, their proneness to sinning, their afflictions of the spirt to be stretched over an infinite future. They seek change, not continuance. What man hopes for and what the Christian faith proclaim is not prolonged existence but resurrection into a better life. In this spirit Ben Franklin composed an epitaph to be engraved upon his tombstone. It reads:

The Body of
Benjamin Franklin, Printer
(Like the cover of an old book,
Its contents torn out,
And stript of its lettering and gilding,)
Lies food for worms.
Yet the work itself shall not be lost,
For it will (as he believed) appear
once more,
In a new
And more beautiful edition
Corrected and amended
by
The Author.

Mere immortality is not enough. We only want to live on if we can live better. And it is an Eternal Life of fulfillment and growth that makes sense to us rather than either non-existence or simply a continued existence.

To know that last year's seeds are fulfilled in this year's flowers; that last spring's inch-long rainbow parr will be this spring's fingerling trout; that last summer's fledging tanagers will be this summer's nest-builders, and then to believe that the destiny of man is death without fulfillment of his latent God-given possibilities to see the universe as extremely silly. Such a universe would complete its lesser creatures and throw away its masterpieces half-done.

There is much within man that requires more than one season's growth, much that needs transplanting into a roomier, more beneficient Climate. Our imperfect understandings of each other need another life, a tenderer atmosphere, for their perfecting. Here on earth the full capacity of man's mind is never used. We "know in part," and struggle toward a perfection never reached. Our charity is inconstant and fragmentary and needs maturing toward constancy and inclusiveness. The English poet, William Cowper in appreciation of a great friendship wrote to Hesketh, "You must know that I should not love you half so much did I not know that you would be my friend for all eternity. There is not room for friendship to unfold itself in such a little nook of life as this." Nor is there time for any of the best that is within us to come to full flowering. It is clear we do not want to live forever — if we must live cooped up like this. If immortality were but the continuation of this life as it is, like an unborn child that could not be delivered to life in the outer world and yet could not die, it would be frustration rather than fulfillment and the prospect would be full of dread rather than blessing.

Our hope is not in immortality —mere undyingness, — but in resurrection; not in continuance of this life, but in a better life to come. Than God, this season is not last season all over again, but a new chance for the world, and Eternity is not simply this life infinitely prolonged, but resurrection.

In the moving picture, "The Life of Zola" there is a court scene drenched with meaning. Emil Zola, defending Captain Dreyfus, was fighting to reopen the case of the unjustly accused and convicted army officer. But Zola's evidence was not admitted to court and the witnesses he had summoned were not permitted to testify. At last the judge declared the case was closed. As the friends of Dreyfus were leaving the courtroom, the lawyer for the defense pointed to a mural behind the judge's bench. It was a painting of Christ hanging on His cross. The lawyer declared, "That, too, was once regarded as 'a closed case.' "

We tenderly lay away our loved ones, and say the "final Amen." But is it final?

We come to the end of our days here, incomplete in knowledge and understanding, still not all that we ought or long to be, still far short of the "measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." Are we finished?

As winter seals the North and apparently puts an end to all the verdant things of earth, long ago a stone was rolled across the door way of a tomb. The case was closed. But, was it?

WHY DIDN'T THEY PICK OUR TOWN?

When an industry looks at our town then picks another . . . Why?

Perhaps we lost because of reasons beyond our control: the company's problems of markets, transportation, raw materials, etc.

But perhaps it was because we lack advantages which competing towns have and which we need if we are to attract industry. Usually a town can develop most of the advantages it needs if its citizens work hard enough and work together. Do we?

Perhaps the company felt that the community's attitude isn't favorable for new industry. Attitude of the people toward their present industry, toward their town and toward each other. Community attitude is not merely everybody's business. It is everybody's every day contribution — good or bad.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Majoring in Fashion-Minoring in Economy

Fashion today is easy because fashion centers the world over are planning for us. We merely pick and choose as to our own individual taste and desire to look marvelous or even "less than marvelous."

To look less than marvelous today because you choose to is one thing but to feel forced to because of economy is ridiculous. Any budget limitation today is a minor limitation only. One expenditure of $3.00 can buy a blouse of fashion, fine fabric and proper sizing for many months of happy wearing OR it can buy 3 blouses at $1.00 each with today's fashion, color and sizing from the purchase date to the first washing. It's a test of intelligence. People "with the most" budget and plan to "get the most" and build wardrobe with their fashion allotments.

At Fays you will find Jeanie Blouses at $1.98 and less, Ship'n Shores at $2.98, Mac Shores at $3.98 — All of which carries the same quality guarantee!

Mrs. Chas. Duerr Named President Of Local PTA

Mrs. Charles A. Duerr was elected president of the Charlevoix PTA at the annual meeting held Wednesday at the high school band room.

She will succeed Jack Rader in the office.

Other new officers are: first vice president, Mrs. William Lusk; second vice president, Mrs. Robert G. Martin; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Smith and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Pearl.

Al Amundsen of the Michigan Education Association was the guest speaker at the meeting. In his talk he emphasized the fact that education in the state needs stable financial support. He went on to say that among the reasons the support was unstable was due to the vagaries of the state legislature and the varying economic conditions of the communities in the state. He touched briefly on federal support for education and what it would entail.

Mr. Amundsen then outlined the problems persons interested in education must face. Among these are the population increase and the need for more professional people including teachers to service this increase; the need for strong moral and personal values; schooling for special groups including the retarded, deficient and gifted children who are not benefitted by public aid; the increased amount of knowledge in all fields and how to keep pace with this problem and the changing methods of presenting this knowledge.

He concluded his enlightening talk by stating that the public cannot afford to remain complacent to these problems; ;that they must attempt to find the answers.

He then discussed the MEA organization and its aims.

He touched briefly on school finance and said that the average typical school had voted two mills or more for operational costs. He said that the Charlevoix school was a little below average in state valuation.

Justice Court News

Justice John Connolly reports the following cases which appeared in his court recently.

John Beyer, 24, of East Jordan, charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime, waived examination and was bound over to the May term of circuit court. He was released on his own recognizance. The dairy products came to light Sunday when the owner, Lloyd Doernenberg of Petoskey, paid an unexpected visit to the cabin. Beyer allegedly sold a small amount of the butter for 50 cents a pound and planned to dispose of the remaining in the same manner.

Ralph Hamill of Boyne City, George LaBlance and Quinton White were elected delegates and Mrs. Tunison, Mrs. Don Brown and Mrs. Julius Elzinga alternates to the convention at which delegates to the national convention will be selected.

Delegates were advised by the county committee to vote under the unit rule if other delegates in the 11th district choose to follow this method. The delegates were uninstructed in regard to their choice of delegates to the national convention.

Mr. Hamill was named chairman of the county delegation. Mr. LaBlance was named to represent the group on the pre-convention platform drafting committee.

The convention went on record as supporting the proposed Forand bill which would give medical assistance to the country's senior citizens.

Bowling News

Steves Bar took three points from Lake Const. Lakes started out like they were going to a fire but the fire went out. They rolled every game over their average. For Steve's, Meg had a 200-567, O'Rile 226-567 followed by Ken Cels 213-537. For Lakes, Hal blew his top with a 208-524 followed by John with a 495 series

Moonlight stayed in a tie for the No. 1 spot by taking 3 points from Central Drugs. Big Jim led his team with a 516 series followed by LV's 612 series. Doc had a 208 second game. Central Drugs just couldn't get going, and its a good thing for Moonlight they didn't. For the Pill Rollers Frank had a 429 series followed by Herb with his 425 series.

Neffs only had one man going so they went down the drain, and dropped four to Browe Electric. For Neffs Big had a 209-550 series, Gordon followed with a 461 series. For Browe, Sladek blew a fuse and rolled a 206-535 series. Ted followed with a 489 series. Looks like Neffs are headed the wrong way.

Freedman No. II kept their chances alive by taking 3 points from Airport Inn. Gene Bergmann was high for the No. II team with a 503 series. "Drawbridge" followed with his 483 series. Airport Inn threw in a ringer tonight and he showed up real well. Stan Feidorek the 'Boss' of the new bowling alley rolled a 230-559 series. Ron Cunningham was high though with his 210-567 series. Des, dragged anchor with his 438 aeries.

Swanson and Freedman No. I were gentlemen tonight and split 2-2. Ron was high for Swanson with his 202-529 series, Fergie followed with a 243-511 series. "Ball Point" was high for the No. 1 crew with his 201-527 series. John followed with a 4 6,2 series.

Poor Puff couldn't cut the mustard so they dropped 3 to United Farm. Ron was high for Puffs with a 210-537 series. Puff followed with his FAT 459 series. Van Dreumel rolled his high series tonight to lead the United Farm. He rolled a 512 series. Bill Potter followed with a 491 series.

Dear Dan: Two of us in our high school band have written a popular song which we think is pretty good. No one else knows about it yet because we want to keep it a secret until we have it published or at least heard by a song publisher. The trouble is that we don't know how to go about contacting a song publisher. Can you help? Any advice will be appreciated. — B. C. and Drummer Boy.

Dear Boys: Your song may be "pretty good" or "pretty bad." depending on the judgment of someone professionally qualified to answer which I'm not. Why not take your band instructor into your little secret? If the song is as good as you seem to think, he may be able to give you that advice about marketing it.

If the song isn't quite as good as you think he may be able to offer some suggestions for improving it. Even if the song doesn't make the hit parade, remember, success never comes easy. Lots of luck.

Dear Dan: I have one of those "small brother" problems you always hear about. My boy friend is usually at the house about 15 minutes early for our dates and as a result, I'm still dressing and my 12-year-old brother is making a pest of himself. Mom and Dad side with my brother, saying, "He's just a boy." He's not, he's really a little monster and he annoys and embarrasses my boy friend. What can I do to make my brother behave? Thank you. — Francine.

Dear Francine: Your boy friend is actually bringing the trouble on himself by getting to your house so early. Tell him not to come so early or if you dont want to do that, be ready 15 minutes early for your dates. When your brother sees you're either ready early or your boy friend isn't quite as prompt, he'll find a new form of amusement other than heckling your boy friend. Is your brother really a monster?

Dear Dan: I'm a Methodist and the girl I date quite often is a Presbyterian. She's asked me a couple of different times to attend church services with her but so far I've made excuses. I don't know if I'd feel right walking into another church or if it would even be proper. What do you think? — Jack M.

Dear Jack: No matter what your religion, never worry about "not feeling right" in a church other than the one you regularly attend. Remember, God is in all churches. Whether or not it would be proper, as you mean the word, is only for your minister to say. Why not ask him and follow his advice?

Dear Dan: I'm 13 and my mother won't let me wear lipstick to school even though I've told her most of the girls in my class do wear it. She says I'm not as old as I think but she's not being fair. Don't you think girls of my age should be allowed to wear lipstick to school? — Annette.

Dear Annette: If wearing lipstick has the approval of your principal, then I think your mother should allow you to wear it but in moderation only. Moderation in this case means only a slight touch to bring added color to your lips. However, if your mother still says "No," remember, she's the boss and that's it.

Dear Dan: Are Red Foley and Pat Boone related? There's a 50 cent bet on this question, so please answer soon. — Carol M.

Dear Carol: Red is Pat's father-in-law. Did you win the bet?

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

He "Auto" Know Better

Should have seen the crowd come running when Cap Edwards breezed up to the Post Office in his brand-new buggy. It's one of those pint-size foreign cars with the motor in back and the trunk up front.

While folks opened doors, poked upholstery and peeked under the hood, Cap went in to pick up his mail. A minute later a fellow came up to him, all out of breath.

"Say, mister," he said to Cap, "better get back to your car. Somebody's opened the hood and swiped your whole darn engine!"

From where I sit, most of us are people of habit—new things take some getting used to. And, too, most of us have "favorites" for which there'll never be a substitute. For instance, my summer Saturday nights are spent on the porch with a refreshing glass of beer and close friends. Now maybe you have a "newer, better" way to spend Saturday. Fine! You do it your way, I'll do it mine. That's American—isn't it!

School Students To Compete in Spelling Contest

Plans for Charlevoix county's first annual spelling contest in which approximately 85 rural and village students will participate were announced this week by Charles A. Robinson, county superintendent of schools.

The event, open to students in the third through the eighth grade, will be held at the Boyne City public school Monday under the direction of the Rural Teachers chapter of the MEA and the County Board of Education.

The students will be grouped in three sections by grades with first, second and third place winners being named in each section. One hundred words will be pronounced to each section in groups of 25, Mr. Robinson said.

The rules governing the contest have been previously approved by the competing schools and are based on the National Spelling Bee rules. The words to be spelled have been selected from a basal list not familiar to or used by any of the county schools. A pronouncer and three judges will conduct the writing of the words in each of the three groups.

The pronouncers for the groups will be Mrs. Florence Coblentz, Boyne City elementary supervisor, Mrs. Marjorie Belknap, substitute teacher of Hortons Bay and Mr. Robinson. The list of judges had not been completed Tuesday night.

Schools oarticipating will be Murray, Ironton, Hortons Bay, North Bay, Chandler and Walloon.

Cub Scouts Plan Indian Exhibit For Scout-o-rama

Charlevoix's Cub Scout entry in the second annual Scout-o-rama at Petoskey next week, an Indian teepee, will be erected in East Park Saturday so that residents of the community will have an opportunity to see it according to James Whitley, Cub Scout master.

The 12 Scouts of the Webelo den will meet in the park Saturday morning to erect the teepee they have built. Beginning at 1 p.m. Cub Scouts will be on hand to sign their names to the registry and to display the teepee to all visitors.

All Cubs will sign their name to a roster which bears the insignia of the rank they hold in scouting; that is, Bobcat, Lion, Bear or Wolf.

The Scout-o-rama in which the teepee will be entered will be held at the Petoskey high school gymnasium from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday, April 23. Eleven Cub Scouts packs and 22 Boy Scout and Explorer Scout troops from 16 northern Michigan communities of the Northern District of the Scenic Trails Council will dsplay their various talents at booths set up in the Petoskey gymnasium.

Two floor shows featuring Indian dances, skits and other acts will be presented at 4 and 8 p.m.

Tickets for the Scout-o-rama may be purchased from local Cubs and Scouts and will be on sale at the teepee in East Park Saturday. Fifty per cent of the proceeds remain in the community for use by local Scout groups and the remainder goes to the Council.

Assisting the Cub Scouts in the building of their teepee are Mr. Whitley, Russell Lewis, Walter Russell of the Pack committee, Earl Holborn and Harry Pearsall. Den Mothers and their assistants will be in attendance at the teepee in East Park Saturday afternoon.

Ironton Ferry Season Opens

The Ironton ferry which transports traffic across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix began operation Tuesday, two days earlier than in 1959, according to John J. Martin, superintendent of the Charlevoix county road commission.

Warm weather followed by high winds over the weekend broke up and shifted the ice to open the 500 ft. channel across the South Arm of the lake at Ironton wich connects M-66 with Boyne City.

The ferry operates from 6 a.m. until midnight daily from now until Dec. 31 or until ice forces suspension of the schedule.

A mild December made it possible to keep the ferry operating until midnight Dec. 31 last year. However, the year before it closed early in December.

Walter 'Turk' Jarvis and Pete Bennett are the operators.

Miss Lillis M. Flanders, county treasurer, was re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix county tax allocation board at the organizational meeting held Monday at the county building here.

Mrs. J. S. McNeal, Pioneer Resident Dies at Boyne City

Mrs. James S. McNeal, 93, pioneer resident of Boyne City, died Friday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bellinger, with whom she had lived for some time.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City with the Rev. John Chirrona officiating. He was assisted by the Evangeline chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. Burial was in Maplelawn cemetery.

Born in Jones county, Iowa Sept. 7, 1866, the former Sarah Louisa Jones came to southern Michigan a year later and to Charlevoix county in 1875. She attended school in Boyne Valley and Boyne City and later taught in schools in both Charlevoix and Antrim counties.

Mrs. McNeal was the oldest living member of the Boyne City Presbyterian church, a charter member and past worthy matron of the Evangeline chapter, OES, a member of the Rebekah lodge and the Petosega chapter of the DAR and an honorary member of the Grand Family of the Order of Eastern Star.

On June 21, 1891, she was married to Mr. McNeal who preceded her in death March 18, 1945.

Supervisors Approve Charlevoix's Petition To Annex Property

The Charlevoix county board of supervisors, at its Wednesday afternoon meeting, gave its approval to the annexation of two parcels of land located in Charlevoix township to the city of Charlevoix.

Proposal No. 1, which applied to that section of land where the golf course was located lying in the township, passed by a vote of 15 to 10.

Proposal No. 2 which applied to that sectinn of land where the airport is located passed by a vote of 20 to 4 with one member abstaining. The votes were by secret ballot.

In action earlier in the day, the board of supervisors approved a $1,200 appropriation to the Sheriff's Department to be used for the purchase of a small patrol boat and the engaging of a special marine deputy to patrol the waters in Charlevoix county and to enforce existing laws which apply to boaters.

This will be supplemented by a similar amount by the Michigan Waterways Commission on a matching funds basis.

County prosecutor Harvey C. Varnum appeared before the board to ask that the office of Civil Defense and the prosecutor's office be allowed to occupy the same offices and to ask if the board would make an appropriation in order that both offices could be serviced by one office clerk. He explained that if the offices could be combined in one location, the money appropriated earlier to the office of Civil Defense for such a purpose in the amount of $1,500 could be combined with the $200 appropriated to his office for the same purpose thus making it necessary for the board to appropriate another $700 to bring the office attendant's salary to the basic rate for elerks or $2,400. Since a third of the year has passed this would necessitate only an appropriation of two-thirds that amount. The board gave its approval to a motion to allow the offices to be combined and also to an appropriation of $500 for the remainder of the year for a full-time clerk who would service both offices. At the present time there is a part-time clerk in the Civil Defense office and no clerk in the prosecutor's office.

Fran Martin, a resident of Charlevoix's first ward, appeared before the board Wednesday morning to ask what could be done about the problem of stray dogs, that is, dogs which are allowed to run loose and which continually trespass on others properties. She also asked the board what law enforcement agency was responsibble for enforcing existing state dog laws.

During a lengthy discussion which followed, several suggestions were made but no concrete conclusons were reached other than the fact that dogs did create a serious problem about which something had to be done. The chairman, Ivan Pillips, in an effort to come up with something feasible, suggested that a committee be named to study the problem and to make recommendations for a solution to it. Named to serve on the committee were Robert F. Barnett of East Jordan, John Howard of Candler township, Lewis Davis of Boyne City, Harry Gebeau of Charlevoix and Don Kondziela of Melrose township. The committee is to make its report at the October meeting.

A motion presented Monday afternoon by Russell Curtis to change the method of selecting county road commissioners, that is to have the board of supervisors appoint the commissioners instead of bringing the names to a popular vote by the residents of the county, was vetoed by a vote of 13 to 12.

Levinson and Dr. G. B. Saltonstall. E. D. Hawley is cashier and assistant cashiers are M. J. Foster and Ada Y. Golden.

Mrs. Bergeon Is Named Assistant Dean at U of M.

The Board of Regents at the University of Michigan has announced the appointment of Mrs. Catherina C. Bergeon as Assistant Dean of Women at the University, effective July 15.

Mrs. Bergeon, fromer teacher in the Charlevoix schools and Charlevoix county superintendent of schools, has served as Resident Hall Director at the University since February 1957. She will leave this position in June to assume the duties of Assistant Dean of Women at the state's largest University in July.

A native of Chicago, Mrs. Bergeon, the former Catherina C. Clarke, taught in the Charlevoix high school from 1924 to '28 and in Saginaw until 1928 when she returned here to make her home. At various times she taught in the local school and in 1942 became a member of the Board of education, a position she held until 1948 when she was named Charlevoix county superintendent of schools. She held this position until 1953 when she went to Ottawa county to become a Supervisor of Elementary School system in the county. Who Would?

Too often we belittle the value of the Chamber of Commerce all because it doesn't directly bring a cash customer with a hundred or so dollars to spend directly in our place of business. The Chamber is organized to work for the community as a whole an dnot for a select few.

All benefits to the community benefit the individual, directly or indirectly. And, the community will benefit from the Chamber of Commerce in proportion to the support given. This all leads to the question, "Who would do the job left to the Chamber? Without the Chamber we could put out a "Wanted" sign for the individuals:

Who would maintain an office with a full-time staff devoted exclusively and untiringly to the industrial, civic and commercial development of Charlevoix?

Who would be the central publicity agent for the community?

Who would answer hundreds of questions about this city and area, made in person, by mail and by telephone.

Who would do the thousand and one chores that need doing around any community when so often "everybody's business is nobody's business?"

Who would maintain a central agency representing the principal civic and business interests to which visitors could come for information?

Who would be the liaison between all lines and types of business and the professions and local government?

Who would be concerned with the many basic problems in every growing community such as parking, housing, planning, and so forth?

Who would co-ordinate the efforts of local business men in building up the facilities and the prestige of Charlevoix as a trading center?

Who would represent Charlevoix at state and national civic conferences?

Who would speak for business with the State Legislature and the Congress and various departments of government on laws and regulations whether existing or proposed which affect business?

Who would be working as a representative of all groups and classes, young and old, for improved recreational and cultural facilities and adequate services to meet the human needs of our citizens?

Who would investigate itinerants, solicitors, magazine and book salesmen and others who would prey upon business and our citizens? (This alone, if taken advantage of, could save many members more than the amount of their dues.)

Who would do all these — and be ready "to carry the torch" for Charlevoix on all matters relative to making "Our City" a better place to live and work?

WHO WOULD . . . IF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIDN'T?

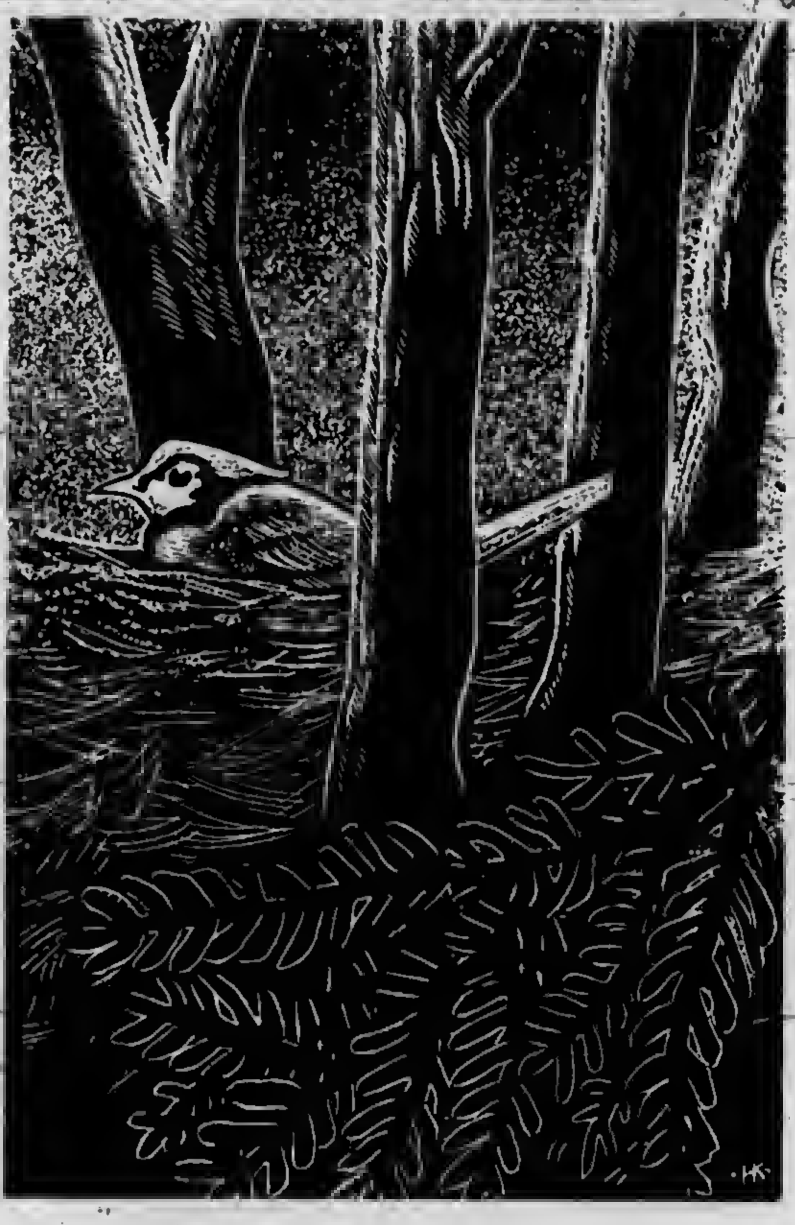
Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn



Rooted In Silence

This has been a day of vast, gray quietness. Silently the heavy clouds roll over this bay. Soundlessly a lonely herring gull drifts by. The open pools amidst the ice floes on the lake are still, and the sun-softened masses of drifting ice touch each other as softly as the brush of velvet against velvet. This is a suspenseful silence, as if the wet earth is waiting for some momentous event that is already hours past due.

These quiet springtime hours are a part of that creative and beneficient silence that Nature draws about herself while summoning forces that soon show themselves in power; the stillness of seeds before they sprout into life; the gravelike hush of incubating eggs, the soundlessness of sunshine warming the earth toward fruitfulness, the hidden, quiet years of an unknown greatness maturing in little children, unseen even by those who know them best.

All the great things have their roots in silence, and life's most important business is undertaen in quietness.

The French philosopher, physicist, and mathamatician, Blaise Pascal, once declared that all the world's trouble is due to the fact that man cannot sit still in a room. He must chatter, flirt, gamble or hunt for something. Perhaps this is a chief difference between people of inner culture and those without it: the man of great inner development does not need to live in a dither of outward activity to distract him from the unpleasantness of his inner emptiness.

A small cup, only one-fourth full of water, can be shaken until it makes a big splash. But hold it still and its near-emptiness is revealed. Is this generation's fussy activism a substitute for awareness of what we are, and what we ought to be? Are we keeping busy so that we can avoid self-discovery?

If we want to discover our real inner needs, and if we want to know what we are really like, if we want God's fullness to replace our emptiness, we must learn to bring a daily halt to our frenzied activity, and to "hold still' for awhile. The Book of Isaish says concerning an ancient people, "Their strength is to sit still."

The great matters of life may blossom in activity, but they are rooted in silence.

Sgt. E. M. Bridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridge, has been assigned to the 1st Cavalry division in Korea, according to a 1st Cavalry Division report from Korea.

Sgt. Bridge is a squad leader in the 8th Cavalry in the Headquarters Company. He entered the army in 1945 and arrived in Korea for his overseas tour of duty last October.

Voice of our readers

Dear Editor:

At the April 12th meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club a letter from the Michigan Federation of Garden Clubs was read. Members were urged to write our State Representative and State Senator, stating our concern that a strong Billboard Control Law has not been enacted in Michigan, and that if touring is to continue to be an important industry in Michigan, billboards must be controlled; that businessmen cannot possibly be interested in advertising where it will offend the vast majority of people. It occurs to me that perhaps citizens of this community, other than members of the local garden club, would be glad to write both our Representative and Senator reminding them that the scenic beauty of this state is one of its greatest assets and its remaining natural resource and should not be marred by Billboards. Ask that they consider this a MUST issue during the next session and do everything in their power to see that Michigan's scenic beauty is protected.

Sincerely,
Charlevoix Garden Club
Dorothy R. Kohler, Sec.

Lady Luck Smiles On Postal Clerk

Lady Luck smiled on one of Charlevoix's postal clerks this week.

The lucky fellow is William I. Supernaw who was notified via wire Tuesday that he had won an Hawaiian Jet holiday for two in a Sweepstakes conducted recently by the Gibson Refrigerator Co.

The trip via jet to the youngest of the 50 states will include two weeks at one of Hawaii's fabulous hotels.

"And to think that all I did was sign by "William I. Supernaw" to a sweepstakes coupon at Puff's earlier this year. How lucky can you get?" was his first comment on heing notified of his good fortune.

Booklet Tells Way to Survive Nuclear Attack

How to survive radioactive fall out is a Civil Defense lesson to be learned by every citizen.

In the event of a nuclear attack, how well would your child at school be protected? What about you — your family?

Two new publications, "School Shelter," and "Individual and Family Survival Requirements," are now available from the office of your Civil Defense Director, Gen. George B. Ely, County Building, Charlevoix.

"School Shelter" briefly presents some of the problems of preparing existing schools, and building new schools to provide protection from radioactive fallout. It is an important publication for anyone who wants to know the essentials of such a program, with a view to checking his local school situation.

"Individual and Family Survival Requirements" is for everyone — whether his home is in the city, a town, or a rural community. It covers briefly: warning, evacuation needs, shelter requirements and shelter supplies.

Fisherman Isle Recommended for State Park Site

The Fisherman Island area is one of 40 along Michigan's Great Lakes shoreline chosen by the U. S. Department of the Interior for possible development as a state park.

In a recent report of a federal survey of the entire Great Lakes shore, it was recommended that Fisherman Island Area, named after the island lying a few hundred feet offshore, primarily involves a mainland area on the northeastern shore of Lake Michigan. U. S. Highway 31 parallels this segment of shoreline slightly over one mile inland. A 4-mile shoreline, including the island, intercepts an inland area of about 1,500 acres.

Shortage of funds for state parks makes acquisition and development of this and other areas impossible at this time, according to Arthur E. Elmer, Conservation Department parks chief. However, a lessening of the critical money situation would place the Fisherman Island area high on a priority list.

North American Schedules Visit To Local Port

Charlevoix has been included as a port of call on two public weekend cruises of the S S North American officials of the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit Co. have notified city offcials here.

The cruise ship will visit the local harbor from 9-11 a.m. Monday, May 30, while on a Memorial Day weekend cruise and again on Saturday, June 18, when the ship will stop over from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

This will be the second year that the North American has paid a call in the local harbor. Last year it brought the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce chartered cruise to the city in June.

Mark Cross, well known local skipper, is second mate on the cruise ship and his son, Mark Jr., is a member of the steward's staff.

7,178 Vehicles Registered in Charlevoix Co.

Annual motor registration figures issued this week by James M. Hare, Secretary of State, showed that 7,178 motor vehicles of all types were registered in Charlevoix County on which $111,289.32 in taxes were collected. These included 5,407 passenger cars and 934 trucks and commercial vehicles.

Total receipts for all motor vehicle activities, but not including gas and diesel fuel collections, totaled $71,593,087.02 in 1959, a $3,608,057.82 increase over 1958's $67,985,029.20.

According to Mr. Hsrc, income from drivers licenses jumped from $2,194,518.12 in 1958 to $3,093,730.88. Chauffeurs license receipts rose from $494,376.25 in 1958 to $549,085.03 in 1959.

"The eleven percent increase in the number of title transactions reflected improved automobile sales during 1959, when 545,393 were issued compared to 1958's 490,739," Hare said.

The number of title transfers exceeded one million, the highest number ever handled since the Department started issuing these transfers in 1922.

These two young Charlevoix seamstresses won the right to have the dresses they are modeling displayed at the Michigan State Feir in Detroit this summer.

They are Sharon Abtalter, a high school sophomore who has participated in the 4-H sewing program for five years, and Nancy Novak, a seventh grade student who has completed her second year in the program.

They were among the three out of 105 participants who were named to display the garments they had made during the club year. Their leaders are Mrs. Clifford Riley, Mrs. Robert Lieberman and Mrs. Robert Livingston.

Home and Religious Training Cited as Delinquency Factors

In a report on his recent trip to Washington, D. C., where he participated in the President's White House Conference on Youth, Probate Judge William T. Downs said though the conclusions of the conference have not been compiled he observed several trends in thinking that seemed to highlight the conference.

For instance, there was an emphasis on religion to teach moral values. Although there is talk of a changing world, the old values in regard to moral issues do not change with time.

There was also emphasis on parental responsibility in all fields, a marked retreat from the attitude of the past 20 years of "let the government do it."

There also seemed to be a general lack of confidence in the educational system in all parts of the country. This, Judge Downs said, involved such things as the realization that education must be tailored to ability, a clinging to outmoded forms, needless requirements for teaching certificates and the need for some federal aid to education.

Judge Downs added that the field of education was well represented among those attending the conference thus, in many cases, the educators were voicing criticisms of themselves.

Study groups participated in 18 forums which considered the following topics: environment, mobility of today's population, support, nuture, opportunity, free time, mass communications, human resources, reliefs, maturity-birth to puberty, maturity-puberty to young adulthood, youth as learners, youth as doers, youth as citizens, mental handicapped youth, physical handicapped youth, youth in conflict and youth with social handicaps.

The theme assemblies had a keynote for the day, Judge Downs explained. There were appraising ideals, economic, social and cultural factors and blueprints for the future.

Judge Downs went on to explain how the conference was handled. The conference consisted of approximately 7,000 people including 5,000 from states (there were 110 from Michigan), approximately 500 from national organizations (i.e. presidents of PTA, etc), about the same number, 500, from federal governmental departments and about 1,000 youth.

Approximately 88 percent or about 6,150 of those attending the conference were from metropolitan areas of 100,000 or more, he said.

In order to be effective such a large group must be broken down, Judge Downs said. This was done by having five concurrent theme assemblies of about 1,400 persons each. After a 90-minute meeting, these were divided into 18 forum groups which, in turn, were divided into work groups of 30 to 35 people who met each afternoon.

At the conclusion of the three-day work group meetings, each group elected a member to meet with the forum committee which compiled the recommendations of the work groups. These were then presented to the forum for approval before being passed along to the entire conference. Because of the great mass of material the final recommendations will not be available for some time.

Judge Downs said that he was assigned to Forum 13, "Youth as Doers." The work groups took up such issues as vocational guidance, vocational training, job preparation, apprentice programs, child labor laws, parental responsibilities for work experience and related subjects.

Citizens Review Educational Aims At Conferenec

The 21st annual Citizens Conference on Education was held in Lansing recently.

Theme of the conference, called by Lynn M. Bartlett, Superintendent of Public Instruction, was "Education in the 60's — Whose Responsibility?"

Highlights of the conference include a talk on "The Importance of Education in These Times" by Gov. G. Mennen Williams; another by Mrs. Charles W. Neldrett, president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers entitled "What Michigan Citizens Think About Education" and Symposium on Public Education at which the following subjects were discussed: Community Education program, Teaching Staff, Financing Public Schools and Higher Education.

At the closing session Howard Y. McClusky of the School of Education at the University of Michigan spoke on "What Should Be Done on the Local Level" and Dr. Bartlett talked on "What Should Be Done on the State Level."

In Lansing for the meeting were Supt. R. G. Bennett, H. E. Bingham, high school principal, William Ratigan of the high school faculty and Gordon L. Freedman of the board of education who served as chairman of one of the discussion groups at the conferenee.

Dean Davenport Returning to CMU

Dean Davenport who is presently teaching and coaching at Grant will return to the campus at Central Michigan University this fall to serve an assistantship and work on his master's degree.

A 1957 graduate of the University, he will teach two classes in physical education and serve as assistant J-V basketball coach and a second sport, which probably will be football, he said.

Mr. Davenport has a major in speech and minors in physical education and health and recreation.

Mrs. Davenport, the former Joyce Cunningham, also plans to resume her studies at the University. She has completed one year of study at Central.

Since graduation Mr. Davenport taught two years at Petoskey where he served as assistant J-V football and basketball coach. He is completing his first year at Grant where he was head basketball coach.

Michigan's Factories, Farms and Stores Depend on Trucks

Manufacturing, farming, the retail business — all have one thing in common: each needs transportation facilities.
And, since the motor truck provides fast, flexible, direct service unequalled by any other form of transportation, more tonnage is shipped by truck in Michigan each year. (Nationally trucks haul more than 3 times as much tonnage as all other systems combined!)
Every truck you see on the road is working—working to help keep Michigan's economy humming, to help keep employment and sales high. There isn't a corner of the State that isn't served daily by trucks And factories and shopping centers can be located anywhere and be assured of efficient truck service so long as they're on a road.
You see how vital trucks are to Michigan.

Bernie DeYoung (left) and Junior Supernaw (right) pack the finished merchandising display cabinets for shipment to their destination. Cabinets going to foreign countries are repacked by the exporter for overseas shipment.

A Charlevoix product has been selected by a druggists association in Yugoslavia for a permanent fair display which demonstrates the most modern and successful merchandising practices used in America. The point of sale display cabinets, manufactured by the Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp., are to be used to show how various greeting cards, fancy wrapping papers, records and similar items are merchandised in the United States by modern drug and department stores.

The cabinets for Yugoslavia were ordered by the American Greeting Card Co., one of the leading distributors of the Freedman retail display cabinets. In addition to greeting card display cabinets, Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. manufactures an extensive line of attractive display cabinets used by retailers throughout the United States, Canada, and many foreign countries. Cabinets are also manufactured for displaying phonograph records, books and similar items adaptable to this type of merchandising.

One of Freedman's most recent innovations is a book and magazine display cabinet designed particularly for use in schools. Optional units with this cabinet include felt display boards for exhibits and demonstrations. The cabinet and display frames, all mounted on casters, fold into a compact unit which is easily rolled to the desired location. It has had enthusiastic acceptance by educators.

A new device, recently patented by the company, is a movable devider used to adjust the size of the compartments to fit the articles to be displayed. This enables the merchandiser to quickly convert the compartments to meet the particular need.

Every display cabinet must meet rigid standards of construction and finish before going to the packing department. John Swanson is pictured here inspecting the drawer mechanism. He found everything OK.

A pair of Corvairs recently recorded 27.03 and 26.21 miles per gallon in the 2,061.4-mile Mobilgas Economy Run. That's certified proof that Corvair skimps on gas costs. It saves other ways, too. Corvair is the only U. S. compact car that never needs antifreeze or costly radiator repairs. Come in and drive the compact car that outdoes them all.

Things Corvair gives you that America's other compact cars can't:

Practically flat floor . . . real foot room for the man in the middle. Fold-down rear seat gives 17.6 cu. ft. of extra storage space. Four-wheel independent suspension for a smoother, flatter ride. Rear-engine traction . . . that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels.

You probably realize already that the mileage figures Corvairs recorded in the Mobilgas Run are higher than the average driver can expect. But because the cars met every kind of driving condition—rugged mountain grades, long country straightaways, congested city traffic—those mileage figures prove Corvair's inherent ability to save. Operating costs take a nose dive the day you take delivery of a Corvair.

Supervisors Adopt Tentative Budget

The Charlevoix county board of supervisors adopted a tentative budget for 1961 and set the county's assessed valuation before adjourning the 92nd annual spring meeting of the board following an unprecedented seven-day session.

The tentative budget for 1961 was set at $279,302.90 as compared with the adopted budget of $244,397.15 for 1960. Though the 1960 tentative budget seems extremely high, it is $10,139 less than the tentative budget adopted last April.

The county valuation was upped to $23,282,934 for an increase of $923,231 over last year's valuation of $22,359,703.

Major increases were in Melrose and Eveline townships and the city of Charlevoix where real property valuations showed a sizable increases and in the personal property in the three cities and in Eveline and Charlevoix townships where the largest increases were nuled.

The problem of equalization was discussed at length. It was suggested that an equalization assistant be engaged to assist assessors and supervisors in solving this problem. A motion for an appropriation of $3000 to establish an Equalization and Tax Study Department was vetoed by 13 to 10 ballot.

A resolution to publish the minutes of the meetings of the Board of Supervisors in one of the three newspapers in the county won approval,

A resolution to equalize as assessed also won the approval of the board Friday.

The special Grandvue Medical Facility commitee was authorized to acquire a building to house the auxiliary generators purchased earlier to supply emergency current for the Facility in the event of a disaster or power failure.

The board also voted by a vote of 13 to 9 with three members absent to change the name of the janitor to building custodian.

Gen. George B. Ely, county Civil Defense director, appeared briefly before the board to inform them that radio stations in Cheboygan, Traverse City and Petoskey were now equipped to go on the Conelrad wave channels of 640 and 1240 in the event of a national disaster. He also outlined briefly the national alert to be held from 1 to 1:30 p.m. on May 3 when all radio and television programs will be off the air during this half-hour period.

The board also voted to purchase comprehensive liability insurance to cover prisoners when they are doing work for the county.

The board will convene in October for the annual fall meeting after adjourning Friday following a seven-day session.

Charlevoix V.F.W. To Host District Rally Sunday

The VFW district business meeting and election will be held at the post home at 2 p.m. following a half hour of floor practice by drill teams. The district meeting of the auxiliaries will be held at the Rod and Gun club at 2 p.m.

The business meetings of both groups will officially close the rally which will be attended by more than 175 members and guests.

Department official J. L. O'Neill and William MacGirr, state service officer, and Mrs. MacGirr will be among the state officials who are expected here for the rally.

Trout Hatchery On Jordan River Approved by Comm.

Approval of the proposed federal trout hatchery in Jordan River Valley was among the top issues acted upon at the recent meeting of the Conservation Commission in Lansing earlier this month.

As a result of Commission action by a 4-2 margin, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service goined, what is considered to be, a vital site for stepping up the concerted long-range rehablitation program for lake trout in the upper Great Lakes.

Pending an appropriation by Congress, the agency plans to develop a million-dollar trout hatchery within the 110 acres of Jordan River Valley lands in Pigeon River state forest, Antrim county, granted to the federal government through a public use deed. An estimated two million lake trout would be produced annually at the hatchery for re-stocking in the upper Great Lakes where these fish have been virtually destroyed by the sea lamprey.

Press-On-Regardless National Rally, officials are pictured above at the courl of the Weathervane lodge as they lay out the route for the rally to be held this weekend. Local headquarters of the rally will be the lodge while the group is here Saturday night.

Sports cars, more than 50 of every description, will arrive in Charlevoix late Saturday afternoon at the end of the first leg of the 12th annual Press-on-Regardless National Rally for sports car enthusiasts.

The more than 100 drivers and navigators participating in the 300 mile competition will make the Weathervane Lodge their headquarters while in Charlevoix.

The running of the P. O. R. National Rally, a popular event among sports car owners, has attracted enthusiasts from as far away as New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Minnesota as well as Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

After spending Saturday night in Charlevoix, the drivers and 'crewmen' as well as rally officials will depart Sunday morning on the return trip to Detroit over a route laid out by P.O.R. rally officials headed by George Durbin of Detroit. Entries in the competition will depart at given intervals.

The rally will get underway at 7:01 a.m. Saturday at historic Botsford Inn in the northwest suburbs of Detroit when cars will depart every minute for the trip over the 300 mile route which will wend its way over lesser traveled highways and byways to the Weathervane Inn on US 31 overlooking the beautiful harbor here.

Sunday morning will see the start of another day's run over an alternate route to the Motor City where participants will gather for a victory banquet at Botsford Inn. The winners of individual, team and 'marque' competition will receive their awards at the dinner.

Assisting the chairman, George Durbin, in the running the event will be co-chairmen Carl Chakmakian and Bob Jackman; rally master, Harry Beronius; chief scorer, Margaret Beronius; reservation co-chairmen, John Anhut and Ralph Gillam, manager of the Weathervane Lodge who has made plans for the group's stay in Charlevoix; safety inspector, Tom Hallock; trophies and publicity, Richard Dittus; official observer, William Carlisle; photographer, Ken Zopf; sweep car, Eugene Annabe; and radio and clock at start, Byron Runde. All are from the Detroit area with the exception of the official observer, Mr. Carlisle who is from Chicago and Mr. Gillam.

Lower Personal Property Valuation In Charlevoix Co.

The current state equalized value of personal property in the city of Charlevoix has been lowered by $247,700 as the result of a recent tax study made by the State Tax Commission of the personal properties in Charlevoix' county's three major cities, Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Translated into tax bill values, this represents a saving of $1.77 on school and county taxes for each $1,000 of a property's assessed value.

The State Tax Commission's re-valuation came about as the end result of a concerted effort of the Equalization committee of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors which has been headed by T. R. Miller of the city's second ward.

In revealing the results of the tax study and how it has affected Charlevoix, Mr. Miller said it is hoped and expected that this is the beginning of a study for the entire county which is badly needed to balance the tax base of the various townships and cities, one with the other, according to their actual inventory of property values.

The tax base of the city of Charlevoix, as set by the appraisal firm engaged by the city in 1053, was lower by several millions of dollars than the base charged up to the city by the State Tax Commission. This situation was never corrected until the recent study.

Pressure upon the State Tax Commission to correct the city's real property values as they have done with the personal property values will be continued by the city's supervisors, Mr. Miller added.

High School Band Will Participate In Festival

The 75-piece Charlevoix high school band, accompanied by director, C. A. Odmark, will depart early Saturday morning for Mt. Pleasant to participate in the annual State Band and Orchestra Festival sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Saturday's trip will mark the thirteenth time the Charlevoix band has qualified for state participation in the 14 years the qualifying festivals have been held. The Charlevoix band will be trying for its eighth first division rating when it participates at Mt. Pleasant. Last year the local group was awarded a second division rating.

The Charlevoix band is scheduled to perform at 3:34 p.m. Saturday in the Mt. Pleasant Junior high school auditorium.

Directed by Mr. Odmark, the band will play three numbers for the three concert judges, the warm-up march, "A Santa Cecelia" by Raedelli; the Class C required number, "Normandy Overture" by Akers and its selected number "Gloriole" by Noble.

After the concert numbers, the band will play two numbers it has never seen, a march and an overture, before the sight reading judge.

The average rating of the three concert judges will then be combined with the rating given by the sight reading judge to arrive at a final rating for the band.

Judges at Saturday's festival will be Norman Dietz, director of bands at Central Michigan University, Roger Jacobi, associate professor of Music Education at the University of Michigan, Laverne Reimer, supervisor of music at Elmhurst, Ill., and Stanley Finn, instructor of woodwinds at Michigan State University.

Other area Class C bands which will participate at Mt. Pleasant will be the Gaylord group which is making its first trip to the Stote Festival and the Boyne City band which is participating for the fifth time. Both are ploying in the same section with Chorlevoix.

May 9-14 Is Clean Up Week For Charlevoix

The week of May 9 through May 14 has been designated as Clean-up-Paint-up week in Charlevoix.

The action to declare the second wee in May as clean-up week week followed a resolution adopted by the City Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

All residents of the city are urged to clean up their property that the city may live up to its name of Charlevoix the Beautiful. The city street crews will cooperate with the property owners by again hauling away all trash placed at the curb or on the alley in baskets or trash cans or in disposable containers. These pick-ups will be made throughout the week.

The council also voted to renew its lease with the U. S. Coast Guard for mooring facilities at the city dock for one year beginning July 1 for the cutter Sundew.

It was also decided to advertise for bids for operating the Lake Michigan bath house facilities. Sealed bids will be received until 8 p.m. May 9. Information regarding the operation may be obtained at the office of the City Superintendent.

Bills amounting to $13,234.35 were approved and ordered paid. The total includes $2,560.12 for Social Security payments for a three-month period to be paid to the State Treasurer's office.

County Tax Rate Tentatively Set

The Charlevoix county tax allocation board set the tentative tax rate at a meeting held Tuesday at the county building here.

Seven of the 15 mills available were allocated to the county for operational costs and all school districts received another seven mills.

All townships were allocated one mill with the exception of Eveline and Norwood whose budgets must be returned for clarification.

The final tax rate will be set at a meeting scheduled for May 25.

Victor A. Knox to Seek Re-election on Republican Ticket

Congressman Victor A. Knox has announced that he is a candidate for re-nomination and re-election on the Republican ticket for representative in congress from the 11th Congressional District.

It is imperative that there must be vigorous support of sound constitutional government and adherence to fiscal responsibility to further our national strength against "enemies of foreign and domestic origin," he said. He further declared it is of the utmost importance that we continue our support of state's rights by retaining our faith in local government and at the same time stop the increasing trend toward centralized government in Washington.

- Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Timmer left Wednesday for a 10-day visit in Grand Rapids.

Special Interest Groups Bombard Council for Action

The city council was bombarded Monday night by two delegations. The Chamber of Commerce requested the city budget for promotion work by the Chamber be increased from the $3,500 tentatively set to an amount comparable to the amount spent by the city when it operated the former Board of Commerce on a part-time basis. A group representing the softball interests expressed concern because the city had delayed action on getting a softball field ready for the summer season.

Both delegations left the meeting uncertain of future action after the Mayor E. James Hiller referred their pleas to committees for further study.

Paul Kohler, secretary-manager, presented the case for the Chamber. He pointed out that business places are coming forward with increasing financial support but at best this would not cover the budget for the minimum program planned. He was emphatic in his declaration that the work of the Chamber would have to be curtailed in proportion to the amount of money available.

Mayor Hiller informed the group that the tentative budget had been made up and that it had been pared to the bone. He said any increase in funds for promotion would have to be taken from some other appropriations. Alderman Ed Hansen supported the mayor with the statement that the council had been endeavoring to reduce taxes and they were now down to the point where people did not have to move out of Charlevoix.

Mr. Kohler said the Chamber of Commerce appropriation for this year amounted to $14,635 and that membership pledges should amount to $8,810, leaving a need for $5,825. In years past the city has appropriated as much as $7,500 for the Board of Commerce as a part time organization.

Mr. Kohler was supported in his request by other members of the Chamber, including Robert Lieberman, C. of C. president; William Carey, chairman of the finance committee, Ralph V. Hess, sr., Archie Livingston and Harold M. Totten, director.

The second barrage came from the group interested in softboll with Ken Cellner sparking the drive to get the council to get started on a softball diamond. He charged that the city had known for two years that the diamond would have to be relocated when construction was started on the new high school, yet nothing has been done and the softball season, rapidly approaching.

Supporting Mr. Cellner for action were John Boss, Hal Hill, Don Meggison and John Swanson.

The council is considering a site on the airport property, Mayor Hiller said Wednesday. There is a mater of right of way which is desirable if this site is used. It is believed advisable to have access from State st., and this involves acquiring additional property. A second route of access would be possible by entrance over the road to the airport.

St. Mary's School To Sponsor Fair

If it's fun you're looking for, turn your sights on St. Mary's school hall Saturday where the second annual fair will be staged beginning at 5 p.m. and continuing all evening.

This is the advice given by Mrs. Frank Bourgoin and Mrs. Robert Chastain, co-chairman of the annual event held to raise funds for books and playground equipment.

There'll be a variety of games including something new, a real live mouse game, movies, a cake walk, teen-age dance, a grab bag booth, a fish pond along with a second hand store for the bargain hunter, a home-made candy and baked goods booth for those with a sweet tooth, a country store for those seeking other goodies and a fancy work booth for those looking for lovely gift items.

And for those who want to eat there will be a variety of foods prepared under the direction of R. J. Grunch and Robert Deimel including hamburgers, hotdogs, rolls, coffee and soft drinks.

At the close of the evening an outdoor grill will be given away. Mrs. Joseph Etienne will be in charge of this project.

Tickets for the Fair may be purchased from school children at St. Mary's or from Mrs. George Plumm who is the ticket chairman.

Plan now to attend the Fair . . . at St. Mary's school hall beginning at 5 p.m.

Alternates named were: Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Smith, Mrs. Arthur Rouse and Albert Bathke of Boyne City, Ben Ellis of Walloon Lake, Mrs. Jay Hite of East Jordan, C. B. Meggison, Rowley Williams and Mrs. Shanahan.

Perch Fishing At Ironton Good

The perch are running at Ironton is the word received from Merle Scott who operates the former Pete's boat livery on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

Mr. Scott said that sizoble catches are being brought in daily.

Smelt were also running over the weekend with some dips being taken along the west shore of the south arm. However a spot check of other streams reveals that the runs have been very light thus far. One smelt fisherman said that it was doubtful if there would be a run of any size at this late date.

The perch had not started to run here Wednesday, according to Bernie Ward who said that the run here was up to two weeks later tan the one at Ironton.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

April 23, 1960

Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Dear Editor:

The City of Charlevoix has gained some relief from carrying a too large share of the State Equalized Value of the County when the Board of Supervisors voted to equalize according to the locally assessed values of the townships and cities.

If equalized according to the values set by the State Tax Commission, Charlevoix would carry the too high load of 25.2% of the County total value, by reason of the base for the City of Charlevoix having been set too high. The County Equalization Committee and the Charlevoix Supervisors have long been battling to correct this by pressing the State Tax Commission to make a study and set new values. The City of Charlevoix has long been assessing at one of the highest levels in the County, but carries the lowest ratio to State Tax Commission values of any of the townships or other cities.

When equalized at locally assessed values for the townships and cities, the City of Charlevoix carries only 22.8% of the County total value. Translated into the value on your tax bill, this lower percentage means a saving of $2.35 on School and County taxes for each $1,000 of assessed value.

You may well ask, — then why don't we always equalize using the assessed values? The reason: Some townships and cities are benefited by this method and some are not. When more than half of the townships and cities represented by the votes of the Supervisors are benefited by equalizing at locally assessed values, equalization is on this basis. If more are benefited by using State Tax Commission values, then this will be the method used.

Which method is really the right method? Either one, PROVIDING all units are properly assessed, and the State Tax Commission values are accurately determined. Presently either or both are badly out of line in Charlevoix County. However, equalizing as assessed exposes, to a greater degree, the good assessor to the danger of his fellow assessor unfairly keeping his values too low and not placing all new property on the rolls.

The values set by the State Tax Commission have the disadvantage of being determined, necessarily, by a sampling method. But this has been much improved and is now surprisingly accurate. The big advantage is a common method of determining values.

The values set by the local assessor have the advantage of a complete appraisal of all properties. Sampling appraises only a percent. The great disadvantage is that 18 different assessors are doing the job 18 different ways.

Equitable assessment will be achieved only when common methods and schedules are used to determine values.

Very Truly Yours,
TED R. MILLER
Supervisor, 2nd Ward

Note: You can write your problem to "Under 21." Include a stamped, self addressed envelope for your reply.

Dear Dan: How much is a 1931 Model-A Ford worth? I've got a chance to buy one but the woman owner doesn't know what she wants and I don't know what to offer. — Kenny.

Dear Kenny: Even though the car is nearly 30 years old, if it's in good running condition, it should be worth a minimum of $100. That figure is only an unofficial estimate, however, and to get a factual figure, you should ask one or two of the car dealers in your town. Good driving.

Dear Dan: My parents just started letting me date last month when I became 14. I like a certain boy quite a lot but never sit close to him when we go out in his car. My friends say I should but I just don't know. My mother says to do what you say. Will you please help me? Thank you very much. — Marlene.

Dear Marlene: I think the closeness your friends are referring to should be reserved for couples dating steady. However, don't jam yourself against the door on the passenger side of the car. Sit in the car as you normally would if your mother or father was the driver. The boy may not appreciate this as much as sitting close to him but he's the driver and both hands should be on the wheel at all times.

Dear Dan: My girl friend will be 16 in a few weeks and I don't know what to get her for her birthday. I've been figuring on a $10 gift but I'm stymied. Would a gift certificate be proper? If I gave her that, she could buy what she wanted. — J. M.

Dear J. M.: My 16-year-old daughter tells me a gift certificate would be the worst possible present to get the girl because it would only be a piece of paper to her. She would much rather have something personal from you, such as a jewelry box, perfume, identification bracelet or something similar.

Dear Dan: I'm a girl of 17 and would like to know whether or not to speak to boys if we haven't been properly introduced. For example, if I'm walking along the street and some boys I know by sight are sitting in a parked car, should I talk to them for any length of time? My other question is about dancing. If it all right to accept a dance with a boy without first being introduced? My whole crowd does this but my father says they're wrong. He says introductions should come first. Thank you for your help. — Miss Perplexed.

Dear Miss Perplexed: If you know the boys in the car well enough by sight and you're sure they at least know you on that same basis, it's all right to smile and say "Hi." However, don't go beyond that. Agirl doesn't look very ladylike leaning into or standing outside of a car containing boys and carrying on a conversation, even if one of the boys is her steady.

Dances are different than sidewalk meetings and I think it's perfectly proper for you to accept a dance with a boy you don't know provided the boy asks you in a nice way. Dances are one of the best means for teen-age boys and girls to become better acquainted and I'm all for them. By the way, that's how I met my wife. One final word, no matter how nice a boy may seem, don't accept a ride home with him. If he wants a date with you, he can ask you at the dance and then come to your house another evening.

SUNDEW REPORTS

The Sundew's ice breaking operations this spring got underway March 29 when the ship departed for Calcite harbor on Lake Huron. On completion of this operation there after giving assistance to the steamers William Clay Ford and John G. Munson, we headed for Whitefish Bay on Lake Superior to join the Mackinaw. Before arriving there, however, there were ice operations at Cheboygan, St. Ignace, St. Mary's river and Sault te. Marie.

During these operations many assistances were rendered steamers and tankers. In addition to the ice operations, Aids to Navigation and return of light keepers to the various light stations were also carried out. Two winter buoys were withdrawn and two were placed in operation on the lower St. Mary's river. The lightkeepers were returned with the use of the No. 4 cargo boat.

After being underway 19 days, the Sundew headed back for Charlevoix arriving at 2 a.m. Easter Sunday.

By Tuesday we were underway again for the regular spring Aids to Navigation operation. Simmons Reef, Garden Island and Squaw Island buoys were commissioned for the season. We returned here for the night and left for the Straits of Mackinac Wednesday morning for continuation of the Aids of Navigation operation. Engine trouble, however, forced us to turn about and return to Charlevoix for repairs.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

Dan Harris En3 departed for further assignment to a light station under command of Group Charlevoix. He has served aboard ship all winter . . . Wally Wenzel has returned from TAD at USPHS in Detroit where he underwent minor surgery . . . The lack of Sundew reports in recent weeks was due to the fact that this correspondent was away on 20 days leave which included an April 2 wedding (his own) in Chicago and a Florida (Miami) honeymoon.

A Scene From The Junior Play

The Junior class of the Charlevoix high school will present the delightfully entertaining play "The Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" at the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Written by Mark Twain and adapted by John G. Fuller, the play tells the story of a shrewd and clever Yankee, Hank Bennett, played by Bill Supernaw, who finds himself in King Arthur's court and who develops all the miracles of the twentieth century to baffle the court.

Carla Riley plays the role of Queen Guenever who practically runs the good-natured but somewhat discouraged King Arthur (Jim Dennis). The role of Queen Morgan LeFay, the scheming, black-hearted woman, is played by Sandra Tuomela and the part of her villanous partner, Merlin, the magician by Sam Supernaw.

Sandy and Elaine, two charming ladies of the court, are played by Kathy Boss and Sherry Wadas; Mable Bingham portrays the role of the Connecticutt Yankee's sister, Marion while Betty Stoel plays the role of his harassed mother, Mrs. Bennett.

Clarence, the mischievous page boy, is played with a great deal of vigor by Don Nowland, while Carl Mitchell and Perry Smith show how they would have been very excellent knights of old in the roles of Sir Sagramor and Sir Launcelot.

Mrs. Robert G. Martin is directing the three act comedy, assisted by William Ratigan. Mary Jean Campbell is student director.

The technical aspects of the play are under the able direction of Jim Sneathen, technical director. He is being assisted by a stage crew composed of Glenn Snider and Tom Martin, co-chairmen, Terry DeYoung, Spencer Root and Michael Belfy.

Karen Pierce and Pat Seheke are co-chairmen of the properties; Evelyn Peters, Judy Clarke and Loretta Stost are in charge of costumes.

Georgia LaBlance and Frances Hayes head the make-up committee.

Elva Trimble is the prompter.

Lenore Erber has been named business manager. Assisting her will be a committee composed of Lynette Mayne, Sharon Cunningham, Patsy Whitley and Barbara Sharrow who are in charge of programs.

Jerry Williams, Harry Mason, Carol Smith and Audrey Krulik head the ticket committee. They will be assisted by the entire junior class.

Roberta Zeitler heads the advertising committee composed of Ann Phillips, Julie Schofield, Pam Korth, Judy Russell and Monte Withers.

More Than Color Blind When It Comes to "Red"

"Red" Dolan has been going to painting class at night at the high school. They had an exhibition and we all went to see what Red had done.

Red's painting was one of the most beautiful there. We stared at it for the longest time, then all agreed it was a painting of a field close to town, and that it showed a woman in the distance who looked a lot like Red's wife. We congratulated our artist on his work. Red smiled, thanked us all, and was quite happy.

When he left, Slim Johnson noticed the title card by the painting. It read: "Storm Scene on The Lake" by Red Dolan.

From where I sit, there are often occasions when we don't see what we're really supposed to see. Why sometimes we can't even recognize intolerance when it comes along. For instance, if you begrudge me the right to an occasional glass of beer, that's as intolerant as if I denied you a glass of iced tea. Why don't we step back and take another look at intolerance and see it for what it is!

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

A Prayer At Eventide

Lord of earth and Lord of heaven,
Lord of dawn and evening sky,
How brief this day has been!

How hurriedly is written the record
Of one day's thoughts and passions and deeds!
How swiftly we journey through the hours!
How soon our labor is over
And sleep begins to dim the mind!

Now the slowing pulse of twilight
Drums out warnings of day's dying,
And we think of how swiftly
The tides of life ebb and flow.

Lord of all things great and small,
Lord of the centuries and the hastening day,
Lord of Eternity and the fleeting hour,
Make us ever mindful of the brevity of our lives,
As transcient as a thrush's quick, sweet song,
As short as a swallow's swift flight across a stream.

Help us to understand
That since we have such a little way
To travel together,
There is no time to waste
On fretfulness:

Remind us daily that most annoyances are not worth noticing;
Much of man's unkindness
Stems from inner turmoil
Which deserves our pity rather than our revenge;
Many slights can best be passed over
With forgiving silence.
Let us not chafe and complain
When we are misunderstood,
Knowing that we do not even understand ourselves,
And remembering that
Complete understanding is Thine alone.

Cause us to remember
That before we judge another
We should know so much more than any of us do,
And before we judge as Thou dost judge
We should know all that Thou dost know.

Help us to learn
To leave the harsh word unsaid.
Let us draw back the veil of many a dim life
And let the hidden radiance shine forth.
May we remember that life is too short
To be small,
But it is long enough to be kind.

AMEN

Dems to Stage Kick-Off Dinner

Charlevoix county Democrats will hold a kick-off dinner at the VFW post home here Saturday, May 14, Mrs. Theodore Tunison, county chairman, has announced.

Candidates for state, district and county offices have beon invited to attend the dinner meeting which will launch the 1960 membership drive.

Heavy Schedule Set for Thinclads

Charlevoix's thinclads, coached by S. E. 'Irish' Coleman, are on the cinder track nightly preparing for their spring schedule which, thus far, has included only two small meets.

A meet scheduled for Tuesday at Petoskey was rained out but may be run off later this week if the Northmen field can be drained, Coach Coleman said Wednesday.

Last week the Rayders traveled to Traverse City for a meet with Central high school. The big Trojan outfit, however, was too much for the Rayders who tallied only 25 points to Traverse City's 84. Dick VanRaaphorst with a toss of 46 ft. 9 in. placed first in the shot put; Bud Balch with a time 11 seconds placed first in the 100 yd. dash and Gene McBride tied for first with Ken King of Traverse City for first place with a pole vault of 11 ft.

Other point getters were Joe Beaudoin who placed second in the low hurdles; Charles Coleman who had a second in the 220; Mike LaBlance tied for second in the high jump with Bickle of Traverse City and Mark Cross, Beaudnin and Balch who placed third in the 880, high hurdles and low hurdles respectively.

Last week the thinclads traveled to Cheboygan to take on the Chiefs in a meet which the local lads won 73 to 36.

The Rayders took eight out 13 firsts in the event. First place winners were Gene McBride, broad jump; Stan Smith and McBride who tied for first in the pole vault; Charles Coleman, 220 yd. dash; Ron Balch, low hurdles; medley relay team (Doug Bergmann, Smith, McBride and Mark Cross) and 880 relay team (Smith, Coleman, Randy Kies and Cross).

To Observe Nat. Hdw. Week

Most businesses have dedicated a national week to their cause and today (April 28) is the opening day for National Hardware Week, according to Bryce Barnes of the Barnes Lumber and Supply at Eastport, one of the 23,000 independent hardware dealers sponsoring a big give-away to observe the event.

The sponsors have 400 desirable prizes, starting with three American Rambler super station wagons, Shopsmith home work shop and many others. To be eligible for one of these prizes one has only to register at any one of the sponsoring independent retail hardware dealer's stores.

Mr. Barnes says they are going all-out to celebrate the week with an open house, and he added, the shelves will be loaded with merchandise featuring the Golden Key Symbol of 1960 Hardware Week.

Kiwanians Meet In Canada Tonight

A delegation of Charlevoix Kiwanians plan to meet tonight with Kiwanians at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., in observance of U. S.-Canada Good Will Week (April 24-30). This marks the 39th annual observance of good will under the leadership of Kiwanis clubs in both nations.

The week-long event is aimed at dramatizing the tradition of friendship between the two neighboring countries and is scheduled so that it falls on the anniversary of the famous Rush-Bagot Agreement. This document, signed April 28, 1817, virtually demilitarized the boundary between the United States and Canada.

Though residents of the United States and Canada are similar in origin, geographically and economically close, and with the exception of eastern Canada, possessed of a common language, many of the citizens of each country know little about their neighbors. Faith and respect of each for the other has made possible 3,000 miles of border separating the two nations with the result that travel between the two nations is virtually unrestricted.

Save the date Saturday, April 30. For the Fair at St. Mary's School. Movies, Games, Eats and Fun for all starting at 5 p.m. 18-19x

Charlevoix to Host Annual Band Festival Wednesday, May 11

There'll be music in the air next Wednesday when Charlevoix plays host to nine northern Michigan high school bands during its annual Massed Band Festival.

On that day more than 400 young musicians will gather here for the festival which will be climaxed with the massed band concert in the high school auditorium at 7:45 p.m.

Annually the most colorful event of the school year, the festival will begin about noon with participating bands performing concert numbers before Ray Uhlinger, director of bands at Northern Michigan College at Marquette who will serve as guest critic and conductor of the festival. He will criticise the performance of each band but will issue no ratings.

The traditional band parade through the business district will follow the individual band performances. Immediately following the parade the bands will join together for a rehearsal under the direction of Mr. Uhlinger. The massed band concert will be presented promptly at 7:45 p.m.

The Charlevoix festival is one of three being held on successive days. On Tuesday, 10 bands will participate in a festival at Harbor Springs and on Thursday, May 12, nine bands will gather at Mancelona. Mr. Uhlinger will serve as guest critic-conductor at all three festivals which have become necessary because no community is equipped to handle the more than 1200 young musicians who make up the 28 participating bands.

Bands appearing in the Charlevoix festival will be: Ellsworth high school and the East Jordan high school, both directed by Dean Fiedler; Grayling high school, Leroy Christian, director; Central Lake high school, Marshall Richards, director; Elk Rapids high school, Walter Williams, director; Alanson high school, George Stewart director; Petoskey high school concert band, Max Smith, director; Charlevoix high school Senior and Reserve bands, C. A. Odmark, director.

A nominal charge will be made for all events in the forthcoming festival with one ticket admitting the holder to any and all events. A pre-festival ticket sale will be conducted by members of the Charlevoix bands. In announcing the ticket sale, Mr. Odmark said that it was hoped that the people of the community would support the festival by the purchase of tickets so that the event would be returned here in the near future.

Scheduled to appear in the festival at Mancelona Thursday are high school bands from Copemish, Leland and Glen Lake, Northport, Frankfort, Kingsley Area, Gaylord, Mancelona Senior and Mancelona Junior and possibly the Traverse City band.

Don Meggison had good intentions when he decided to educate his 11 year old son in the art of trout fishing. They journied to Webber lake where Mr. Meggison got his limit of sizeeble trout but the really big ones seemed to prefer the big gob of worms presented by Tommy. Tommy edmitted they were a little too big for him to land without some help. The reader can guess who was doing the most boasting.

County Schools May Lose State Aid By Cut in Tax Millage

School districts in Charlevoix county face the probabilty of losing $68,549 of their operational funds if the recent action of the allocation board which reduced the schools appropriation of county monies from eight to seven mills on a "tentative basis" remains. This may force several school districts operating on a small balance to ask the electorate to vote extra millage to offset the loss of state and county funds.

The allocation schedule of county money was upset this year by a new statute which allows townships to receive one mill instead of one-half mill if they show the need. As a result, many townships have asked for the extra millage. Added to this was a plea from the county for more operating funds. With only 15 mills to divide, the allocation board tentatively granted the county seven mills instead of six and a half; the townships one mill instead of a half mill and cut the schools one mill.

If the allocation board adheres to the tentative schedule, the Charlevoix public school will lose $14,917 in state aid payments and $11,830 in direct tax money for a total of $26,747, according to Superintendent Roy G. Bennett. The total loss in state aid and local tax revenue would amount to $94,319 in all 11 of the county's school districts. The only offset to this loss would be a gain of $8,996 which would be divided among the townships on the basis of shown need.

It is the contention of school administrators that the townships are requesting the funds for road construction despite the fact that virtually all roads in the townships are constructed and maintained by the county. It is pointed out, however, townships are able to get extra road work by matching funds with the county.

Schools receive 100 percent state aid only if they levy eight or more mills for operational purposes. In the event the allocation board adopts the seven mills as final at the May 25 meeting, the school districts will probably be forced to go to the voters for extra millage in order to participate in state aid.

School administrators point out there are other alternatives that

To Demonstrate New Jet Propelled Water Craft Here

The jet-age has reached the water craft and the first craft of this type will be on display Saturday and Sunday at the display room of Brown Motors and a second craft demonstrated on Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix.

The new craft is known as the Turbojet which has neither propeller, shaft nor rudder extending below the bottom of the boat, thus enabling the craft to be navigated in as little as three inches of water. Propulsion is obtained by forcing a powerful stream of water from the stern of the boat above the water line.

Hamilton Boat Yard and John B. Cole & Associates are co-operating in the display and demonstration. It is understood Hamilton will have the local agency for the craft.

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

A Vision Of Greatness

Now the lengthening days of spring witness a great whirring of wings as waterfowl from faraway places, travelling toward distant vistas, circle lo over evergreens and birches that rim this shore. There follows a wild, noisy fluttering, and then a great peace and silence as the wayfarers settle upon our bay. Here they will rest and preen themselves. Tomorrow they will float and dive, feed and frolic, and then, seized by a vague longing for the sight of some solitary coastal shore, the wild creatures will launch themselves in flight and wing their determined way on across the continent.

Buffleheads, the smallest of the sea ducks, land here on their way north-westward from their wintering resorts along the east coast. In the shallows of this bay they paddle about and feed among the off-shore pilings. In a few days they will be off again toward their salt water homes in Hudson Bay or along the Pacific Coast of Canada and Alaska.

Old squaw ducks find a night's rest on Lake Charlevoix's waters where they are lullabied to sleep by gently rocking waves. Any moment tomorrow they will sense a compelling inner urgency for faroff places. Suddenly they will taxi along the lake surface until their beating wings catch hold upon the air. Then they will depart toward their saltwater homes in the Artic, where they will seek their daily fare of shrimp and crabs, blue mussels and pill clams in tidal rips and offshore shoals and build their nests in the saltwater sedges and shout loud duck-cries of rejoicing as they and their downy young plunge into cool and frothy waves.

We see from our windows American goldeneye ducks which have spent the winter on eastern coastal waters. There they have fed by day in harbors and bays or just beyond the beating surf, and there at dusk they have flown out to sea to rest and sleep over the great ocean depths. Now as they migrate toward their nesting places they scorn all little ponds and spurn all tiny streams. They land upon this lake because it is roomy and expansive, reminiscent of the sea, which has been their winter home, and the far reaches of the mighty waters off Hudson Bay, and Labrador where their summer will be spent and their ducklings will be raised.

Sea-going ducks, when migrating, nearly never land on tiny ponds or puddles. Unlike such freshwater fowl as mallards, which are accustomed to narrow views and shallow ponds, saltwaterfowl have the broad sea and the wide sky in their hearts. Anything less will not satisfy them.

A vision of greatness spoils us all for puddling — men as well as waterfowl. When people deal with little, mean matters in a little, mean way, we can be sure they are not conversant with the immensities and the infinities. They have not been dwelling on the depths.

The gossip talks excitedly and fascinatedly about the real or imagined evils in his acquaintances because in his heart there are no great themes that interest him more. He paddles about in puddles because he is not at home upon the depths.

The chronic grumbler and complainer is a hazard to society as well as a trouble to himself. (Kin Hubbard onetime said "A true lady or gentleman remains at home with a grouch same as if they had pneumonia!") However, his real fault is not that he spreads his irritations and dissatisfactions but that he makes himself at home in shallow puddles of fretfulness. He spends bis days swimming about in a frothy outrage. Life is difficult: he dwells on that. He has not made himself at home resting on the depths. All the good that bouys him up, whatever thread of health keeps him alive, whatever care he receives from family or public servants, whatever beauty overarches his days, is God's goodness, but he talks as if it does not exist because he feels as if it does not exist. He chafes at monthly bills for utility services, but fails to notice that no bills have arrived for the month's golden sunsets and breathless dawns, its refreshing dews and rains, its countless, quiet stars and springtime fragrance, its visits of friends and love of family, and the shelter of the Everlasting Arms. No bills! And no thanks, either. He has not made himself at home in gratitude, and it is easy to splash about in puddles of peevishness if one is not accustomed to resting on the goodness and greatness of God.

This is one of the chief values of worship: when we face God and see what He is, when we take a fresh look at Jesus Christ and see the meaning of greatness of spirit, we come away dissatisfied with puddling. We have been in touch with the depths. Shallows will no longer satisfy us.

We may think we are leading a full life when we merely have a crowded schedule, which is a far different matter. We may think we have wealth when all we possess is riches. We may confuse light laughter with deep joy, pleasant sensations with profound satisfactions, people's praise and applause with their lasting respect, a good reputation with inner purity. Then we see in Him the real meaning of fullness of life, and behold what joy is, and satisfaction, respect, and purity. As long as we hold on to that vision of greatness we shall remain citizens of the depths. Communion with greatness makes us dissatisfied with littleness.

When we get the vast sea and broad sky into our thinking we no longer care for puddles.

Personality Glamorized!

The person who said, "You can't tell a book by its cover," wasn't talking about books at all! — he was talking about ladies of fashion. Time was when you could spot a nife student by the horn-rimmed glasses, a teenager by her bobby six, a career girl by her well tailored suit. Today — a baby sitter, debutante, a young mother of four, a school teacher — who can tell the difference? A woman this day, dresses not to estalish her role in life but to express her personality, her mood and her special tastes.

Argonne To Open This Week End

The Argonne will open this weekend for the 1900 season according to Bill Matzinger, owner-operator of the popular eating place located north of Charlevoix one-half mile off US-31.

Friday will again be shrimp night with the dining room opening at 5 p.m. A full menu featuring New York cut sirloin will be served Saturday. The bar will open at 4 p.m.

Call Work Bee At Norwood Cemetery

The annual clean-up bee at the Norwood cemetery will be held Saturday. William Parsons has announced.

A pot-luck noon lunch for the participants will be served at the Community hall.

Schools May Lose State Aid Funds

could save the potential return in state aid and local tax revenue. They suggest that townships needing money for roads vote the one-half mill ($8,000) or one mill ($16,000), depending on the final allocation. The board could then allocate the required eight mills to the school, thus making them eligible to receive the $60,573 in state aid.

The second alternative suggested would be for county electors to vote extra millage for county operation, allocate eight mills to the schools and thereby meeting the provisions of the state tax laws.

It is inevitable that some school districts will have to vote extra millage for operational expenses regardless of the state aid. Their plight, however, will be more acute if they are not eligible to receive state funds.

C. C. Basket Comm. Welcomed Seven Families to City

The Welcome Basket committee sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce called on seven new families in the community during the month of April, Mrs. Andrew Essenburg, Jr., chairman of the committee has announced.

Purpose of the committee is to extend a greeting to new residents and to acquaint them with merchandise and services available in this community. Each family is presented with gift certificates and merchandise from those Chamber of Commerce businesses participating in the program.

Since the first call was made early last month, six new members are offering gift certificates, a complimentary service or merchandise. They are Neff Brothers, Puff's Appliance, Charlevoix Oil Co. Polly Kay Shop, Schroeder & Hovey Drug and the Campbell Boot shop.

The new residents are Mr. and Mrs. William Downing who have moved here from Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cutcher from Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Selinger from Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fiedorek from Kalamazoo and Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart from Muncie, Ind. The first four families are here with the U. S. Coast Guard, Mr. Fiedorek with the proposed bowling alley and Mr Stewart, administrator with Little Traverse Hospital.

The Chamber of Commerce would appreciate the cooperation of the residents of the community in informing them of new families coming to Charlevoix to make their home. A newcomer is defined as a family coming to Charlevoix as a total stranger to make their home here.

Charlevoix County Farm Bureau Women Approve State Projects

Five state-wide projects to be undertaken by the Farm Bureau Women of the country were approved by the Charlevoix county Farm Bureau Women's Committee at s regular meeting of the organization held recently at the home of Mrs. Thomas Nielsen. Ten of the 15 community groups in the county were represented at the April meeting. Several guests were also present.

The projects approved include the collection of Pennies for Friendship for the support of the Associated Country Women of the World; pennies for the International Friendship Fund; contributions to underwrite the expense of sending a delegate to the triennial meeting of the Associated Country Women of the World to be held in Australia in 1962; support of a project to raise $25,000 for a dormitory at Camp Kett; the purchase of the book "The Naked Communist," which tells the story of the infiltration of Communism. The books are to be made available to every high school library in the county.

Reports were given by the citizenship, safety, legislative and Farm Bureau Information chairman and Mrs. Jasper Warner presented a reading entitled "I am the Nation."

A highlight of the meeting was an interesting discussion by three high school girls. Ann Martin of Charlevoix, who will visit Germany ths summer as an American exchange student, AnnaMargaret von Reusner of Wolfenbuttel near Hamburg and Gerry Feix of Rheydt near Cologne, who are spending the school year in this country as exchange students.

In discussing their schools in Germany, the latter two girls said their school day started before 8 a.m. and that they had classes only during the morning with time for studying at home during the afternoon. Schools are in session 10 months of the year with a month off during the summer and two full weeks each in October and at Easter. Students attend school 13 years and have very concentrated courses of study in the languages, having as much as five years of English, French or Latin. Their schools, they said, were always larger than those in Charlevoix county, due to the dense population. Transportation for students is not provided as it is here and students must get to school by train or bicycle. There is little interscholastic competition except between schools in the same city.

They went on to say that West Germany, which is about the size of the state of Oregon, has a population of approximately 53 million and that many families live in apartment buildings as land is very costly for building small homes. The girls thought the families of Germany were a closer unit than here although many mothers work outside the homes. Students do not have cars and usually do not even have licenses to drive because they cannot obtain a license until they are 18 years of age and then its costs about $70, the girls said.

In answer to the question "Would you like to live in the United States?" both girls said they would like to return here but that they would feel as though they were running out on their country if they left Germany while it was divided as it is now. They added that there is still much to be done to re-unite their country and to rebuild their homeland.

Local Teachers Attend Conference In Traverse City

Mrs. Louis Courtade and Mrs. Robert G. Martin of the Charlevoix high school English department were in Traverse City recently for the second annual conference sponsored by the Michigan Council, Teachers of English.

Held at Northwestern Michigan College, the conference featured a talk on the topic "Thinking through Composition by Earl V. Leichty, Michigan State University, and a panel moderated by Jack McChrystal of the college faculty on "What are High Schools and Colleges Doing About English."

SUNDEW REPORTS

The Sundew got underway Monday, April 25, for Aids to Navigation operations in the Straits area, Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. Buoys were commissioned near Greys Reef light, St. Helena's light and on either side of the Mackinac bridge to mention a few spots. In all, a total of 32 buoys were commissioned in a period of seven days. This meant the deck gang had plenty to do as each buoy must be made ready with sinker and chain before being placed in the water. Once ready the buoy and sinker are moved into position over the side of the ship with the use of the boom. As soon as the exact position the buoy is to be placed is determined, the word is given and the sinker and chain are released ,followed by the buoy.

For many of the deck gang, the commissioning of buoys was a new experience but by the end of the past week the crew waa well seasoned.

On completion of Aids to Navigation operations in northern Lake Michigan and Lake Huron, the Sundew returned to port Sunday night.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . . Donald Meyer, BM3, reported aboard for two weeks active duty training. He's from Chicago where he is a member of the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve . . . Jerry Wyant was promoted to Second Class Engineman. Congratulations . . . Benny Dela Cruz departed on 60 days leave to visit his family in the Philippine Islands.

why
Mercury is the better low-price car

MORE VALUE. Just look at these Mercury advantages over other low-price cars:

You ride smoother because Mercury has up to 8 inches more wheelbase . . . and is up to 494 pounds heavier. You're more comfortable because of Mercury's extra shoulder room, leg room, and foot room. You feel safer because Mercury's brakes are bigger (up to 26%), and visibility is better (up to 21% more).

Mercury has at least two dozen extra values. Why not enjoy them all, and save a little money, too?

PRICES START $63 TO $66* BELOW EVEN THE LOWEST-PRICED V-8 POWERED PLYMOUTH FURY OR CHEVROLET IMPALA.

And we're not talking about a 'stripped' Mercury. This price comparison is based on a de luxe-appointed Monterey with luxurious nylon interior and deep, soft wall-to-wall carpeting.

This amazing price story is the result of Mercury's dramatic 1960 price reductions (as much as $174 lower than last year, including extras that are now standard equipment).

Every Mercury is lower priced than last year. All Montereys are now low-price cars. They are priced below, or within a few dollars of, the other de luxe V-8 series in the low-price field. Come in. See for yourself.

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested 1960 retail base prices for lowest-priced V-8 models.

Charlevoix High School Band Wins First Division Rating

The Charlevoix high school band directed by C. A. Odmark won a first division rating in the Class C state competition of the State Band and Orchestra Festival held at Mt. Pleasant Saturday.

Charlevoix's 75-piece band was among nine of in Class C competition to receive the highest rating in the festival.

Playing before the adjudicators in concert, the band performed well under difficult stage conditions according to Mr. Odmark.

Criticism from the judges, while mostly of a technical nature, included such comments as: "The overall job of this number (the required number) is certainly one of the best of the day" said Norman Dietz, director of bands at Central Michigan University who added that "It was a real pleasure to hear this group play." "As a whole the band sounded very good. It was a good full sound" was the comment of Roger Jacobi, associate professor of Music Education at the University of Michigan; "Your school and community should be very proud of this band" LaVerne Reimer, supervisor of music at Elmhurst, Ill., said in praise of the performance; "The band shows good direction and training; strive now for more subtle interpretation" was the criticism made by Stanley Finn, instructor of woodwinds at Michigan State University, sight reading judge.

Other northern Michigan bands which participated in the state competition were Petoskey playing in the Class B division at Midland and Boyne City in Class C which won second division ratings and Gaylord in Class C which won a third division rating.

The first division rating by the Charlevoix group marks the eighth time the local band had won a top rating in 13 years of state competition. The band has qualified for state competition 13 of the last 14 years. The band received its first top rating in 1950.

Tax Commission Proposes Increase In County Valuation

Under a proposed schedule recommended by the state tax commission, Charlevoix county's state aqualized valuation will be hiked approximately 13 per cent over the 1959 valuation if the recommended increases for the entire state are approved.

The new Charlevoix county valuation was placed at $39,605,000, an increase of $6,130,800 over the 1950 figure of $33,474.200.

If the recommended figure for Charlevoix county is approved, the county's tax problems may be solved for the present.

Certain responsible persons have indicated that the county could meet its budget needs with a 6½ mill tax levy, the same millage it was allocated last year.

A 6½ mill tax levy on the new valuation figure of $39,805,000 would net the county a total of $257,432.50 toward the county's 1961 tentative budget of $279,302. This would amount to $39,850.20 more than was raised last year when the 6½ mills was levied on the old valuation figure of $33,474,200 which brought in $217,582 which was applied to the county's adopted budget of $244,397.15 on which the county is now operating.

Chances are the budget for 1981 will be cut back from the tentative budget of $289,441 which was pored to $244,397.15 before it was adopted.

If the county does go back to the 6½ mill figure and the townships continue their request for a full mill to which they are legally entitled, then a maximum of 7½ mills will be left for the schools. However, if the townships would settle for one-half mill as they have in the past, than the schools could receive their full eight mills without an additional tax levy in order to qualify for 100 per cent participation in the state aid program.

The final decision in the issue now rests with the tax allocation board which is scheduled to meet May 25 to wrestle with the problem.

At the initial meeting at which the tentative rate was set, the county was allocated seven mills, and the townships, with the exception of Eveline and Norwood, one mill each, leaving only seven mills for the schools which, as mentioned above, require eight mills in order to qualify for full participation in the state aid program.

'Nick' Hamilton To Be Installed Pres. of Jaycees

Nicholas Hamilton will be installed as president of the Charlevoix Jaycees at a special installation ceremony to be held at the VFW Post Home at 8 p.m. Monday.

He will succeed Don Brown as president of the organization which observed its first anniversary in December.

Other new officers are Robert Ouderkirk, vice president, and Ivan Whitley, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Brown, the retiring president, will be the installing officer.

Two members who have reached the retirement age of JayCees, Kenneth Staley and Louis McKenzie, will receive Exhausted Rooster pins.

Wives of the members will be guests at the ceremony and potluck supper. Robert Reed is in charge of the arrangements for the event.

Concert to Be Given by City Band at Bellaire

The Charlevoix city band will make one of its rare "off season" appearances next Wednesday when it travels to Bellaire to present a concert for the benefit of the Bellaire high school band uniform fund.

The concert will be presented at the Community building in Bellaire at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The city band which presents a series of concerts in East Park during July and August rehearses weekly the year around. Bolstered by several new adult members, the band feels this concert will be a "conditioner" for the strenuous concert season which this year will begin with a special concert on Monday, June 27, and will begin regular concerts on Wednesday, July 8, according to C. A. Odmark, director of the group.

The concert in Bellaire Wednesday will assist a drive for new band uniforms being staged by the Bellaire high school band directed by Paul Thompson.

Both service organizations use the funds derived from the sale of the poppies for welfare and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and in providing aid for their dependents.

Council Directs Installation of Flower Baskets

Charlevoix's hanging flower baskets, which are fast becoming the city's trademark, will be filled at Edwards Florist and placed as soon as weather permits.

The installation of parking meters on th enorth side of the street leading from Bridge st. to the municipal dock was discussed. At present there are seven meters on the street and there are a number of marked places where meters could be installed. A study is being made of the situation.

A delegation from the Charlevoix Marine Club appeared before the council to discuss improvements on the Ferry ove. launching romp which the club built last year. With Lee Moerland serving as spokesman, the club recommended improvement of the ramp on the lake side and the construction of a pier along the side of the present ramp. The proposed improvements would cost an estimated $1200, Mr. Moerland said. The issue was taken under advisement by the council.

A second group appeared in behalf of the softball program. A site was selected and work will begin shortly in order to ready the new field to be located at Carpenter ave. and the Norwood road for the forthcoming season. (See separate story.)

Approval was given a proposal to block off Bridge st. from Hurlbut ave. to Park ave. for a parade on May 21.

The average person listens to only a fifth of what is said according to a study at the University of Minnesota. — Imperial Type Magazine.

Pay Hike Is Approved by City Council

The approval of a wage classification and pay scale formula recommended by the finance committee of the City Council has given city employees a pay high ranging up to 15 cents an hour.

The council gave its OK to the proposed reclassification and pay hike at its regular meeting Monday.

Only a few employees received the top raise and one employee would not get a pay boost under the new wage classification and pay scale formula.

The pay increase, which became effective May 9, affects hourly employees in the street, utility and cemetery departments and salaried employees in the police, fire and street departments.

Figures on what the pay boost would cost the city were not available.

The council, by a vote of 5 to 1, gave its approval to a $1,950 appropriation to the Chamber of Commerce, bringing to $5,450 the amount the city will contribute to the Chamber's budget of $14,835 for the fiscal year.

With the expiration of present hangar leases at the local airport, hangar rentals will be increased to $18 per month, an increase of $3.00 over the old rentals.

Bids for the Lake Michigan bathhouse concession were received from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Russell and Mrs. Edward Heise Sr. The bids were read and turned over to the committee on public buildings for consideration. The committee will report at the May 23 meeting of the council.

Annual Track And Field Meet At Petoskey Thurs.

The 25th annual Northern Michigan Class C Conference track and field meet previously scheduled for Monday has been postponed until 2 p.m. today (Thursday).

The meet will be held at the Petoskey athletic field with the preliminaries scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m. Finals will be held beginning at 7 p.m.

The postponement became necessary Monday when the track was covered with several inches of water as the result of five days rain. Efforts were being made to drain the field despite the rain which continued Tuesday.

Highway Litter Bugs Are Costly

In keeping with our local Clean-up week, a few facts about the litter problem on a national scale may help stress the need of clean-up day the year around to "Help Keep America Beautiful" according to Mrs. Harley Ochs, chairman of the Garden Club's community service chairman.

Statistics show that more than $50 millions is spent each year to clean up primary highways alone and countless additional millions are allocated to remove litter from communities, city streets, parks, beaches and recreation area, she added. Litter is also a fire and health hazard; disease and infection are spread by insects and rodents that flourish on refuse and debris.

Mrs. Ochs reminded people that these dollars spent to "Keep America Beautiful" are your tax dollars. Each individual can assist in cutting taxes by taking a personal responsibility in keeping his neighborhood, city and surrounding area free of litter.

All Day Pancake Feed Served by Local Jaycees

The Charlevoix JayCees will sponsor an all-day pancake feed at Karol's Kitchen Saturday, May 21, as a part of the Maple Syrup Festival being held during the annual observance of Michigan Week.

Serving will begin when the restaurant opens Saturday morning and continue throughout the day with members of the Jaycees preparing and serving the hot cakes.

Perch Are Biting On Beaver Island

St. James, B. I. — The perch run in the harbor at St. James got underway here Sunday with fishermen bringing in record catches of the tasty fish according to Archie LaFreniere, president of the Beaver Island Civic Association.

Fishermen may reach the island via the ferry, Emerald Isle, which makes daily trips except on Sunday to the mainland and return or via chartered plane from the airport at Charlevoix or Harbor Springs.

C of C Proposes Meters to Relieve Parking Problem

The city council will be asked by the Chamber of Commerce to install parking meters on the streets as soon as possible and maintain them on a year around basis. The action was taken by the directors Tuesday evening following complaints that shoppers are being forced to park on distant side streets because some business operators and their employees are occupying the Bridge street parking spaces throughout the day.

It was contended that a city ordinance limited parking on Bridge st. to one hour regardless of metering the time but that the ordinance has not been enforced.

Some of the persons present felt the merchants should do their own policing if they were interested in easing the parking problem for their customers.

In another action the directors voted to take a one year lease on the office space in the Brown Motors building. The space will be used for a permanent office for conferences and a place for keeping files. The regular Chamber of Commerce building in East Park will be opened during the summer months as an information center. The Brown Motors office space was rented the past winter because of the inadequate heating facilities in the regular building.

The membership campaign is still in progress, according to a report by Bill Carey, chairman of the finance committee. He expects most members will renew their pledges for this year as soon as they can be contacted by members of the committee. Secretary-Manager Paul Kohler reported a number of new membera had pledged support for this year.

Municipal Bills Pose Problems

Delinquent utility accounts were again discussed by the city council at its regular meeting Monday.

A further crack down on subscribers who are making no effort to pay their accounts was ordered.

City Superintendent James Taylor said Tuesday that the total amount in delinquent accounts had been cut from approximately $5,500 at the first of the year to $4,200 by May 1. Included in this figure is approximately $1,400 which is considered uncollectable because subscribers have died, have had service discontinued or have moved away.

City Council Approves New Soft Ball Field

Charlevoix will have a new softball field following the approval of a site recommended by the recreation committee headed by Second Ward Alderman Kenneth Staley.

The site is located on the northwest corner of the airport property at Carpenter ave. and the Norwood road.

The city council approved the recommendation made by the committee at the regular council meeting Monday night.

Plans call for the construction of the field to begin as soon as weather permits. Volunteer workmen, the majority of whom are softball enthusiasts, will join with city crews in building the field. The use of heavy equipment by local contractors has also been made available to the volunteer work crews.

It became necessary to find a new site for the softball field after construction of the new junior-senior high school began last fall. A number of sites were considered before the Carpenter ave. site was selected.

Edward Heise, 40 Escapes Serious Injury in Fall

The condition of Edward Heise, who was admitted to the Charlevoix hospital Saturday afternoon for treatment of multiple fractures of the lower extremities was satisfactory Wednesday according to Dr. Robert G. Martin, the attending physician.

Heise was injured when a freight elevator he was operating in the Hess Furniture warehouse on Van Pelt Place, released unexpectedly after having been stuck, and fell two stories. Heise's injuries were the result of the sudden impact of the elevator.

He was alone in the warehouse at the time. His cries were heard by a passer-by, Robert Sommerville, who summoned assistance.

JayCees to Sponsor Teen Age Rodeo Here

Thirty-seven young drivers are entered in the Teen-Age Road-e-o sponsored by the Charlevoix JayCees according to Don Brown, president of the organization.

The first preliminary test for contestants will be held at the high school cafeteria at 10 a.m. Saturday. A movie on safe driving will be shown by the Michigan State Police. Entrees are not closed and any young driver that is interested in the Road-e-o is invited to attend this meeting.

The second or physical tests including a demonstration of safe driving will be held Saturday, May 22. Details of this event will be announced next week.

A number of awards will be given to the teen-age boys and girls participating in the Road-e-o. These awards are currently on display at the Central Drug store.

The two local banks, the Charlevoix County State and the Charlevoix State Savings banks, have each contributed $25 to help underwrite the cost of sending the winning boy and girl to the state competition to be held at Orian next month.

Five local car dealers are cooperating in staging the Road-e-o by underwriting the cost of the awards and the insurance for contestonts and furnishing cars for the second stage of the local Road-e-o. The dealers are Northern Auto, Charlevoix Oil, Brown Motors, Uhrick Sales and Service and Parsel's.

The Road-e-o whose chief purpose is to promote safe driving among young people is open to anyone up to 19 years of age who has a driver's license.

Open Michigan Week Activities Monday With Mayor Exchange

In observance of Mayor's Exchange Day Monday, Charlevoix will host Village President A. E. Moilanen of L'Anse while Mayor E. James Hiller will spend the day in the upper peninsula city located on Lake Superior in Baraga county.

Mr. Moilanen will be accompanied here by his wife. Mayor Hiller will be joined by Mrs. Hiller and First Ward alderman, E. D. Hawley and Mrs. Hawley for the visit to L'Anse, a community of approximately 2,400 people.

City Supt. James Taylor and members of the special Mayors' Exchange committee, Edward Hansen, mayor pro tem, Jack Grubaugh and Richard Donaldson, will greet Mr. and Mrs. Moilanen at the city hall at 10 a.m. Following a tour of the city hall to meet other officials, the group will then visit local utilities, parks, ski run, golf course and the Charlevoix hospital.

At noon they will be joined by the members of the council and other city officials and their respective wives Paul Kohler, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Kohler at a luncheon at Grey Gables Inn.

The afternoon will be spent touring local industries and the site of the Consumers Power Co. nuclear power plant at Big Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Moilanen will be feted at a dinner at the Weathervane Inn Monday evening. Guests will be city officials and councilmen and their respective wives.

Another feature of Michigan Week will be the week-long Perchorama, according to George Hutchinson, city chairman, who said that all perch fishermen were eligible to enter the contest. Daily prizes will be awarded for the largest fish caught.

Days which will receive special recognition during the week will be Spiritual Day Sunday when pastors of local churches will devote their sermons to subjects in keeping with Michigan Week.

On Tuesday local stores will feature Michigan products; on Wednesday there will be tours of the city's resort areas at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce where the tours will originate; Thursday, Education Day, will feature a special program at the elementary school; Friday, Our Heritage Day, will feature tours of sugar bushes and trips to area where wild flowers are in bloom. This will be under the sponsorship of the Garden club. Saturday's program, under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix JayCees, will point up Frontier Days. The schedule for Friday and Saturday will be announced next week.

P. T. A. to Hear Dr. Carl Spitler Speak on Finance

"What you need to know to help your school" will be the topic of the program at the regular meeting of the PTA scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday in the high school band room.

Dr. Carl Spitler, former superintendent of schools in Petoskey, will be the speaker, assisted by a panel of persons representing the local school system and community.

Recent public concern over the need to improve the public school programs has made it imperative that the general public have a clearer understanding of the sources of public school support. Dr. Spitler, considered an authority on the problems of finance in education, will speak on this subject. A discussion period will follow with a panel present to answer questions pertaining to the local situation.

Approve Safety Of Nuclear Plant At Big Rock

The construction of the $27 million nuclear reactor at Big Rock Point north of here moved one step closer to reality this week with the announcement that an atomic examiner had said that sufficient information now is available to provide reasonable assurance that the proposed reactor "can be constructed and operated without endangering the health and safety of the public."

The approval will become final unless the Atomic Energy Commission calls for a review before May 27 or unless exceptions are filed before that date.

Consumers Power Co. hoping for issuance of the construction permit, already has started work on the non-atomic phase of the project. An access road and railroad siding are presently under construction.

If the construction permit is issued, it is planned to have the reactor plant in operation by September 1962. A starting generator with a capacity of 50,000 kilowatts is planned. This will be increased to 75,000 kilowatts.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

No Matter the Weather

For some weeks now the shrill cries of killdeer plovers have haunted the misty lowlands near the lake at sunrise and at sunset their wind-loving wings have beat the air and their sharp call-notes have broken the silences of this lake-shore pastel paradise. Killdeer are among the first of our bird neighbors to return from their summer resorting in the South, and their arrival is prophetic of the whirring of countless wings as multitudes of frail but dauntless spirits come hopping into this slowly awakening land.

Now the great river of migration flows northward. From the southern states of our country and from Central and South America on determined wings the wayfarers come. Some spurn the [illegible] and fly only by day. Others [illegible] the day and fly by night. Many birds, including geese, ducks, and shorebirds, fly at great heights, often more than a mile above the greening land, while others, such as sparrows, warblers, hummingbirds, and vireos, fly just above budded treetops and have been seen by crews of fishing boats off the Florida coast, barely skimming the water as they headed for North America. Herons poke along at twenty miles per hour while some ducks and geese exceed fifty.

Although they may possess a wide variety of travelling habits, there is one thing these air-voyagers have in common — a certain dependability. My nature diary indicates killdeer arrive on the beach year after year with a high degree of promptness, regardless of the weather. This year's first wild, shrill, plaintive call was heard, almost to a day, a year later than last spring's first killdeer cry. The purple martins returned to their apartment house on a post where our lawn meets the beach on April 22nd this year. The date of their arrival varies little from spring to spring — no matter the weather. It would appear they were overly impulsive in their rush northward this spring for we have had much cold, wet weather since they came. But they are undaunted, and along the far edge of the lengthened days of this damp and frigid spring they fly and emit tiny, bright sparks of song against the darkening sky. And so with song sparrows, wood thrushes, wrens and all the feathered hosts that cascade from warmer climes toward the land of birch and evergreen — they are moved by profound urgency and not by whim; they come here driven by a pressing purpose that beats down fear and conquers fatigue. When the migratory urge (triggered, some ornithologists believe, by changes in duration and intensity of light) commands, the birds obey. They do not wait for ideal conditions. They seek no guarantee of continual fair weather. They will not be discouraged and cancel their spring's migration because of an adverse wind or a frosty night. These travellers have surrendered unconditionally to the inner imperative.

Few secrets of achievement are so important as to have a purpose so worthwhile that one persists in it in all kinds of spiritual weather — through clouds of discouragement and storms of criticism, against winds of opposition, and without regard for threatening consequences. This does not mean that foul weather can be ignored. There is only stupidity in that — not courage. Courage is not ignorance of bad weather but persistence in the face of it. The world's most noble achievers have known as much dismay, regret, and temporary shame at failure as have the quitters, but the victors have subordinated their moods to something they have regarded as far more important than variable feelings.

Last week a princess and a "commoner" were married in Westminster Abbey. Before the high altar Princess Margaret Rose and Anthony Armstrong-Jones pledged lasting love and loyalty to each other, "for better, for worse." Love prompts such unconditional surrender. It recognizes the likelihood of bad weather but flies in the face of it.

The ultimate conditions of life — such as love, battle for one's homeland, lofty purpose — are all assailed by adversity. The wayfarer who reaches his goal is one whose dedication is stronger than the storm.

Plan now for Memorial Day. Select your plants early from [illegible] large stock.

An Open Letter to the Men of the Community:

Plans are now ready for a number of projects needed to be completed at the local Girl Scout Camp.

Mr. Uno Suomela, chairman of the Site Development Committee, has had detailed directions drawn up for each project. The work is broken down into units to be accomplished by one, two or three men working at their own time and convenience.

He would like all volunteer workers to meet with him Friday evening at 7:30 in the Community Room of the City Hall to explain the work details and assign individual responsibilities.

We are delighted with the progress being experienced in this new camp situation for our Charlevoix Girl Scouts and appreciate every hour given by the men of the community.

Miss Arlene K. Stapley Becomes Bride of Howard R. Timmer

The Calvary Undenominational Chapel in Grand Rapids was the scene Friday evening of the wedding of Miss Arlene K. Stapley and Howard R. Timmer.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Stapley of Grand Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Timmer of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Sidney Werkema officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 150 guests. Baskets of spring flowers decorated the sanctuary for the ceremony. Mrs. James Kingma was the organist and Mrs. Bernard Graves the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white brocaded bridal satin for her wedding. The fitted bodice had a scalloped neckline and long sleeves. The back of the skirt featured a bustle which terminated in a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of pearls and sequins and she carried a white Bible topped with white orchids and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. Dan Haan of Grand Rapids, as matron of honor, wore a full length gown of orchid frosted nylon over matching taffeta with a crossed cummerbund which terminated in a full length sash. Her headdress was of matching petal nylon and seedpearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of carnations.

Miss Jean Veldamp and Miss Maxine VandenBerg of Grand Rapids, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore gowns and headdresses identical to the honor attendant's in pink and rose nylon. Their cascade bouquets were of matching carnations.

Terri Fongers of Grand Rapids, cousin of the bride, as flower girl, wore a full length gown of white nylon over frosty pink taffeta and carried a basket of spring flowers. David Fongers, another cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Phillip Timmer assisted his brother as best man. William Stapley and Richard Stapley of Grand Rapids, brothers of the bride, seated the guests.

Mrs. Stapley selected a brown tone print dress, beige accessories and a corsage of yellow orchids for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Timmer, mother of the bridegroom, wore a rose lace dress, white accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Arrangements of spring flowers and lighted tapers decorated the refreshment table. Assisting were the Misses Alice Norton, Virginia Wight, Carole Nagelkirk, Ardith Koopmans, Ann Krajewski, Mary Lou Malesh, Glenda Wilson and Barbara Happie, Mrs. Kenneth Melfroid and Mrs. Merle Weller. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shell were in charge of the gifts.

For traveling on their southern wedding trip the bride wore a blue green dress, matching coat and accessories and a white orchid corsage. After May 16, the couple will be at home at 232 Oakley Place, Grand Rapids.

The bride is a graduate of Creston high, Grand Rapids Junior College and the Butterworth Hospital School of Nursing in Grand Rapids. Mr. Timmer is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and Calvin College and received his Master's degree in Business Administration from the University of Michigan.

Betrothed

The engagement of Miss Virginia Smothers to Robert E. Richards has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mrs. Marie Smothers of Springfield, Mo., and Bruxie Smothers of Independence, Mo.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Richards of this city.

The wedding will be an event of June 23 at the First Methodist church of Springfield, Mo.

The bride-elect was graduated from Central high school in Springfield and attended Drury College. She is presently employed at Station KWTO in Springfield. Mr. Richards, a graduate of the Charlevoix high school, attended Carnegie Institute of Technology and was graduated from Rochester, N. Y., Institute of Technology. IN THE LEGAL Mechanics of Michigan tax laws school districts share in state aid money in proportion to the amount of money that is allocated to your schools by local taxing units. Schools receive 100% state aid payments only if they levy 8 or more mills for operational purposes based upon state equalized valuation.

This year the county tax allocation board reduced the schools from 8 to 7 mills on a "tentative basis." They can make their decision permanent at their final meeting May 25, or they can allocate 8 mills to the schools, the same figure schools received last year.

Here's what will happen should the board adhere to its tentative decision:

Schedule A

Charlevoix would lose $14,917.00 in state aid payments and $11,830.00 in direct tax money for a total of $26,747.00, or $32.53 per student.

Other Figures for Other Districts

The total loss to schools in state aid and local tax revenue would amount to $94,319.00 in all eleven (11) of the county's school districts.

In all fairness to everyone concerned, it must be explained how the situation arose.

For several years townships have received one-half mill. But last year a new law, Public Act No. 88, 1959, was passed which gave townships showing a need in their budgets a right to receive as much as one mill of the 15 mills to be divided among county, schools, and townships.

Many Charlevoix county townships submitted budgets for one mill for township road construction purposes, and other operational expenses.

It is their legal prerogative to do so.

But there are virtually no township roads in the county; virtually every road in the county is a county or state road.

The one mill requested by townships would do little to improve roads. Some townships like Chandler, Hudson, and Wilson would receive amounts as little as $78.00, $197.00, and $385.00 respectively.

The largest township in the county, Eveline, would receive only $2,381.00 for road construction or other operational purposes.

In fact, all townships in the county would receive only $8,996.00 total, That, according to competent road building authorities would pay for slightly less than one mile of graded and graveled secondary road.

But the tragedy in this mystery of tax law is that while the townships gain $8,996.00, the county as a whole—and that includes the townships (we're all members of the county as a taxing unit) — would lose $68,549.00.

That figure is arrived at by adding direct tax money of $7,976.00, plus state aid payments of $60,573.00, for a total of $68,549.00 forfeited revenues.

However, a single year's loss in tax money isn't the complete picture created by the strange quirk of tax law.

County residents must face up to consequences with a "delayed action" effect.

As the result of loss of tax revenue several school districts now operating with slight balances will have to go before their electorate next year, asking for substantial increases in millage for operational expenses. The amounts they will have to ask for will vary in accordance with their financial status.

All districts will have to ask for extra operational millage to offset the loss in state aid. Some may be able to continue to operate at extra millages as low as one mill. But all will have to ask for some kind of financial assistance.

There are alternatives that could save the potential return in state aid money and local tax revenue, and still net the schools their forfeited funds.

Alternative No. 1

If townships need money for roads, as they have requested from the county tax allocation board, they could vote one-half mill ($8,000) or one mill ($16,000), depending on the final allocation, and gain the $60,573.00 loss of state aid to schools in the county — thus saving their dwindling school budget dollars.

Alternative No. 2

The county electors could vote extra millage for county operation so that schools could still get eight mills and thereby meet the provisions of state tax laws —if townships continue their request for road money.

All the schools in Charlevoix County, even with 8 mills, will be operating on the proposed budget.

That, in general, is the situation that now confronts the county.

This is the specific story for Charlevoix. One mill will be necessary to meet the loss and three additional mills to meet budget needs. In the East Jordan the ratio is one plus three, to meet budget needs. In Boyne City the ratio is one plus 1½ to meet the needs.

These examples are typical of the needs of other districts in the county.

This public service message, a joint effort of school districts in the county, appears in every paper in the county and its text is the same except in the paragraphs explaining the local situation with respect to the districts concerned.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Tune-in on the Pastime?

The electronic age continues to amaze me. Just read in a farm journal that cows can now be wired for sound . . . so that you can tell if they've been overeating!

Seems that before you turn a cow out to pasture, you can feed her a small transmitter powered by a flashlight battery.

Then all you do is sit comfortably at home and wait for a signal to show up on a recorder. Soon as you get a "bleep," you go out and fetch "Bossie"—that signal means she's had enough.

From where I sit, I'd need a lot of "proving" before I would buy an idea like this one. But I'll listen! A closed mind on any subject—even to whether a cup of tea or a glass of beer is the best "refresher"—is not a tolerant mind. The American way is to never "short-circuit" what the other fellow has to say.

The Sundew got underway Tuesday for Aids to Navigation operatoins in the Boulder Reef area. Prior to leaving on the assignment we docked at the Charlevoix Lifeboat tation to pick up the Boulder Reef buoy, the largest one to be commissioned on the Great Lakes. It weighs 13 tons and is equipped with all the latest devices for ease in detection. The Sundew returned to port after completing Aids to Navigation operations in the Boulder Reef-South Fox Island areas.

Wednesday we were underway again to complete Aids to Navigation operations in the southern section of our area. This included commissioning the Charlevoix LBB1A just beyond the South Pier Head light. By Thursday morning we were in again to load the last of the lighted buoys which were to be commissioned in the Grand Traverse Bay area. It's wonderful to feel cared for What's a doctor? He's many things. To Jimmy he's a cold stethoscope, a polio shot and a lollipop. To his wife he's three hours' sleep and a telephone that always rings the moment he goes to bed. To you he's a comfort . . . a man you can count on whenever he's needed. Your Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection is like that, too. It's there when you need it, to pay most of the bills and to ease the worry. Doctors, hospitals and Blue Cross-Blue Shield just naturally go together. Preliminary Report Indicates Decline in County Population

Preliminary tabulation of census returns for Charlevoix county given the popuation as 13,158, a loss of 317 since the 1950 census, according to a May 16 press release by Stewart T. Moran, district supervisor. He states this figure is substantially correct, but is subject to revision after the returns for non-residents are credited to their proper locality and other routine checks have been made.

In all probability each of the three largest cities will share in the loss tabulation in the final report. Rules for determining residencee as reported by enumerators, however, may well result in a somewhat confusing picture. A sizeable number of the residents of northern communities move with the seasons with the result they are counted as a resident of the locality in which they resided the greater half of the week previous to the date they were counted.

Thus those residents who were wintering in warmer climes when the census was taken will not be included in the local or county tabulation, despite the fact they may be registered voters, and property owners in this area and consider this their permanent home. Students, likewise, are tabulated as residents of the locality in which they are attending school.

Population figures by cities and townships in the county have not been released. Should the final count show a decline in population, it can result in a reduction in the amount of money returned to the cities and townships by the state on a population basis.

Tale Of Two Taxes

People who frequent cabarets and night clubs were given a pleasant surprise recently: Congress passed a [illegible] cutting the twenty percent on night club entertainment to ten percent.

People who drive car and trucks got a different kind of surprise. Their last surprise was a boost in the Federal gasoline tax that shot the rate up to four cents per gallon. Now the combined State and Federal taxes on a gallon of gasoline average — nationally — about 50 percent of the retail price of the fuel itself.

Congress did try to soften the blow. The legislation increasing the gasoline tax contained a pledge that this was only a temporary measure and would expire at the stroke of midnight, June 30, 1961.

When the promise was made, some observers predicted that it would never be kept. They said that once the added tax got on the books it would stay there — indefintely.

Though this claim may have sounded cynical, some supporters of the added tax seem to be trying hard to deserve the accusation of insincerity. These people are urging Congress (the same Congress that reduced the night club tax) to cancel its pledge about the expiration of that fourth cent of the federal gasoline tax.

They go further than that. They are even advocating that the rate be increased this year — to 4½ cents per gallon.

How can anyone attempt to justify these two proposals? They claim that the money is needed to finance the Federal share of the national highway program. But that excuse falls flat in the face of the facts. The Federal government is already collecting, in special automotive taxes, about $1½ billion more each year than it spends for its part of the national highway program.

It happens that the problem isn't lack of revenue. Motorists are already paying much more than enough special tax money to keep the highway program going. The problem is the Federal government's failure to apply to the road program all the taxes it now collects on motor vehicle ownership and use.

A 20 percent tax was deemed excessively high even for the people who are well enough fixed financially to frequent night clubs.

But what about the people who must burn gasoline to earn a living and who are now paying a tax equal to 50 percent of the retail price of every gallon of this product.

It's time they got a break from Congress, and it's not much of a break to ask that the promise about a temporary gasoline tax actually be kept.

If a 20 percent tax is too much for night club entertainment a 50 percent tax on gasoline is plain outrageous.

NORTH MICHIGAN

Forest glades are cooler, deeper
Bobsled hills are faster, steeper
Living just a little cheaper
In North Michigan
Song bird's notes are clearer, sweeter
Dairy farms are richer, neater
A haven for the heavy eater
Is North Michigan.
To our lakes and streams galore
Come the tourists by the score
To play and fish, then play some more
In North Michigan
Come to sail, to bathe and dine
Deeply breathe our "ozone" fine
It's a grand old state o' mine
This North Michigan.
Come autumn then with sombre face
The path to home they must retrace.
They seem to really like this place,
This North Michigan.
Here they find what cities lack;
Can't be had with all their "jack"
Every year we see them back
In North Michigan.
Let the frigid north winds blow
Piling high the driven snow
No place we really need to go
In North Michigan
What if snow gets in your boot
Frost bite reddens up your snoot
Here we just don't give a hoot
In North Michigan
Just what sport could be so nice,
Packed with thrills at any price
Perch or Muskies through the ice
In North Michigan
So what! if employment fails
We don't sit and chew our nails
Ever taste those cotton tails
In North Michigan?
So let others come and go
Thrill to sail or glist'ning snow
The grandest "year-'round" place I know
In North Michigan
Then keep coming year by year
The "Land of Lakes" your life will cheer—
I'm glad that fortune placed me here
In North Michigan.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

May 15, 1960

To the People of Charlevoix:

The State of Michigan will not permit the Girl Scouts of Charlevoix to operate a camp this year unless the following projects are completed by the twelfth of June:

Three 16x32 foot wooden floors for tents (these tents to be used by Girl Scouts as sleeping quarters)

A new septic tank (6'x9'x3') constructed of cement blocks must be erected to meet with health requirements set up by the State.

Some useable road must be constructed to the lower level to meet with emergency first aid requirements.

A water line to the lower level of the camp must be laid.

Three outdoor toilets must be constructed.

It might interest the readers to know that the Girl Scouts operate solely on monies received from the Community Chest and the sale of Girl Scout cookies. Because we operate on such a tight budget we are not able to hire work done. This makes it necessary for the Girl Scouts of Charlevoix to ask for help to complete these projects before June 12. Sixty-seven Intermediate and Senior Girl Scouts in Charlevoix will be very disappointed if they have no camp this year. Please contact Mr. Uno Suomela if you can help in any way.

Seamless hose require special machines — special labor — and special pattern detail for fit and comfort.

Rural Electric Gives 25 Years Of Service

This year marks the 25th year of Rural electrification. Harland E. Ruback, manager of Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Service, says that "From its start (May, 1935) America's rural electric systems have been organized for service in all rural areas."

He further says, "Costly and difficult years lie ahead. We must run, not just stand still and we are constantly moving forward, because heavying up our lines to meet ever increasing demands for more kilowatt hours, is a never ending job."

Washington — Johannesburg, the largest city in troubled South Africa, has many skyscrapers. But the city extends farther down than up. Three gold mines inside Johannesburg's municipal [illegible] reach more than 9,000 feet below the surface, the National Geographic Magazine says. Modern scientific techniques and air cooling make it possible for men to work deep underground.

Pre-Schoolers Invited to Visit Kindergarten

A directive to parents of children who will be enrolled in kindergarten in September was issued this week by Mrs. Dorothy McRae, kindergarten teacher.

Plans are being made for these children to pay a brief visit to the kindergarten during the week of May 31 through June 3.

However, before any child who is eligible for kindergarten may visit school, his parents must fill out a kindergarten enrollment blank and return it to the kindergarten room by 4 p.m. Friday, May 27.

After the enrollment blanks, which are available at the school, either in the office or the kindergarten room, the child and his parents will be advised when he may visit school in order to become acquainted with kindergarten routine.

A child must be five years of age before Dec. 1 in order to enroll in kindergarten in September.

Further information may be obtained by calling the school office LI 7-6583.

P. O. Dept. Asking Bids for Star Route to Gaylord

The Post Office Department is asking for bids on a proposed new star route to be established between Charlevoix and Gaylord effective June 1 according to Postmaster Peter H. Timmer.

The proposed schedule calls for the mail to leave Gaylord daily except Sunday at 6:20 a.m. and arrive in Charlevoix at 7:40 a.m. Outgoing mail would leave here at 5:50 p.m. daily except Saturday for Gaylord.

With the inauguration of this service mail delivery to Charlevoix will be advanced 45 minutes for the morning trips and provide a later dispatch in the afternoon Mr. Timmer said.

Necessary forms and further information may be obtained at the local postoffice.

Term of service on this contract will be from June 1, 1960 through May 31, 1961. Bids must be filed at the regional office of the post office department in Chicago no later than 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, May 24.

Equipment required include a station wagon or light panel truck with a capacity of 100 cubic feet.

During spring floods, the three sections of Yosemite Falls shake the earth with the force of their 2,425-foot plunge — North America's highest. August drought reduces te falls to a gossamer spray, the National Geographic Society says.

Dairy Herds Get Bill of Health

All herds supplying milk to the Maxbauer Creamery in Charlevoix have been reported 100 per cent free of brucellosis following recent tests by the State Department of Agriculture, according to John L. Boss, local manager of the plant.

One of the causes of undulant fever, common to humans, is attributed to using mil from cattle affected with brucellosis. Tests are made by the state department about twice a year. Milk from cows affected is not acceptable and the law provides that all such animals must be slaughtered.

Girl Scouts Issue Plea for Assistance

The Charlevoix Girl Scout Council has issued a plea for assistance in preparing their newly-acquired camp site for troop camping next month.

Five projects must be completed if the State Health Department is to approve the property for troop camping. They are the construction of three 18 by 32 ft. wooden floors for tents; a new septic tank to be built of cement blocks; three outdoor toilets; usable road to the lower level to meet with emergency first aid requirements and a water line to the lower level of the camp.

In issuing the call for workers, Mrs. Lloyd Arnold explained that the Girl Scout program is financed solely on monies received from the Community Chest and the sale of Girl Scout cookies.

The money spent in the past to rent a camp site is now being used to make payments on the recently purchased camp site located in Marion township. During the past five years the rental has cost $1500. The present indebtedness on the camp site if $1700. The Council plans to liquidate this mortgage in six years.

Because the Council operates on a tight budget, it does not have funds on hand to pay to have camp improvements made.

Seventy-four local women are registered members of the scouting program, volunteering their time that Charlevoix may have a Girl Scout program.

If the work mentioned above is not completed by June 12, 67 Intermediate and Senior Scouts will be deprived of a camping program this year.

If you can contribute time to the building program, you are asked to call Uno Suomela, chairman of the Site Development committee for information.

There is also a need for equipment. Among the items needed at the present time are a grind stone on which to sharpen hatchets, posthole diggers, floors for tents and small buildings for storage of tools and outdoor equipment.

There is also a great need for folding cots, either the metal or canvas type, and air matresses at both camping sessions.

Anyone having any of the above items is asked to contact Mrs. Arnold.

Rural Electrification...good for All Americans!

Business is better today—paychecks fatter, jobs more secure in every American city and town. And—there's a good reason why.

This year 16 million Americans, now served by non-profit rural electric systems, will buy over a billion dollars worth of electric appliances—made, sold and serviced in these cities and towns.

That was impossible 25 years ago. Then only one of ten American families, outside the city limits, had or could get electric power. That's when rural Americans, by working together, began to serve themselves with this necessity of modern living.

So—we cordially invite all Americans to share our joy as we celebrate the 25th Birthday of rural electrification. We are proud to have played a small but important part in bringing this "miracle" about. We are happy that rural electrification has proved to be "good for ALL Americans."

P O Department Declares Mail Box Improvement Week

This week has been designated as Mail Box Imprpovement week by the Post Office Department according to Postmaster Peter H. Timmer who added that the improvement program includes mail boxes within the city as well as mail boxes on rural routes.

Patrons are encouraged to provide suitable mail receptacles, erected and maintained for easy accessibility, presenting a neat appearance and afford protection to the mail. Boxes not properly erected or not maintained in good serviceable condition retard the delivery of mail and expose it to the weather, Mr. Timmer warned.

Patrons on rural routes are required to provide mail boxes of the standard approved type. Names of box owners should be inscribed on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door if the boxes are grouped. Boxes and supports should be kept painted.

Mail boxes must be located on the right side of the road in the direction of travel of the carrier in all cases where traffic conditions are such that it would be dangerous for the carriers to drive to the left in order to serve the boxes.

Mr. Timmer is enlisting the cooperation of all patrons to cooperate in the observance of Mail Box Improvement week by following the above mentioned sug-

City to Honor War Heroes At Formal Program Monday

Americans in this country's 50 states as well as those serving on foreign soil around the world will pause Monday to honor those who gave their lives in the wars of yester-years.

In Charlevoix, as in communities throughout the land, a traditional parade will be followed by a formal program.

May 29 will be Memorial Sunday. The Rev. George L. Majors has issued an invitation to the veterans organizations and their auxiliaries and other veterans and servicemen to attend the 11 a.m. worship service at the Community Church of God in observance of the special day.

In this community, the parade will assemble on Park ave. and begin its march at 9:30 a.m. to Brookside cemetery where the Rev. L. L. Lewis will deliver the Memorial Day address at the program which will open with the Charlevoix high school band, directed by C. A. Odmark, playing the anthem, "America." The Rev. Charles A. Stoppels will give the invocation.

Fenton R. Bulow, past commander of the Leslie T. Shapton post No. 226, American Legion, serving as master of ceremonies, will lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

Sandra Zipp, Charlevoix high school senior, will then present an original oration entitled "What Democracy Means to Me," which seems most meaningful at this time when the American way of life is threatened by another ideology.

A floral tribute will be followed by a salute by the firing squad from the 210th Ordnance Co. headed by Capt. John Barkdoll and taps will be sounded. The program will close with the playing of the National Anthem by the band and benediction by the Rev. Fred W. McNeil.

Enroute to the cemetery the parade will pause briefly at Memorial Park where the band will play "America the Beautiful," the flag will be lowered and then raised by a group representing the Charlevoix VFW post No. 1153 and the American Legion, a floral wreath will be tossed on the waters of Round Lake in memory of sailors and marines, a salute will be fired and taps sounded. The parade will then continue along the line of march following the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the band.

Marching in the parade which is scheduled to assemble at Park ave. at Bridge st. prior to 9:30 a.m. will be a color guard and firing squad from the 310th Ordnance Co., U. S. Coast Guardsmen, members of the VFW and the American Legion and their respective auxiliaries, Youngsters John Whitley, Edwin Zeitler, Gordon Skeel, Jeanne Etienne and Donna Staley dressed in miniature uniforms of the Navy, Army, Marines, nurse and Wave respectively, Girl Scouts, Brownie Scouts, Sea Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and their respective leaders, veterans and servicemen, and youngsters on decorated bicycles.

Frank Boss will serve as parade marshall.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be held in the high school auditorium.

Tax Allocation Board Grants 7.5 Mills to Schools; Cuts County

The Charlevoix county tax allocation board set the final tax rate for 1960 at a meeting held Wednesday at the county building here.

The final rate allocated 6.5 mills to the county for operational costs; 7.5 mills to all school in the county with the exception of Beaver Island Community school which will receive 8 mills and one mill to all townships with the exception of Norwood whose budget did not show a need and St. James and Peaine townships on Beaver Island whose supervisors requested that one-half mill be given to their school district.

The 7.5 mills allocated to the school districts leaves the districts one-half mill short of what they will need for 100 per cent participation in the state aid program.

As a result the school districts must vote one-half mill if they are to receive the full amount due those schools which receive the full eight mills.

However, the budgets of the major school districts in the county will necessitate more than the full eight mills if they are to be met. This will require extra millage in addition to the one-half mill necessary for full participation in state aid.

Supt. R. G. Bennett said following the meeting Wednesday that the Charlevoix school district would have to ask for extra millage to cover operational costs. He said the amount needed would not be known until a complete study of revenue was made.

The millage allocated by the Charlevoix county tax allocation at its final meeting Wednesday will be levied on the county's new state equalized valuation of $39,605,000 which was approved by the state board of equalization in Lansing Tuesday.

The figure which represents an increase of approximately 13.6 per cent over last year's figure of $33,474,299 was recommended earlier by the state tax commission. The overall increase applied to all Michigan counties. State equalized valuations represent 50 per cent of full fair cash value.

The new figure represents an increase in dollars of $6,130,800 over the 1959 valuation. The new state equalized valuation is somewhat higher than had been anticipated.

While the valuation in all taxing units was increased, the three cities in the county and five townships received the largest increases in valuation.

In East Jordan, for instance, the state equalized valuation jumped from $2,900,954 last year to $3,729,104 for an increase of $828,150 this year; Boyne City's valuation was upped $792,796 and Charlevoix's $599,896.

In the townships Boyne Valley, where the community of Boyne Falls is located, had the largest increase, $694,733 while the increase in Melrose township where Walloon Lake is located was $644,056; in Eveline township, $590,794; in Charlevoix township, $403,430 and in South Arm township, $378,676.

Delinquent-But Not Dumb!

We are wondering if society should have not gone to the horse's mouth for clues to the causes of juvenile delinquency.

The New York Mirror recently had an investigator ask work-camp delinquents what might have kept them out of trouble. The following concensus of replies seem to be what most of us take for granted but often forget when flooded by the scientific answers offered by would-be specialists.

1. Firm, fair discipline regarding habits, hours and friends.
2. A happy home, of which they are a respeeted part and to which they can proudly take their friends.
3. Instruction in how to make a living and get along with other people.

We haven't seen a better basic guide from any of the so-called child guidance experts.

Want To Raise A Monster!

Want to raise a fine crop of juvenile delinquents? Just follow 12 rules offered by Houston, Tex., police.

Here they are:

1. Start in infancy giving a child everything he wants so he'll grow up believing the world owes him a living.
2. Laugh when he picks up bad words. He'll think he's cute and be encouraged to get cuter.
3. Avoid spiritual training. Let him "decide for himself" when he's 21.
4. Shun the word "wrong lest it develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe society is against him and he's being persecuted when later arrested for real crimes.
5. Pick up after him—books, toys, clothes, whatnot. Do everything for him so he'll be accustomed to throw responsibility on others.
6. Guard his health with sterilized silver, dishes and glasses—but let him feast his little mind on any kind of printed garbage.
7. Stage all domestic brawls when the kids are present so they won't be shocked when your home is broken later.
8. Be liberal with spending money. Earn his own? Nonsense! Why should he have things as tough as you did?
9. Satisfy every craving for food, drink, comfort and sensual desire. Denial may lead to harmful frustrations.
10. Always side with your kids against neighbors, teachers and policemen. They're all prejudiced.
11. When he gets in real trouble, just say, "I never could do anything with him."
12. Prepare for a life of grief. You'll have it — for sure.

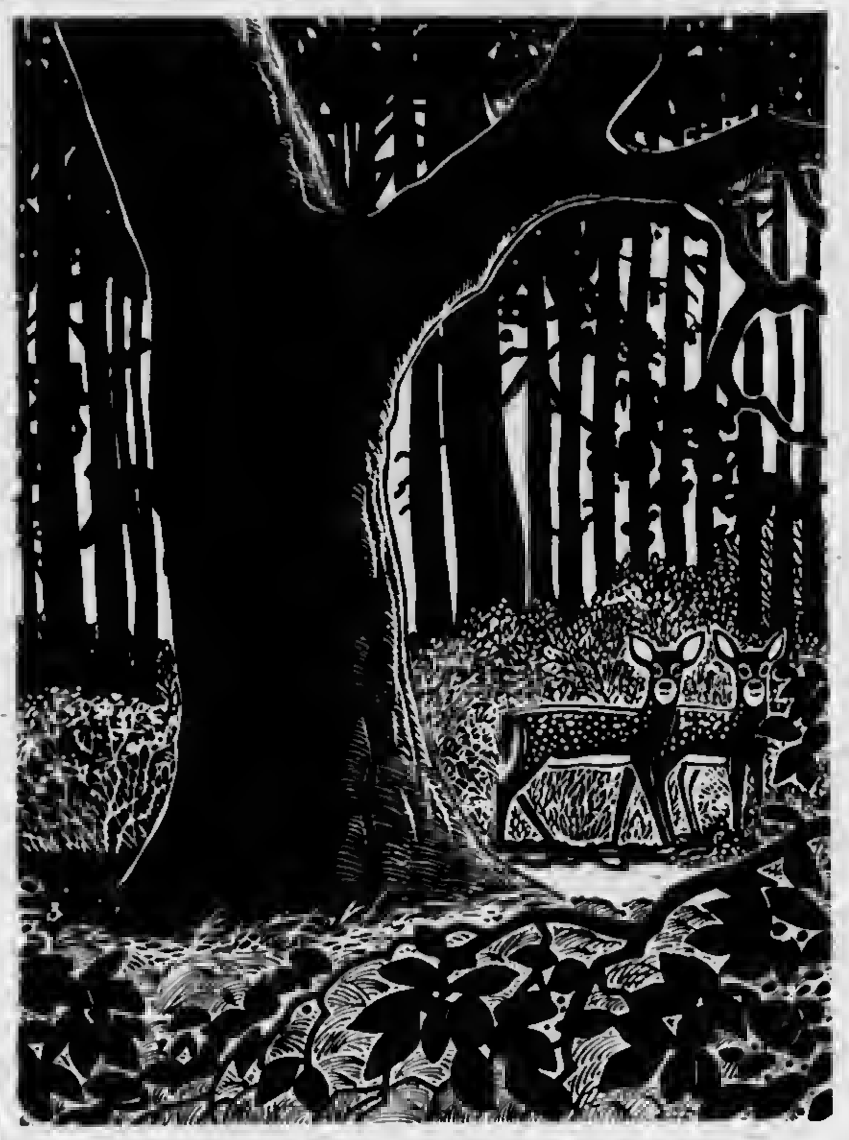
No further comment necessary . . .

Ed. Note — The above rules have had considerable play in Southwest newspapers according to E. Francis Donet who submitted it for consideration in the Charlevoix Courier.

A Touch of Greatness

Inspiration from great lives

By Harold E. Kohn



Becoming

Only a few months ago Nature seemed to be preoccupied with the past. She was getting rid of last summer's leaves, shooing last year's birds southward to warmer climes, and covering the debris of a recent autumn with winter's snow as if hiding dark secrets.

But now, in late May, Nature looks forward. Creeks dance across the fluent earth singing anthems of joy for these tender days that are prophetic of a lush summer. These are days that are rich and radiant with anticipation. The growing warmth, swelling buds, leafing trees and blossoming wild flowers promise a glorified earth.

In the green silences of our Northern woods of the present generation animals are giving birth to their heirs. To these weak and awkward offspring will some day belong the North's damp spring breezes and shimmering summer heat, the broad, sweeping meadows and the jeweled, sparkling waters, the solemn music of drumming ruffed grouse and the poignant evening song of the woodthrush. In some secret haunt a whitetail doe drops her frail spotted twins. At this moment they are helpless, but in a few hours merely wobbly-legged, and before a month passes they are lithe little acrobats given to bounding and gamboling in the deep shadows of a forest glade. Coonlets, cub foxes, and bear cubs are lurching their clumsy way around the front yards of their dens and uttering their infant snorts, yelps and squeals of joy. The eggs of countless minged creatures are incubating, and the young of unnumbered swimming things are making their first struggles in the current of lakes and streams. Everywhere Nature seems to be finding secret pleasure in anticipating all the summer moments that are to come. Nature is preoccupied with the future.

At the beginning of this essay it was said that "only a few months ago, in late autumn and winter, Nature seemed to be preoccupied with the past." A keyword in that sentence is "seemed," for such appearances are deceiving. Nature is never static, but always in process. Always what actually exists is being transformed into something yet to come. Last fall's tumbling leaves are becoming next year's rich humus; last year's fledgling birds migrating southward for the first time are this spring's avian parents, now busily building nests and incubating eggs; last winter's snows have become this spring's ground-water and will be next August's clouds. Even in autumn and winter when the past "seems to be" Nature's chief interest, foundations of the future are being laid. Irreversible time moves on, working tirelessly and unceasingly to give something new to the world. Not only now in rain-rinsed, sun-splashed spring, but always, Nature is absorbed in the future.

So are we. While we carry with us vestiges of the past, learn lessons from history and reverence tradition, our real business is that of becoming. Hourly we are growing richer or poorer in mind and spirit, better or worse, more or less Christlike. We are caught up in process. Everything we are and do at this moment affects all that we will be and do in the days to come. As another has put it, "What the future has in store for you depends largely on what you place in store for the future."

The proponents of immediacy, who believe in looking only to the present moment while ignoring both the yesterdays and the tomorrows, love to quote John Henry Newman's beautiful hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," where the poet-priest prayed

"I do not ask to see
The distant scene — one step enough for me."

But Newman was not minimizing the importance of his tomorrows. The point of Newman's prayer is that "one step" is of momentous importance and needs be unfaltering, unstumbling, because each step is in some direction: it leads somewhere: it is part of the struggle

"O'er moor and fen, O'er crag and torrent, till the might is gone:
And with the morn those angel faces smile
Which I have loved long since, and lost awhile."

Because the future is our home, each step must be carefully taken, moving in the direction of "those angel faces."

No matter our age, whether we are infants or elderly, in the springtime of life or nearing winter, we are not static but changing, not stationary but moving.

What counts most is that each step be Godward and that each change be toward His likeness.

Girl Scout News

Brownie Scout troop 5 accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Louis Hooper and Mrs. Russell Dohm, visited Grandvue Medical Facility last Monday to deliver 14 pairs of slippers made from washcloths to the hospital for use by the patients.

The 15 girls in the group had made the slippers as a community service project.

While there they presented a song and dance for the entertainment of the parents.

The Brownies shared in the cost of the project with the Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's church, troop sponsors, paying half the cost of the materials.

Mrs. Edith Stenman assisted in driving part of the troop to the hospital.

The fifth grade class at St. Mary's parochial school presented a special program about Michigan as a part of the school's participation in the Education Day program.

Here John Gibson and Toni Novotny are pictured before a large map of Michigan on which are shown in a variety of colors the many products for which the state is famous. The pair are among those in the class who made and mounted the map.

At the program which was presented before the younger children in the school the students spoke on the following subjects: Patricia Seese, lumber; Peter LaBlance, commercial fishing; John Strother, salt; Jerome Whitley, who also served as master of ceremonies, copper; Susann Zeitler, coal; Orville Harding, iron; John Dhaseleer, oil; Billy Gengle, breakfast foods; Toni Novotny, the state as the furniture capital; Kathy Etienne, recreation; Roger Gruneh, farming; Fred Chastain and Richard LaChapelle, automotive industry and Beatrice Farkas, wild flowers of Michigan.

The students had also arranged displays of these industries.

The program was presented under the direction of their teacher, Sr. M. Cleopha.

Penn Station to Open for Season

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Penn have returned to Charlevoix to operate the Penn Station located on US-31 opposite the airport for the second season.

They expect to have the popular miniature train running this Saturday providing the water from recent rains recedes enough to permit operation.

Charlevoix high school students who were elected to public office in an election held last week Monday joned in the operation of the city government.

Among the events in which they took part was a regular meeting of the city council Monday night at which it was decided to advertise for bids on bonds for the city treasurer in the amount of $10,000 and a rate for $1,000 for a blanket bond for deputy cty treasurer, deputy city clerk and billing clerk. Bids will be accepted until 9 p.m. June 6.

The city treasurer's appointment of Mrs. Wilma Novotny as deputy city treasurer was approved by the council.

The installation of new parking meters at various locations in the business district came in for some discussion. It was decided to install a number of new meters and to place them all in operation Monday, June 13.

On the same date Dixon ave. between Michigan ave. and Meech st. will become a one-way street with traffic moving from west to east.

The bid of $55 for the lease on the Lake Michigan bath house entered by Walter Russell was approved for the 1960 season.

The Lake Construction Co. bid of $595 for repair of various city docks was approved.

The bid for repairs on slips in the yacht basin for $5,560 submitted by W. A. Porter of East Jordan was accepted. The council then approved the deposit of $3,000 in a special fund which will be used to match funds from the Michigan Waterways Commission to underwrite the cost of the project on a matching fund basis.

The council also entered into a contract with the Michigan Highway Department for maintenance of highways located wthin the city limits.

Bills and payroll totaling $17,092.72 were approved. The figure includes $3,600 for fuel oil, $1,200 for utility poles and $1,841.85 for a new car for use by the City Superintendent. The car was purchased from the Charlevoix Oil Co. whose bid was lowest.

"Miss Traverse City" to be Judged By Mrs. H. C. Geiken

Mrs. Harold C. Geiken has been invited to be a judge at the "Miss Traverse City" contest to be held at St. Francis auditorium in Traverse City June 16.

The girl chosen "Miss Traverse City" in this contest will be vieing for the title of National Cherry Queen to be held in Traverse City later next month.

Mrs. Geiken was a member of the Cherry Queen's committee when she lived in Traverse City.

Charlevoix is expected to be among the more than 20 northern Michigan communities to send a candidate to the National Cherry Queen contest.

Joseph Etienne, a student at Northern Michigan College at Marquette, has been elected president of the Sigma Rho Epsilon fraternity for the 1960-61 school term.

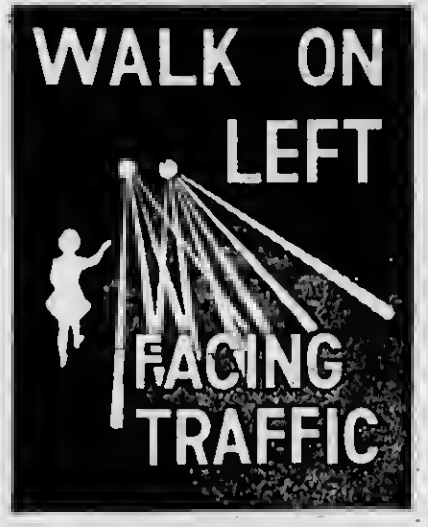
In rare instances a plant and an animal can get the same disease. Scientists have found that the same virus can multiply in both asters and leafhoppers, the tiny insects which infect the plants. The virus is one of the few known pathogens common to the plant and animal kingdoms.



SUNDEW REPORTS

After spending the weekend and the early part of last week in Detroit, the Sundew was underway Wednesday afternoon for Zella Shoal and Reynolds Reef for Aids to Navigation operations. Enroute a stop was mado at Thunder Bay to re-light a buoy.

During our stay in Detroit measurements were taken for new engines and many bidders were present to inspect the ship.

After spending Thursday night in Cheboygan, we were underway for Zella Shoal and Raynolds Reef. However, on arrival at Zella Shoal a heavy fog made it impossible to work buoys so we returned to Cheboygan. On return the port cargo boat was used to deliver acetylene tanks to Cheboygan light. For the remainder of Friday, Saturday and Sunday heavy fog continued to make it impossible to work buoys so we remained at Cheboygan over the weekend.

Reveal Loss from Highway Accidents In Charlevoix Co.

The estimated cost of highway accidents and fatalities in Charlevoix County in 1959 came to $465,000, according to averages worked out by the National Safety Council.

According to James M. Hare, chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, the estimated cost of Michigan's 1,469 fatalities and 198,771 recorded accidents came to an appalling $227,695,000, or nearly a quarter of a billion dollars, in 1959.

"The annual report of the Michigan State Police shows that 230 accidents occurred in Charlevoix County in which 3 persons were killed and 89 were injured," Hare said.

"In calcuting the costs of motor vehicle accidents the Safety Council tacs into consideration medical expense, wage loss, cost of insurance, and property damage," Hare said.

"More difficult to calculate is the cost incurred when a wage earner is killed or permanently injured by a hit-run or uninsured motorist," Hare pointed out. "The original hospital or funeral costs can be readily ascertained, but the many long-range effects of an accident caused by an irresponsible or uninsured motorist, such as possible welfare and aid to dependent children costs, is much more difficult to estimate."

Music Department To Present Festival

The Reserve band, composed of eighth and ninth grade music students, will then present a short program. This band, primarily a training group for the Senior band, is also a "working" band, having made several appearances including the district festival, pep meetings and parade performances. Included in this part of the program will be "Commanding Officer," by Frangkiser, "Two Moods," Grundman, "Tea for Two," Youmans, and "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," Seitz.

After a five-minute intermission, the 75-piece Senior band, displaying the culmination of the instrumental training program, will conclude the program with the march "His Honor," Fillmore, "Adventure of Westland," Johnson, "Burst of Flame," a concert march by Bowles and Romberg's haunting "One Alone" climaxed by John Phillip Sousa's stirring "Stars and Stripes Porever."

The spring music festival will mark the first appearance of the Senior band since the group won a first division rating in state festival competition at Mt. Pleasant recently. The Charlevoix band was only northern Michigan band to capture a top rating.

The concert, which will begin promptly at 8 p.m., will last only 90 minutes.

MAY IN MICHIGAN · By Harold E. Kohn

May is the month of delicate days, the month of softly murmering waters in the marshes, of dainty, tiny, tidbit buds and brilliant drops of flowers distilled from April sun and rain. These are days when white, fleecy clouds wander far and wide like sheep feeding on blue pastures of the sky. Now the migrant birds come trooping from the south, the males chanting a wild-flung glory to the heavens and the timid, gentle females quietly setting up house keeping.

May days are foliage-filled, sunbeam-tipped, flower-crammed, prevaded by song and over-flowing with promise.

Now tiny brook trout parr are struggling in the stream's swift currents, and their larger relatives are fighting the fly rods of avid fishermen. The weight of these infant game fish will multiply many times this summer, if they evade their many enemies. In their lifetime brook trout will actually multiply their "birthweight" hundreds of times. But they cannot equal the record growth of their distant cousin, the ocean sunfish, which increases its weight over fifty million times while growing to full adulthood. (If a human baby weighing five pounds at birth grew proportionately it would weigh 250 million pounds upon reaching maturity!) The newborn ocean sunfish is only one-eighth of an inch long and the weight must be measured in the smallest fractions of an ounce. But a full-grown ocean sunfish may be more than eight feet long and weigh more than 1,200 pounds. This creature is likely the world's "growingest" fish.

Life is difficult for the infant brook trout. After he is hatched in a gravel bed of the stream he is usually swept from his nest by the swift floods of spring. For the first few days of his new freedom he doesn't eat. He doesn't need to. There is food a-plenty in the egg sac that looks like an overfull stomach. But in a few days the food sac is absorbed, the baby trout is hungry and he must venture forth from the quiet, shallow pools and into the stream's current. Now every moment is fraught with danger. Big rainbow trout find baby trout a great delicacy and chase and swallow them at every chance. Great blue herons spear the little fellows. Kingfishers hunt them. So do otters and mink. If the water in the stream warms too much under the hot sun, the trout parr perish. And when they are but a few inches long they will feel the sharp bite of barbed hooks in their mouths. Being a trout is a peril-filled existence.

As wet as May has been this year, it is estimated that a century ago America was about fifty percent wetter than it is now and that the insect and frog population of our country was more than double what it is at present.

The gravest danger newly hatched birds face in the spring is prolonged stretches of wet weather. Fledglings can stand cold fairly well if their ravenous appetites are kept satisfied. But rainy weather makes for a scarcity of insects which constitute a large proportion of their food, and the chill of spring reaches them while their parents are absent searching for food. All of the young terns from more than a thousand nests on a Maine island have been known to perish during rainy spring weather.

Some things to look for this last week of May:

* Notice how often nest-building birds seek and find something white to decorate their homes. Almost anything white will do, scraps of cloth, cleaning tissues, horse hair. In Philadelphia, firemen blamed a fire at Mrs. Hattie Currey's house upon a bird that added a lighted cigarette to the nest it was building in the caves.

* Watch now for the look of surprised wonder in old people's faces at the miracle of springtime. Little children are often less sensitive than adults to miraculous springtime. For the child nearly everything is wondrous, and spring's prodigious magic is no greater than all the other marvels that confront him daily. But for the old and staid who have become almost numb to life's encircling mystery, spring presents a sufficient shock to awaken a long-dormant capacity for amazement.

Dr. Carl Spitler Discusses School Finance for PTA

Dr. Carl Spitler spoke on the subject of school finance before the regular meeting of the Charlevoix PTA held in the music room Wednesday evening.

Dr. Spitler, former superintendent of the Petoskey schools, said that the biggest problems of school finance were that too few people were interested in school finances and that they were reluctant to pay their share of the load. He added that if people would study the problem they would realize the need and be willing to pay for the education of their children.

He then outlined the three chief sources of school revenue, primary interest fund, property tax and state aid.

Dr. Spitler then spoke briefly on each of these revenue sources stating that the primary interest fund dates back to 1775, that the revenue comes from utility taxes and interest on funds maintained by the state, is paid on the basis of the number of children between the ages of 5 and 19 years who are in school and that this year it amounted to $29.22 per child; property tax comes from taxes levied on personal and real property in the county to support the county, schools and townships, taxes are limited to 15 mills with extra millage being voted, is allocated by a six-man allocation board, schools cannot receive less than five mills but must receive eight mills for full participation in the state aid program, the county cannot receive less than four mills; state aid monies come from the sales tax with two of the three cents going to this fund. It is given to school districts on a school membership basis which necessitate adjustments in an attempt to equalize the distribution between wealthy and poor school districts.

A panel discussion with Jack Rader, president of the PTA, Robert G. Lieberman, of the school board, R. G. Bennett, superintendent of schools, Charles A. Robinson, county superintendent of schools and Dr. Spitler as a panel followed.

The installation of officers for the 1960-61 school year preceded the business meeting. The new officers are: president, Mrs. Charles A. Duerr; first vice president, Mrs. William Lusk; second vice president, Mrs. Robert G. Martin; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Smith and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Pearl.

NOW LOOK WHAT CORVAIR'S GONE AND DONE!

The same Corvair that tallied a thumping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried! ☞

We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvair's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvair (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvair is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

Edwin J. Madill Elected Dean of Consular Corps

Edwin J. Madill, U. S. Consul to Calgary, Alberta, Canada, was elected dean of the recently-organized Calgary Consular Corps when representatives of seven countries formally set up the diplomatic organization at a meeting held at the U. S. Consulate.

Mr. Madill who heads the newly created organization is a native of Charlevoix who has served as U. S. Consul to Alberta for the past three years. He is the son of the late Mrs. Josephine Madill and the nephew of Miss Mayme A. Orlowski.

Main purpose of the corps is to expedite execution of mutual interests more effectively, Mr. Madill said in an interview with the Albertan, Calgary newspaper recently. He went on to explain that these deal chiefly with travel and economic problems and with dealings with the provincial government. Dealings with the federal government will continue to be handled through the various embassies.

Erik Stetholt of Norway was named secretary of the new organization and Erik Petersen of Denmark will act as the dean's representative in diplomatic deals with other countries unless conditions warrant a consul's handling affairs with his own country.

Other countries represented at the organizational meeting were Belgium, Sweden, France and Holland. The Austrian consul was unable to attend.

Student Constructs Walking Aid Bars

Michael Belfy, Charlevoix high school junior, is pictured here demonstrating the use of a parallel walking bars he designed and built for the Grandvue Medical Facility for the Aged.

The bars, or 'walker' as it is sometimes called, resulted from a plea issued earlier by Mrs. Hilda Hartlep, superintendent of the facility for such a piece of equipment for use in the hospital's therapy department. It is used to train patients to walk again following an illness or injury which has impaired their ability to walk such as a stroke or hip fracture.

Constructed of one-inch pipe with a floor of pine, the walker is 10 ft. long and 24 inches wide with parallel bars which can be adjusted to any height from 24 to 36 inches. It is mounted on rollers so that it may be moved with ease.

The walker is the newest of several pieces of equipment in the therapy room at Grandvue Medical Facility, Mrs. Hartlep said.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Belfy jr.

Servants of the people

Now, after Michigan Week—with its emphasis on all of the things for which this great state of ours is famous, is a good time to consider the vital importance of the motor truck . . . Here is a servant of the people which does indeed serve everyone: the farmer, the business man, the retailer, the housewife, the vacationer, the boy or girl at school.

Everything you eat, wear, or use travels all or part of the way to you by truck. Yes, trucks are as much a part of Michigan as its vast productive capacity, its beautiful scenery, its great educational facilities, its fine people.

A U. S. Coast Guard personnel inspection of the officers and crew of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Sundew was one of the highlights of the Change of Command ceremony held Friday.

Commander Muth Formally Turns Over Sundew Command

In an impressive change of command ceremony Friday Lt. Cmdr. Harold D. Muth, skipper of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Sundew for the past three years, gave up his command to Lt. John A. Dearden, executive officer, who will serve as acting commanding officer until July 1.

At that time Lt. Cmdr. William W. Richards will arrive from his present assignment at the U. S. Coast Guard District Office in San Francisco, Calif., to assume his duties as skipper of the 180 ft. ship which has made Charlevoix its home port since June 1958. Prior to that date it had been stationed at Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Upon relief of his command, Lt. Cmdr. Muth will depart for his new assignment as Officer, Personnel Division, U. S. Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

A native of St. Joseph, Michigan, who was reared in Chicago, Lt. Cmdr. Muth served as executive officer of the USCG Base at Terminal Island, Calif., for 31 months prior to his transfer to the cutter Sundew in 1957. A veteran of 19 years in the service, he enlisted in the U. S. Coast Guard in February 1941. During World War II he served aboard a destroyer escort in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres and, having coming up through the ranks, was made an Ensign in March 1944. Later he served as skipper of the cutter Hemlock in Alaska and as officer in charge of the Coast Guard base at Ketchian, Alaska.

His wife, Delores, and their children, Patricia, Michael, Richard and Harold Jr., will join him in Washington later this summer.

Lt. Dearden who will serve as the ship's skipper until July 1 is a veteran of 14 years in the service. A native of Leominster, Mass., he has served as executive officer aboard the ship since February 1958. Prior to that time he had served 3½ years at the USCG Headquarters in Washington.

At the ceremony held Friday, Lt. Cmdr. Muth inspected the crew and after reading his transfer orders, turned his command over to Lt. Dearden.

Support Your Charlevoix Ambassadors

Again this summer Charlevoix will be represented in Europe under the Youth for Understanding program. Two graduates of the class of 1960, Ann Carol Martin and Marilou VerWys, have qualified as responsible representatives to spend the summer with European families in a program to promote a better understanding between Europe and America:

Because these student programs must be financed by the selected student with whatever support they get from their communities, the Charlevoix Courier is sponsoring a Student Exchange Fund at the request of a number of persons whom we are privileged to join in this project.

Your contribution, small or large, will be more than appreciated and of material aid in fostering better human relations. You may send your contribution to the Student Exchange Fund, Charlevoix Courier, Charlevoix, Mich., or to E. D. Hawley, Cashier, Charlevoix County State Bank, Charlevoix, Michigan.

The fund has already been started by a few organizations and individuals who firmly believe these exchange student visits will ultimately lead to better word understanding.

May we have your support with whatever amount you may care to contribute?

Large Crowd Attends Annual Music Event

A capacity crowd gathered at the Charlevoix high school auditorium Friday night for the annual spring music festival presented by the junior-senior high school music department under the direction of C. A. Odmark.

The Girls Glee Club opened the program with three selections. They were then joined by others to form the 85 voice mixed choir which climaxed a trio of numbers with the stirring "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Leonard W. Burns was the accompanist.

The instrumental department then presented the parade of bands beginning with the sixth grade beginners band; this group was followed by the seventh grade band and the Reserve band composed of eighth and ninth grade.

The Charlevoix high school band of 75 pieces concluded the concert with the presentation of several selections designed to display the group's versatility climaxed by the thrilling John Phillip Sousa march "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Mr. Odmark thanked the musical groups for their fine performances which showed the progress of the music program from its beginning in the sixth grade to its climax this year by the senior band which captured first division ratings in both district and state Class C competition. He also introduced the 22 seniors in the band.

Janice Burns, student director, then presented him with a gift from the seniors.

Holy Cross Catholic Church To Celebrate Centennial

St. James, Beaver Island—Holy Cross Catholic church, located on this northern Michigan island, will celebrate its 100th anniversary this summer.

The Rev. Dr. Louis Wren, OFMC, pastor of the church, said that the centennial celebration would be held in connection with the annual homecoming in August. An attractive history complete with story and pictures are being prepared in honor of the anniversary which will be marked by a special program.

Christianity was brought to northern Mchigan in 1832 by Father Frederic Baraga, a Catholic missionary who later became the first Bishop of the Catholic Diocese in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The first church probably constructed of logs, hides and birch bark was constructed at Indian Point by the Indans who were converted to Christianity by the early missionary. However, it was never completed, for others of the tribe who had not been converted destroyed the church before it could be finished, according to early letters written by the Slovenian priest to his superior, Bishop Edward Fenwick of Cincinnati. Later Father Baraga advised the Christians among the Indians to leave Beaver Island and settle at what is now Harbor Springs.

With their departure the island was left to the remaining Indians and the elements and little was heard of it again until 1845 when it became the side of the Mormon Kingdom ruled by 'King' James Jesse Strang whose reign came to a sudden end with his assisnation in 1856.

Following the death of their 'king' the Mormons were driven from the island which was once again left to the elements.

The arrival of the Irish marked the construction of the island's second Catholic church, this time at a point about two miles north of Cable's Bay on the southeast side of the 17-mile long island

A Touch of Greatness

By Harold E. Kohn

The Strength Of A Feather

Considering its size, the feather is one of the lightest and strongest materials to be found in nature. Each feather of that female mallard landing in our sun-lit bay is composed of more than a million individual units, the ornithologists tell us. Many of these parts are so small that only a microscope will reveal them. But they interlock to form an amazingly durable and flexible instrument of flight. While a bird is in flight, all its feathers are buffeted by air currents, and the wing's feathers especially take tremendous punishment while beating the air. Even the slow flight of our common crow necessitates three to five wing-beats per second, and analysis of slow-motion pictures of hummingbirds show that their wing-beats may be up to 75 times per second. There are few metals or plastics that could withstand bending back and forth several hours each day at the rate of five times per second without snapping, let alone accept the strains a hummingbird's feathers must endure every day of a sun-drenched summer. Feathers find strength in flexibility, in yielding.

I write these sentences on Memorial Day and my thoughts now go from the elastic strength of feathers to the rigidity of stone. Today in countless cemeteries across the land small groups gather at graveside and share tender memories of dear ones "loved long since and lost awhile." Most burial plots honor the dead with some sort of stone marker upon which is inscribed the loved one's name, and often the date of birth and death.

How are Inscreiciptions carved into hard granite monuments? The surface of the stone is first coated with a rubber composition. Then the design and letters to be cut out are stenciled onto the rubber, and these features are cut out of the rubber with sharp instruments. A blast of sand is then turned onto the monument's surface and wherever the granite is exposed the stone is deeply cut. The hard, strong, rigid, resisting granite defies the sand and is worn away. The pliant, flexible rubber yields to the sandblast, accepts its rough punishment, and then bounces back to its natural condition. Like the strength of a feather is the strength of live rubber; it possesses the power of yielding.

It is this kind of bouncing vitality that we have in mind when we speak of a person as being "healthy." Health does not mean immunity to scratches, cuts and bruises or even complete freedom from disease. Health is physical and mental resiliency, flexibilty. A scratch on the hand does not endlessly fester, but heals. A laccrated knee bears a raw, ugly wound for only a short time. Then the cut closes; the inflamation disappears and the knee is well—in a healthy person. The healthiest athlete in town tires with exertion, but the sound-bodied person recovers his energy after a brief rest; he can bounce back.

The person who is spiritually robust has the strength of feathers and live rubber. He is resilient and can bend without breaking. He can be criticized, blamed and belittled without fighting back wth the same kind of nastiness, because he knows such buffetings cause only a temporary stir. His spirit will not snap, nor even be scarred. Forgiveness is a kind of elasticity: it is the soul's capacity to be hurt, and yet within a brief time — to act as if it were never hurt. The grudgeful soul may have the brittle strength of granite, that resists and so suffers deep scars, while the forgiving possesses the flexible strength of live rubber and feathers, which can be buffeted by sandblast or the beating of wing on wind, without breaking.

Some people fight against a bereavement. Their grief is a rigid, stony attitude. They struggle with the reality of death, sometimes denying that it has happened, refusing to be reconciled with the inevitable. And their sorrow wears them down. Others, just as sorely hurt, are less resisting. They do not quarrel with the event, nor rebelliously denounce what has happened to their loved one. They know that birth and death are part of the same Design, and that God had a purpose for one as well as for the other.

Said the writer of Ecclesiastes "all things come alike to all." It is true that birth, trouble, struggle, sorrow and death are common human experiences that none can escape. Life's income of basic and ultimate experience is much the same universally. But the OUTCOME is not. Some bitterly and inflexibly eppose the advent of any trouble whatsoever. They feel fate has insulted them if they are denied constant comfort and so must struggle. They feel they should be the sole exceptions to the universal experience of sorrow: "Why did this have to happen to me?" is their cry. Others assimiliate trouble as rubber absorbs a blast of sand, and they make monumental character of it. The great, dark events cause them to ask the profound, central questions they have never raised before, and prompt them to perform what they have seldom done before, like reaching out of their pride and self-sufficiency for the hand of God. Sorrow helps them to be what they had never been before — more tender-hearted, open hearted, compassionate and sympathetic toward others who suffer as they have suffered. "All things come alike to all?" Pretty much. But the outcome is not the same. Whether life wears us down or not depends upon our resiliency, our "bounce."

Long ago the Chinese sage, Lao-Tze, said

"Man during his life is tender and delicate. When he dies he is stiff and stark.
The ten thousand things, the grass as well as the trees, while they live together are tender and supple. When they die they are rigid and dry.
Thus the hard and the strong are companions of death. The tender and the delicate are the companions of life."

MEMO . . .

From the Editor's Desk

"How far a little candle sheds it's light" — wrote Shakespeare, if my memory is correct. The point in the quotation is that a Charlevoix product again has gone half way around the world, to be exact, Yugoslavia where a national drug store association is promoting a fair to exhibit modern merchandising methods in the United States.

Recently the Courier published an article about the greeting card display cabinets ordered from Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp., by American Greeting card Co., for this purpose. Now RCA Victor gets into the show with one of the Freedman record display cabinets. It is very probable that comparatively few in this area have been aware of the fact that Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp., has for years been manufacturing point of sale display cabinets for the major record producing companies in the United States.

We are told the national debt is about $290 billion but that is only part of the story. The federal government indebtedness now approaches 750 billion, according to no less an authority than Maurice H. Stans, director of the budget bureau. Here is how the figure is reached: National debt, $290 billion; future obligations for past services, $350 billion; commitments for future spending, $98 billion.

We often wonder how many in the community know what goes on at the Charlevoix Fish Hatchery. It is, however, recognized internationally. Recently Maxemilliano Elegido Alonso Geta, chief of the fish and wildlife service of the northwestern region of Spain, spent two days with John Wege, local manager, to get first hand information on how lake trout are being propogated in this country.

Mr. Geta comes from a region in Spain noted for its salmon and trout. He was impressed with the methods used here and he was astounded when detailed records were avilable to answer his questions.

A lot of people already are working a four-day week, though it takes them five or six days to do it.

Another approach to our idea: Too many politicians feel they should approach every problem with open pocketbooks.

Miss Patricia Kay Belfy Marries Donald L. Falting

St. Mary's church was the scene Saturday of the wedding of Miss Patricia Kay Belfy and Donald L. Falting.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Erwin C. Belfy Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Falting.

The Rev. E. Francis Denay officiated at the double ring service during the nuptial Mass celebrated in the presence of more than 100 guests. Mrs. Chester Belfy, aunt of the bride, sang "On This Day" and "Ave Maria," accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Nicholas Hamilton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a ballerina length gown of white tissue taffeta for her weddng. Fashioned along princess lines, the gown featured a fitted bodice trimmed with seedpearls, a round neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a seedpearl tiara and she carried a white Missal topped with an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Frances E. Left as matron of honor wore a ballerina length gown of pink and white floral print nylon sashed in blue and a matching blue headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Carol A. Belfy, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid wore a gown identical to the honor attendant's sashed in pink and a pink headdress. Her bouquet was of blue and white carnations.

John Mikus of Boyne City assisted the bridegroom as best man. Arthur Falting, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Michael Belfy, brother of the bride, and Anthony Genia seated the guests.

Mrs. Belfy selected a light blue lace and chiffon dress and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Falting, mother of the bridegroom, wore a lavender polished cotton dress and matching accessories. Each had a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at St. Mary's hall. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the refreshment table which was decorated with arrangements of white carnations. Arrangements of spring flowers decorated the hall.

Following a wedding trip thru northern Michigan, the couple will live at the Gaylord Trailer Park after June 1. For traveling the bride chose a cocoa brown double-breasted suit dress and white accessories.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Falting are graduates of the Charlevoix high school. The bride is employed at Mount Clemens Steel Products Inc. in East Jordan. The bridegroom is employed at Brow Marina.

Holy Cross Church Celebrates Centennial

known as Shoemaker's. The church was called St. Ignatius church.

With the influx of more and more families attracted to the island by the lumbering and fishing industries, the Holy Cross church was built in 1860 on a site 1½ miles south of the village of St. James along the King's Highway.

Late in the last century when St. Ignatius' church was finally abandoned, the new church was enlarged to its present size of 30 x 100 ft.

Holy Cross church was moved to its present location overlooking St. James harbor in the fall of 1957.

It is here that the special centennial celebration which is expected to attract former island residents and many visitors to America's Emerald Isle this summer will be held.

O, WORSHIP THE KING, ALL GLORIOUS ABOVE

O, worship the King, all glorious above,
O, gratefully sing his power and his love;
Our Shield and Defender, the Ancient of Days,
Pavilioned in splendor, and girded with praise.

O, tell of His might, O, sing of His grace,
Whose robe is the light, whose canopy space;
His chariots of wrath the deep thunder-clouds form,
And dark is His path on the wings of the storm.

Frail children of dust, and feeble as frail,
In Thee do we trust, nor find Thee to fail;
Thy mercies how tender, how firm to the end,
Our Maker, Defender, Redeemer, and Friend! Amen

To Hold Indian Pageant At Petoskey Fairgrounds

Petoskey — The fairgrounds (Emmet County) here will feature an All-American Indian midway here on Friday and Saturday, June 17 and 18 when thousands of Michigan Indians will gather for their 12th annual Tribal Council.

Michigan's first all-state Indian pageant will be featured and will be highlighted by the selection of a Michigan Indian princess, accordng to Robert Dominic, Petoskey, president of the 5,000 member Northern Michigan Ottawa Association, sponsors of the pageant. Ten candidates from throughout the state will compete in the contest and the princess will be announced at Saturday evening's pageant. Judges for the event are Mark Beltaire, Detroit Free Press columnist; George Morski, magazine editor of the Grand Rapids Press and Luise Leisner, Women's Editor at the Petoskey News-Review and reporter for the Indian Association. The pageants will be held at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and will be performed by an all Indian cast for the benefit of Indians, Dominic said. Entertainment will include at least 12 dancing troupes, the largest of which are the Minne Tonka Doncers from Madison Heights. Tribes participating include the Ottawa, Chippewa and Pottawatomie, of Michigan; Arikara and Sioux of Montana and North and South Dakota; Papago of Arizona; Cherokee of South Carolina; Sac and Fox of Iowa and a delegation of Mohawk entertainers from New York.

During the afternoons of the two-day pageant, Michigan Indians will display ancient crafts and arts and aged Indians — too old to join the dance groups, will spin yarns and legends for the children.

Saturday afternoon the Indians will hold a private pow pow at the 4-H Center where they will hear progress reports from their attorneys, Jay Hoag and James Fitzharris of Escanaba on their $15 million land claims suit against the Federal Government. An early settlement is anticipated in the suit, which involves nearly 12½ million acres of Michigan land which they ceded according to the Treaty of 1836, and for which they claim they were grossly underpaid. Members of the Northern Michigan Ottawa Association (only) will be admitted to this meeting. However, the public is invited to the pageants, where they will see authentic tribal rituals and dancing and the first Michigan Indian Princess selected.

This year the Indians are permitting white men and women to attend their annual Tribal Dance, which concludes Saturday evening's affair. The Kincheloe Air Force Band will provide music for dancing.

Trucks Replace Rail Transport After 68 Years

As the result of changing times, Charlevoix is not receiving its mail via train for the first time in 68 years.

Effective this week all mail will be transported via Star Route as the result of the U. S. Post Office Department's attempt to give the public better mail service.

Jess Smith, who was mail messenger for 35 years before retiring in 1951, this week recalled the days when four trains daily brought mail, not only into Charlevoix but all communities along the line.

In recent years one train daily has transported parcel post and some first class mail but much of it has been brought in by Star Route.

Mr. Smith said that a man by the name of "Doc" Brown and his sons who had a draying business here, first hauled the mail by horse and wagon or sleigh, according to the season, when the railroad first went into operation in 1892. Later a Mr. Durgan had the contract for a time before selling his 'rig' to Gene McRoberts. McRoberts sold out to Pete Lemieur who had the contract only a short time before Mr. Smith took over in 1916.

Since Mr. Smith retired in 1951 four persons have held the contract for transporting the mail from the railroad station on the north side to the postoffice. They are Lawrence Supernaw, Lloyd Cummings, Henry Ager and Shelby Goss. It was the latter who hauled the mail for the last time on Saturday.

For old-timers in the community this marks the end of another era in these changing times.

The Flag

The United States Flag was first authorized by Congress June 14, 1777. This date is now observed as Flag Day throughout America.

The Flag first rose over thirteen states along the Atlantic seaboard, with a population of some three million people. Today it flies over 50 states, extending across the continent, and over great islands of the two oceans; and one hundred fifty millions owe allegiance. It has been brought to this proud position by love and sacrifice. Citizens have advanced it and heroes have died for it. It is the sign made visible of the strong spirit that has brought liberty and prosperity to the people of America. It is the Flag of all of us alike. Let us accord it honor and loyalty.

When the Flag is passing in a parade or in a review all persons should face the flag, stand at attention, and salute. Those present in uniform should render the military salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress with the right hand, holding it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Men without headdress should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. Aliens should stand at attention. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the flag in the moving column should be rendered at the moment the flag passes.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

A Springtime Prayer for the Young

O Thou who hast spread the beauty and glory of springtime on every side,
I thank Thee for this season that rejoices in the young;
For an earth thronging with new life—
That tumbles pell mell into June
Fawns and coonlets,
Pups and kittens,
Foals and calves,
Kids and lambs,
Fledgling birds
And buds and blossoms.

For the young of mortal man
Especially I praise Thy Holy Name:
For babes, like birdlings,
Teetering bravely on the brink of life;
For others who can now awkwardly leave the home nest for uncertain moments,
Who, from stubbed toes to button noses and contrary cowlicks,
Vibrate with singing nerves and pulsing veins;
For still others now testing their wings of teen-age freedom—
Mysterious mixtures of doubt and certainty,
Odd compounds of little boy and mature man,
Strange blends of tiny maid and worldly-wise woman.
Bless them in the springtime morning of their days
So luminous with hope and promise.

Bless all the slumbering good
Deeply cradled in their flesh and brain and spirit.
Thou hast given them minds—
Help them to grow high thoughts
That shoot up, straight and strong
Toward the light-filled sky.
Thou hast given them souls:
Help them to flower with open, unashamed faces before Thee.

Teach them to feed their minds on other minds richer than their own.
To feel companionship with that vast invisible company of heroic souls
That heretofore have graced Thy earth
Help them to find the hidden springs of life
So many miss,
The pure waters that slake the soul's deep thirst.
Help them to know that good things, like grass,
Grow sweetest in secret, untrammeled places,
In the unthronged silences:
There prosper the rich and verdant meanings
Of life and death and human worth
And God.

Help them to know
That there are some beautiful things of life
That, like plucked flowers, can never be put back,
Some things that when broken can never be replaced or mended.
So save them from rash impulsiveness
That mutilates the soul.

Let them savor and relish and rejoice in their youth.
Let them remember that the young and tender years
Are what millions would love to have again.
May they learn to value life's brief day,
Treasuring every passing moment,
Seeing how swiftly the sun
Hurries down the western sky.

And when at last the days of preparation close,
May their days of learning not be done.
May their graduation from scenes of earth
Not be the end,
But glad Commencement.
Amen.

Voice of our readers

Dear Editor:

The Chief of Police told me something the other day that is hard to believe, namely: That many people think it is perfectly within the bounds of the law for East bound traffic in front of the Post Office to cross over the street in their car in order to deposit mail in the courtesy collection in front of the Post Office.

Therefore this letter. This practice, together with the practice of many postal patrols to park in area that a 'Yellow Curb' and where 'No Parking' signs are erected is getting so prevalent that consideration must be given to some remedy before we have a serious accident. The suggestion has been made that the box be removed entirely, or that it be moved to some other location. As the 'Courtesy' box has proved to be a great convenience to many patrons it would be a step backward in service to have it removed. To move it would be to move the violations to another location. The only solution appears to be to seek the co-operation of our citizens in eliminating the practices which are giving cause for concern. The situation is aggratvated because of the narrowness of the street in front of the Post Office. With the inauguration of the new schedule of late collections (5:00 P.M.) of mail from all down town collection boxes, it will not be necessary for many patrons to mail at the post office which should help to relieve the situation.

While it can be understood that it takes only a second to "Cross the Street to drop the letters in the Box" a moment of serious reflection of what could happen in that second should make a person think twice before endangering his own life and property as well as that of his fellow citizen. With a little planning of times the box could be approached from the proper direction so that it could be used without violation of the law.

It is interesting to note that people from practically all walks of life violate the 'Yellow Curb' and the 'No Parking' sign in front of the Post Office. This also must be a case of "Doing it without thinking" because many people do it. These restricted areas are so identified and set aside for public accommodation and protection by our local authorities. While the violator expects to be in the Post Office only a minute the minute often runs into 5 or even 10 minutes. During this time the public is being denied access to the courtesy box, or your car is being a hazard on account of being parked too near the fire hall entrance.

No doubt these violations are also caused by the parking situation as well as thoughtlessness, but it would be too bad if we had to have a serious accident before a serious attempt were made to correct the situation.

Something to think about.

Taxes, taxes and more taxes. We should have a state law which would reduce taxes for retired people over 65 living on a small fixed income, to be exempt from school taxes. These people have spent their lives paying taxes to educate their children and should get a break. Many retired people live on fixed incomes. Yet they are being forced to pay a higher amount to the schools. It isn't fair to expect so much from the few people who have only meager income to buy groceries and pay medical bills.

Everything keeps advancing in price along with taxes and the pensions keep shrinking. If the people want to raise larger families and need schools for them they should be willing to foot the bill and not expect our old people who can barely exist on social security and old age pensions to pay these high taxes. Again our school will be asking for more money and to ask the people to vote for an additional millage to run the school. A savings would be accomplished if the school books would be bought by the pupils. This would teach the children to be more careful how to take care of these books and at the end of the school year these books could be resold.

There could be another relief for the older persons if we had a fair real estate assessment. Quite a few properties are under assessed and not paying their share and if you have the right connection the valuation is reduced.

What about our light plant which belongs to the people of Charlevoix. Why not take some of the earnings and reduce our electric rates. Now is a chance to start a political and taxpayers organization. How about it? It is your money they are spending.

Charlevoix Rates High as Haven For Tourists

Charlevoix's attractive folders publicizing the community as a tourists' haven will be going farther afield than ever as the result of the new modern tourist promotion program now being sponsored by the Michigan Tourist Council.

Two roving representatives of the state, called tourist promotion agents, have been beating the bushes for vacation prospects in Ohio, Illinois and Indiana since 1957. This year they have expanded coverage to include western New York and Pennsylvania, St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., and will soon move into Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and the province of Ontario.

Charlevoix folders are included in the vacation reference kits of Michigan travel literature circulated and carried by the promotion agents.

The project is sponsored by the Michigan Tourist Council and the area tourist councils including the Western Michigan Resort

JUNE
IN MICHIGAN
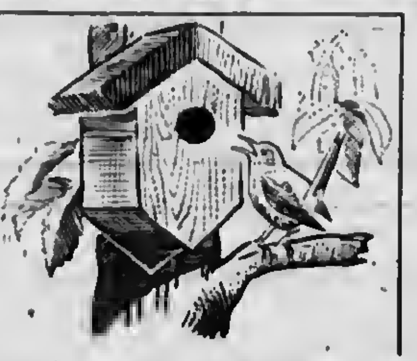
Harold E. Kohn



Now comes the month that sees the beginning of summer, the season when children slam the doors they left open all winter. Some unknown grumbler has indicted summer as having "the kind of weather when everything that is supposed to stick together comes apart, and everything that is supposed to stay apart sticks together." But to my mind June is the month of glorious sun-splashed, shadow-laced, wind-kissed days.

June days are maternal days, when the earth fairly spills over with the new-born young. This is the season of downy fledglings and chicks, of tadpoles and small fry; of newly developed butterflies and moths, of skunk kittens, for cubs and spotted fawns. May has Mother's Day, but June is the month when in every thicket and forest glade, on every knoll and in every meadow in all the wild, hidden places of the North, everyday is Mother's Day — and Children's Day.

By now the house wrens are well settled in Michigan for the summer. Flying by night, hidden from their enemies under cover of darkness, most of the wrens reached Michigan in late April and early May. Upon arriving the males built so-called "dummy nests" as romantic gestures. These are never used by the female, for she prefers to build her own. By now the usable nests have been constructed. In the wilderness a downy woodpecker's abandoned hole is often rented, or perhaps a knot-hole in a dead tree is occupied. But in areas well-settled by man the female often lays her six to ten pinkish-brown eggs in some of man's belongings — in bird houses he has made, in mailboxes and old jugs. I've even seen photographs of a wren's nest in a pair of men's swimming trunks, hung on a line to dry.

House wrens, like many other species of wild birds, show an astounding capacity for accomodating themselves to disturbing sounds and alien situations. Some years ago at a Boy Scout camp, in the eastern section of the country, campers built from logs a backstop for target practice. The targets were placed against the backstop, and thousands of 22-calibre stop, and thousands of 22-calibre bullets were fired into those targets each day. Nevertheless between the targets, in knotholes in the logs, three pairs of wrens built their nests. Although the target practice continoed all summer, all three pairs raised families in that place of noise and danger. And two of the three couples raised two broods each.

A pair of house wrens once chose a busy railroad freight yard in Minneapolis, Minnesota for their home. They carried their nesting matrial into the hole of a hollow wheel on a damaged freight car that had been side-tracked. When the nest was about finished another disabled car was shunted onto the same track, banged into the first car, causing the wheel to turn, tipping the nest upside down. Shortly the wrens had repaired the damage, only to have another car side-tracked, bumping the home car, and ruining their nest again. That was too much: the wrens moved!

It is estimated by ornithologists that less than twenty percent of bird nests are successful, which means that in not one in five nests do the eggs hatch and the young mature enough to leave the nests. This is true of wrens. Some eggs are infertile. Other eggs become the food of nest-raiding brds and animals. The infant birds are the prey of cats and snakes, and even such innocent appearing creatures as the flying squirrel.

Even a wren which reaches maturity has a life expectancy of only two or three years. Maybe it's the brevity of life that prompts a wren to be so busy.

June is the month when fishing in Michigan gets underway in earnest. Some trout fishing is done in May, and much perch fishing. But now, with summer vacations beginning and with expected improvement in the weather, fishermen will be spending more hours on lakes and streams. Bass season will open, attracting many who find perch fishing too tame and the exertions of wading streams for trout too much for them. Some of the choicest, tastiest game fishes in the world are found in this state. At least one hundred and forty different species, representing twenty-eight famlies of fish, make Michigan water their home.

Some things to look for this first week of June:

* Notice that many baby birds are larger than their parents, sometimes by as much as twenty-five percent! (After they become independent of their parents they shrink to their parent's size. Adult birds feed their young enormous quantities of food and build up in ther youngsters a reserve of fat for those perilous and uncertain days when they must learn to shift for themselves. The problems and exertions of making their own living soon cut them down to size.)

* Watch for a greater number of snails in early June than you will see in hot days of July or August. The reason? Snails are slaves to humidity. They require a warm dampness and are most plentiful on a summer's night in gardens or forests.

* Wherever you find an apple orchard near a trout stream, observe how often brook trout will rise to floating apple blossoms.

SUNDEW REPORTS

Wednesday, June 1

After spending the weekend in Cheboygan due to heavy fog, the Sundew was underway Monday for Raynolds Reef and Zela Shoal for Aids to Navigation operations.

On completion we headed for Charlevoix where we arrived at 4 p.m. thus completing 13 days away from port.

The remainder of the week was spent in port with all hands working at getting the ship ready for the Northern Inspectors.

On Friday morning a Commanding Officer's inspection was held and in the afternoon a Personnel Inspection was held. It was at this time that Lt. John A. Dearden became the Acting Commanding Officer as LCDR Harold D. Muth departed for his new assignment at Headquarters, Washington, D.C. The officers and crew all wish him the best at his new assignment. No ship could have had a finer captain.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Gramps Tells a "Moving" Story

Gramps Adams just got back from his first trip to the city in 40 years.

Thinking there might be a story in an oldtimer's impressions of the big city, I stopped by his place. Gramps was pretty enthusiastic about everything —except the escalators they have in the new department store.

"Sure, those moving stairs are easy on the legs going up," Gramps commented. "But just try to get down on the same ones. I'll be jiggered if you can do it, not with the steps comin' up at you a mile a minute!"

From where I sit, sometimes some of us go out of our way to make things a little harder than they really are. Think, for instance, how much easier living with our neighbors would be if we were more tolerant of things. Like my right to choose an occasional glass of beer—your right to choose coffee, tea or milk. By respecting each other's preferences, we're better neighbors with fewer "ups and downs."

telephone lines

By LES JOHNSON, Manager

A COMMON TRENCH . . . No, that's not a place where enlisted men fought during World War I. It's actually a recently developed technique for laying telephone and electrical wires underground—where they'll be safe and out of sight. To lay these wires underground, much new equipment had to be developed; for example, an entirely new kind of plow that would cut a single furrow deep enough so that the wires could be "planted." The Common Trenches are now being used experimentally in several suburbs across our state. It's just one of the ways we're looking ahead to bring you continually improving telephone service.

IF YOU STARTED a business making "widgits" and you wanted lots of people to come to your shop, how would you advertise? Skywriting? No, it wouldn't work in rainy weather. Smoke signals? Maybe, but certainly not on windy days. The Yellow Pages? Of course! Everybody—or to be completely truthful, 9½ people out of 10—uses the Yellow Pages. So if you're making or selling anything, just advertise in the Yellow Pages, sit back and listen to the phone and the cash register ring.

MINUTES COUNT when a doctor is treating a child who has swallowed something he shouldn't have . . . especially when that something is an unknown liquid or chemical. Today, your family doctor or local hospital can receive immediate information about any known poison and its antidote by calling a Poison Information Center. Located in six cities here in Michigan, these Centers are manned by qualified technicians. Thanks to the telephone, the specialized knowledge and information at these Centers are available to all doctors without delay.

Mr. and Mrs. Belfy Observe Golden Wedding Today

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin E. Belfy Sr. are observing their golden wedding anniversary today (Thursday).

An open house at their home at 313 W. Garfield ave. at 7 p.m. this evening during which they will greet relatives and friends will mark the occasion.

Earlier they will join their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon LaFreniere of St. James and their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin E. Belfy Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Belfy at an anniversary dinner at Liston's dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Belfy were married at St. James, Beaver Island, June 9, 1910, and made their home there until 1928 when Mr. Belfy joined the Law Enforcement Division of the Michigan Conservation Department and moved to Escanaba to assume his duties. He served with the commercial fish patrol in the Green Bay area and during the depression years of the 1930's also served as game warden in the Escanaba area.

In 1939 he joined the crew of the Michigan Conservation Department Patrol Boat No. 1 which, until recently, patroled the waters of the Great Lakes that border on Michigan, keeping an eye on the commercial fishing industry. Mr. Belfy retired from the department on his birthday anniversary in 1957. The patrol boat on which he served for 18 years has since been retired from service also.

Born in Tomahawk, Wis., April 11, 1892, Mr. Belfy moved to Muskegon in 1894. He first visited northern Michigan aboard a boat operated by his father. It was on one of these trips that he met his wife, the former Lenore Allers, who was living on Beaver Island with her family. She had moved there as a girl from South Haven where she was born Oct. 4, 1891.

Since his retirement, Mr. Belfy has filled in as a crew member of the motorship Emerald Isle which operates between Charlevoix and the mainland just to "keep in practice," as he puts it. "After 18 years in the engine room of the patrol boat, one gets pretty attached to a boat and the water," he added.

Both are members of Christ Episcopal church and active in organizations of the Masonic Order. Mr. Belfy is a Royal Arch Mason Both he and Mrs. Belfy are members of the Charlevoix Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star and the White Shrine of Jerusalem.

Besides their daughter, Mrs. (Musette) LaFreniere and their sons, Erwin E. Jr. and Chester E. they have eight grandchildren. Another son, Robert, was killed in action in Europe during World War II.

Charlevoix Shows Loss In Population

The village of Boyne Falls is the only community in Charlevoix county to show an increase in its population in the recent census, according to figures made available this week by the Regional Office of the Census Bureau.

All three major communities in the county show a decrease with Charlevoix showing a population of 2,682, a loss of 13 since the 1950 census when the population was 2,695.

East Jordan showed the greatest loss with new figures showing 642 fewer persons than in 1950 when the population was 1,779. The 1960 population of that community is 1,137.

Boyne City showed a loss of 258 persons. The new population figure shows a total of 2,770 as compared with 3,028 in 1950.

Graduates Are Told How To Determine Their Worth

The worth of a high school graduate can be determined by four simple yardsticks, what he knows, what he values, what he does and his promise of the future Dr. Howard R. Jones of the University of Michigan told the 67 members of the graduating class of the Charlevoix high school in his commencement address last Wednesday.

He said there were material worths but to him these four yardsticks were the important ones.

In enlarging on each of the four, Dr. Jones said that the day of the unskilled laborer is gone and knowledge is a 'must' in the world today since one's future is determined by what he knows.

What one values is another important yardstick for one's true values must be based on the Christian tradition to be enduring. It is important that one value his relationship with God and his fellowmen and be willing to help his fellowmen, if need be. As Dr. Jones said 'One's up-reach is determined by his out-reach, that is, his willingness to reach out and help others.'

What a person does, that is, the use to which he puts the knowledge he has acquired is another yardstick for unless he can apply this knowledge in his everyday living as well as his job, the nowledge is worthless.

In discussing the fourth yardstick, promise of the future, Dr. Jones urged the graduates to 'dream with your eyes on the stars and your feet on the ground' for progress is the result of these dreams. He went on to say that 'Till now, you as students have profited from the knowledge passed on to you by others. Now it is your turn to turn your dreams into reality and in so doing leave the results of your dreams behind as knowledge for future students.

In conclusion, Dr. Jones in his brief but inspiring address, urged the graduates to give thought to the four yardsticks which determine the worth of a graduate, what he knows, values and does and his promise of the future.

H. E. Bingham, high school principal, then presented special awards.

He introduced E. J. Edwards, president of the Kiwanis club, who presented the fourth annual Kiwanis Club Mathematics and Science award to James R. Ladd whose name will be placed on the plaque which remains at the school. The award also includes a $25 cash award for the winner.

Mr. Bingham then presented the Robert S. Wilson awards to two students selected by classmates and faculty as having done the most for their class. Recipients of the silver bowls and $50 cash awards were Don Heise and Judith Koteskey.

Students who had been awarded scholarships were then introduced. They were Gary Chew who was awarded the Michigan High School scholarship to the Soo Branch of Michigan College of Mining and Technology; Ann Martin, Honors Scholarship to North Central College, Naperville, Ill.; Ruth Ann Riley, Michigan State University Trustees Scholarship; Murray Novak; Vicky Racignol and Marilou VerWys, Central Michigan University State Board of Education grants.

Ann Martin, Vicky Racignol, James Ladd and Sandra Zipp were introduced as having won special recognition in competitive examinations in various fields of endeavor.

Mr. Bingham than presented the Class of 1960 who received their diplomas from Supt. R. G. Bennett who officiated in the absence of Dr. Robert G. Martin of the board of education who was detained at the Charlevoix hospital.

The program concluded with the singing of Alma Mater by the graduates and the playing of the National Anthem by the high school band.

The Michigan Association of County School Administrators adjourned its three-day annual convention at the Beach Hotel Saturday with an excursion to Beaver Island aboard the motorship Emerald Isle.

On the island the educators were overnight guests of Central Michigan University at Central's new Island classroom facility.

At the final business session the county educators reaffirmed their support for reorganization of school districts and county school districts into units that would guarantee the greatest benefit for school children. They also urged that the state aid formula be changed so as to reflect the actual amount of aid received by local districts and suggested a method by which this could be done.

Officers named at the final meeting were Mrs. Ruth N. Bacon of Port Huron, president; Bruce T. Blanchard of Petoskey, vice president and Isaac Grove of Monroe, secretary-treasurer. Charles A. Robinson, Charlevoix county superintendent of schools, was the retiring president and convention host.

Conference guests and speakers included Rep. Raymond Wurzel of Port Huron and Mrs. Wurzel, Dr. Howard Jones of the University of Michigan and Mrs. Jones and family, Dr. William McKinley Robinson, head of the department of education at Western Michigan University, A. T. Rolph and Dr. J. D. Marcus of the Division of Field Services, Central Michigan University, Dr. Harold Sebold, Superintendent of Licking County Schools, Newark, O., and C. B. Meggison, Representative from the Charlevoix district.

Other special guests were Mrs. Amandus Evers, president of the Charlevoix county board of Education, Clayton Healey of East Jordan and William Parsons, members of the board, and their respective wives.

Highlights of the conference included a three-hour cruise on Lake Charlevoix aboard the Emerald Island and a buffet dinner Friday evening followed by a program. The Rev. Harold E. Kohn was the guest speaker. He spoke on the subject "Putting the Pieces Together," placing emphasis on each person seeing himself as a part of a designed plan, as part of something bigger than himself. He also pointed out the urgency of finding one's own place in the scheme of things.

A group of Ottawa Indian girls demonstrated several dances that will be a part of their all-state pageant now being organized. Their director, Mrs. Robert Dominic of Petoskey, explained the dances and told of the work being done in efforts to achieve for the Indians a final settlement with the U. S. Government for lands formerly ceded by them to the federal government.

Supt. R. G. Bennett of the Charlevoix schools gave the welcoming address. He and Mrs. Bennett then joined the group for the trip to Beaver Island and assisted in making the program one of the most memorable of many of those attending the conference.

Just A Dream

In his "Hey Sam!" column, Editor Sam L. Smith, of the METROPOLIS (Ill.) NEWS relates a bad dream that, he says, "took me as close to the Russian way-of-life as I ever want to be."

In Sam's nightmare, US socialists had the nation pretty well under control. A super TVA had replaced private power companies, Government had taken over medical and hospital services, railroads and truck lines, schools, retailing and agriculture.

> "UTOPIA? Yes, all through that wonderful Government control.
> "Best of all this new system meant everyone was EQUAL! No matter how little I worked, I had as much as the man next door, and no matter how hard he worked, he couldn't earn more than me. Wonderful!
> "SO YOU ASK, what was wrong with all this? Why was it a nightmare?
> "I'LL TELL YOU WHY! It was alright as long as the Government took over everybody else's business. It was alright to destroy the private electrical power interests. It was alright to control medicine — transportation — schools — retailing — everything else.
> "But when the Government announced its plan to take over the NEWSPAPERS of the nation, I rebelled!
> "HOW ABOUT our free press, I cried!
> "You can't take our businesses away from us, I shrieked!
> It's unconstitutional! It's not morally right! Newspapers are different from other types of business.
> "Cheaper rates? Why, yes, perhaps newspapers could be sold cheaper under Government control if we had little or no taxes to pay and if we could borrow money at little or no interest. But we wouldn't have free expression: we couldn't say what we wanted to about the Government.
> "THAT'S RIGHT, said the Government, but, for the sake of cheaper rates, we've socialized everything else. You're all that's left. Sorry. WE NOW OWN YOU! YOU'RE OUT OF BUSINESS!
> "With no private businesses left to pay taxes, I asked, who would support the Government? That's simple, replied the Government. Now that we own EVERYTHING, all we have to do is RAISE THE RATES, and no one can do anything about it!
> "You should have thought of this while we were taking over all those other businesses, declared the Government, which appeared in my dream as a huge monster.
> "My ears are still ringing with the fiendish laughter of the Government monster. The last thing I heard him say as I awakened from my nightmare was:
> "Ha ha ha ha ha! YOU DIDN'T THINK ABOUT WHAT WAS HAPPENING TO THE OTHERS UNTIL IT HAPPENED TO YOU — DID YOU? Ha ha ha ha ha ha-a-a!"

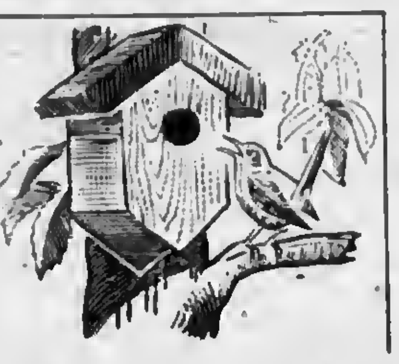
JUNE
• IN MICHIGAN •
by Harold E. Kohn



Old-timers have been telling me that this spring has brought the worst onslaught of mosquitoes they can remember. I'm inclined to agree. This year's mosquitoes do come in vaster hordes and have a leaner and hungrier look than usual. But, although I've heard them called names other than zoological, more cutting and explosive than "culvex pipiens," they are the same infuriating insects that pestered the Indians of Michigan thousands of years ago.

This spring has been ideal for "culvex" because of the abnormally long stretch of wet weather, leaving pools and puddles of water standing everywhere. Mosquito larvae require such stagnant water for their development, and it must remain for at least ten consecutive days to permit the full cycle of egg, larval, and pupal states to be completed in it. If the water evaporates, all the young ole, and the surviving adults must await more rain before another generation can be bred.

Mosquitoes are ingenious at finding nurseries for their young. While marshes, ponds, and pools will do very well, if they are not available rain barrels will serve their purpose. So will tin cans and buckets, discarded boots and shoes, and even the hoofprints of cattle and deer, provided they are kept filled by frequent showers. Flowing water or lake water that is exposed to the rippling effect of wind will not permit the maturing of young mosquitoes. The action of the water is thought to interfere with their food supply and breathing.

A MOSQUITO MISCELLANY:

* Why do we refer to the pesky mosquito as "she?" Because only the female mosquito bites humans. The male's proboscis is too weak to pierce skin. He lives principally on plant juices. Not so well-known is the fact that female mosquitoes will as readily and as greedily feed on the blood of deer, rabbits, squirrels, frogs, and countless other creatures as on the blood of man.

* It is not the "bite" of the mosquito that itches. The lance-thrust of the mosquito is so quick and tiny that a person or beast would hardly feel it. What causes all the misery is an anti-coagulant that the mosquito pours from her salivary glands to keep blood from clotting while she siphons it through the groove in her labrum.

* Experiments have proved the hum of a female mosquito is pitched at the note "C" and is produced by 512 vibrations per second. When this note is struck near a male mosquito, his plume-like antennae vibrate in response. It is believed the male is guided to the female by her characteristic hum to which his antennae respond.

* As early as 1932 the list of kinds of mosquitoes in the world numbered 1,400, and it is now calculated that at least 2,000 kinds exist More species are to be found in South America and the Far East than elsewhere. About 400 kinds can be found in Africa. A recent list of species identified in North America catalogued 121 kinds. It is estimated that the concentration of mosquitoes is not greatest in Michigan — appearances to the contrary— but in Alaska and Siberia.

* A mosquito's life expectancy is as uncertain as that of any creature in the wild. Eggs and larvae are eaten by fishes, if they can find them, and by countless other water creatures besides. Flying mosquitoes are the favorite food of dragon flies, which wage constant warfare upon them, catching them in mid-air in a kind of basket formed by their legs. Swallows and martins love mosquitoes, as do whippoorwills. A few fertile mosquitoes live through the winter in an inactive state, but millions die with the first frost. In short, a mosquito's entire life is brief and haunted by imminent peril.

SOME THINGS TO DO THIS THIRD WEEK OF JUNE:

* Notice how wet places and swamps smell just before a rain. Some amateur prophets declare they can "smell rain coming." There is good evidence that people with an acute sense of smell can sometimes prophesy the advent of rain and for this reason: rain follows low atmospheric pressure, and it is well known that small bubbles of gas generated by decaying vegetable matter tend to burst under low pressure. The gases are released from the bubbles. It is that gas that is detected by sensitive noses. Thus the truth behind the old folk saying, "When ditch and pond offend the nose, look for rain and stormy blows."

* Now, while the bird watchers are thronging through meadows and woods, try this: hang a hammock between two trees and let the birds watch you.

It will be a day of mixed emotions for the 18-year-old student who, though anxious to be reunited with her mother, Mrs. Lore von Reusner, and her sister is reluctant to say goodbye to her American family and the many friends she has made here for, being the kind of person she is, happy and out-going, she has captured the hearts of not only her classmates at the Charlevoix high school but the adults she has come to know.

It is with a note of sadness in her voice that she speaks of leaving her American family, Rev. and Mrs. James P. Sherman and their three daughters, Helen Mary, 6, Kathryn Anne, 4, whom she calls Katie, and the baby, 9-months old Elizabeth Jane, who joined the Sherman family only a short time before Annamargaret arrived from Germany last fall to spend the school year here under the sponsorship of the Michigan Council of Churches.

Speaking in excellent English with a charming accent, Annamargaret recalls her first weeks here. "They were awful. I knew little English and everything was so confusing. I was homesick. I come from a large industrial community of some 45,000 people and Charlevoix seemed so small and quiet. When people talked to me all the words sounded alike and I never seemed to know what they were saying. Added to that, I had always attended a girls' school and when I entered school here it was the first time I had attended a co-educational school. Everything was so confusing' I thought I would never learn."

"But I did learn, mostly because everyone was so kind and patient and understanding. My classmates were wonderful and never too busy to stop and explain; the teachers were just as patient with me and tried so hard to help me. Mr. Novak even bought an American-German dictionary when I enrolled in his driver training class because I had such trouble with brakes, clutches and other parts of a car; even the clerks in the stores and other shoppers went out of their way to help me. They would see me struggling with a grocery list and would come to my assistance, showing me where to find things and telling me how to shop."

It has been the friendliness of the people that has endeared Charlevoix to Anne, as she is now called by her friends. She had also to come to love the quietness of the community and its lakes.

After a year here, she hopes someday to return, perhaps to attend college or to work at the United Nations in New York.

But before she can do that she must finish high school in Germany and then take examinations before enrolling in college. In explaining the German educational system, she said that only about 20 per cent of students who start to school as children go on to high school and only half of those who complete high school enroll in college. One must pass entrance examinations for high school as well as college.

How does life here compare with life in Germany? Teen-agers here are much more restless, do many more things than youngsters the same age in Germany do, have much more than German youth. Life moves at a faster pace here, even in Charlevoix, and people do a great deal more traveling, she added.

It would seem at first that Annamargaret loved everything American but after a while she admitted to one dislike . . . American advertising. "When I first watched American television, I couldn't tell the advertisements from the television story. When I read an American newspaper or magazine and I have to look around the ads for the news stories. "Americans just do too much advertising" was her comment on the subject.

Right now Annamargaret is cramming everything she can into the remaining days she has left in Charlevoix for soon she will be packing for the return trip to her home. Among the new things that will be packed away for the trip will be momentoes of the past nine months, the attractive new clothes . . . her high school annual carrying with it the signatures of classmates, teachers and other friends with personal little comments . . . her high school diploma which she was awarded at commencement exercises last week . . . copies of the Crimson Flash, programs and other things to remind her of school events . . . a Varsity sweater with its huge 'C' for Charlevoix. And tucked among these will be happy memories of the first football game when she almost became a casualty when she got too close to the sideline and was tripped up by a Roger City football player . . . of school dances and trips to the grill . . . of the basketball tournaments when she yelled until she lost her voice . . . of the lovely luncheon given recently by Mrs. Clark Coulter in her honor . . . of happy hours spent listening to records and talking about just everything and nothing . . . strolls along the lake . . . ice skating and skiing . . . Thanksgiving and Christmas with her American family . . . talks before various clubs . . . the fun as a member of the homecoming court . . . and countless others too precious to mention.

And as Annamargaret carries these memories back to Germany with her, she will leave behind equally as many with her American friends . . . memories of her quick smile, her twinkling blue eyes, her desire for knowledge, her charming way of speaking English, her love of people, especially her 'family,' as she always calls them, for she has been a true ambassador of goodwill who has left her impression on many during her short stay here.

Circlin' The Bases

By DEANO

The Men's League in the Charlevoix softball league elected new officers at their annual draft meeting and laid plans for the coming season. Ken Balch was elected the new president, and Vern Essenberg of Ellsworth was elected Vice-President. Deano Davenport is secretary-treasurer.

Ellsworth was readmitted into the league, and to create more interest in the Ellsworth area, plans were laid to play several league games down there.

Several new faces were drafted in the player draft. Many have come up from the Peanut League, through the Junior League, and now are moving up to the Men's League. The following were selected in the draft. Airport Inn: Stan Martin, Speneer Root, Carl Charon, Gary Balch, Bob Barrett, Randle Sauger. The City Merchants drafted Clinton Hurdler, Don Kelly, Butch Wagner, Pat Martin and Jack Stewart. Freedman picked up Joe Armstrong, Roger Towsley, Dave VanDrummel and Pete Phillips. American Mold selected Harvey Cole, Buddo Cross and Terry DeYoung.

The new softball field was discussed and with the city's assistance, it was hoped that the summer program could get underway the latter part of next week.

There still is a need for umpires. Several have indicated they will work, but more are needed. Umpires are paid $2.00 per game in the Men's League.

Also if there are any more men interested in getting on a team they should contact Deano Davenport.

Peanut League and Junior League Organized

The popular city peanut league is being organized and after the tryouts and player action, league play will begin. The Peanut league is for boys in the eight through twelve year old age group Tryouts are held for only those who were not on a team last year. Those who played on a team last season will be on that same team this year. Tryouts will be held Tuesday night at the new Airport field at 7:00. After the tryouts the players then will be auctioned off to the different Peanut league managers.

The Junior league boys will not remain on the same teams as last year and the managers will meet early next week and select playing personell. Barnard is entering a team this season and by doing so should provide more excitement and strengthen the league. Any boy who did not play last year should contact Recreation Director Deano Davenport. The Junior league is for boys in high school and those too old for the peanut league.

The Babe Ruth baseball team has openings for seven players including five for boys in the 13 year age group, Pete Burns, co-manager with Bill Marme, said Wednesday.

The team, which will play its first game next week, will hold a practice session at 6 p.m. tonight (Thursday) at a practice field adjacent to the municipal golf course club house on the north side.

Any boys wishing to play with the team are asked to report for practice at that time.

The local team plays in the Petoskey Babe Ruth league which is composed of three Petoskey teams and one each from Harbor Springs and Charlevoix.

Managers have also issued a plea for parents or other interested persons to assist with the team.

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Beyond Appearance

On these June evenings the emerald twilight of the forest throbs with woodthrush song as these brown-winged trumpeters play "taps" at day's ending. "The sun has set" — so we say. The stars "come out," we observe. But where has the sun set, and from whence do the stars come? These expressions hearken back through many a yesteryear to days when men trusted to appearances and expressed themselves accordingly. Now we know the sun does not set in the west or anywhere else but disappears from sight as the earth revolves. Far from setting, the sun travels on its tireless journey while we sleep. Nor do the stars "come out" of anywhere. They were all day where they are tonight. but the greater light of the sun dimmed them. Now, with no competition from that blazing orb, the gentler lights of heaven sparkle like sequins against the black velvet sky.

The naturalist soon learns to distrust his eyes. He sees the sun as a yellow-orange disk in the sky, but he knows appearances are deceptive. The sun seems to be a huge yellowish star only because the longer light waves (red, orange, and yellow) pass more readily through intervening space than do the others. The naturalist is aware that while a sunflower seed looks like a dead and insignificant thing, the truth is that life slumbers lightly within the seed, life that the touch of sun and rain will snap to wakefulness, and the imprisoned nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus and iron, thiamine and carotene, niacin and riboflavin, and vitamins A, B, and D will become expressed in root, stalk, leaves, flower, and another generation of seeds. Seeds — dead things? Only to the superficial glance. Beyond appearances, seeds are crammed with vitality.

A narrow driveway only appears to widen when you look at it with a snow shovel in your hands. A row of garden radishes only seems to lengthen when you begin to weed it on your hands and knees. The driveway and the row of vegetables remain the same. It is your attitude toward them that has changed.

We confuse bigness with greatness and size with significance. Because the large things appear to be great and the sizable things seem important we let their appearances fix their value. Christianity changes the world's deceptive standard of values, placing them in reverse order: the unimportant appearing cup of water given to the thirsty becomes strangely meaningful; the weak becomes strong; the meek inherit the earth; he who is greatest is the servant of all.

We never know the whole story. If we appear in court we are asked to "tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." But no one knows "the whole truth" about anything. As Henri Fabre said, "Human knowledge will be erased from the archives of the world before we possess the last word about even a gnat."

Always there lurks beyond the face of things some further truth still unkonwn. Sir Joseph Stamp, the economist, once told of a candidate for Parliament who approached a house in his district and saw two small children standing hand in hand before the cottage door. Both were boys, of identical size and strikingly similar appearance. The political candidate struck up a conversation with them, asking if they were twins.

"No, sir," they replied.

"But you're brothers, aren't you?" the man inquired.

"Yes, sir," they responded.

"Well, how old are you?'

"We are both five years old."

"Heavens! If you are both five and you are brotbers, you surely are twins."

"No, sir," one of them replied. "We are triplets. Billy's in-doors."

Many of our errors in judgment and much of our bigotry are due to our lack of inclusiveness. We think we have seen everything when we have accounted for all that is plainly evident to us at the moment Concerning "the truth" there is always a missing fact, important to "the whole truth," waiting to be discovered behind the doors

Perhaps we have here a partial answer to the mystery of trouble in God's world Why is it that God allows suffering to come our way? If He is loving, why does He permit it? The answers to this ancient problem are many and fragmentary; the full answer will never come to us while we are here on earth But here is a glimpse, the merest trace of an intimation why suffering is allowed; trouble strips away from life curtains of concealment so that we more clearly see hidden realities Sir Ernest Shackleton bore witness to this revealing power of trouble when he returned from one of his Antarctic expeditions. Sir Ernest and two other members of the expedition suffered almost unbearable hardship — pain, cold, starvation, and exhaustion — on the bleak continent of ice before they were finally rescued. Enumerating their salvaged possessions as axes and a log book, Sir Ernest said concerning this long period of torment that these were "all the tangible things: but in memories we were rich. We had pierced the veneer of outside things. We have seen God in His glory."

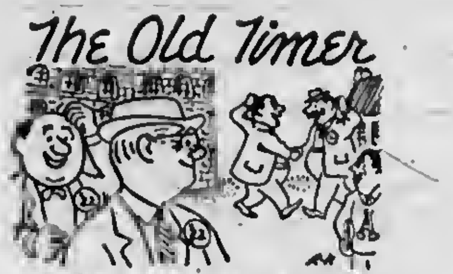
Is this not one of the chief missions of trouble — to pierce "the veneer of outside things?" Look back upon your own life. See if it is not so that trouble peels back the outer layer of appearances and reveals essences. We may live in a world of show, trying to keep pace with others, hoping to impress our acquaintances with a synthetic success. We may live in a kingdom where "things" are on the throne — money and what money will buy, handsome clothes, bigger cars, more pretentious homes. Then let a loved one sicken — a child of ours. Let death hover near. Suddenly the veneer of importance is stripped from the things we thought counted most. How quickly we would gladly give all our material goods, all our prized fame and vaunted pride, to hear one healthy laugh from that child's lips! What counts now is spirit. Your love for that child may be shown in the bestowal of material favors, but the love is spiritual. The surgeon's instruments can be measured and weighed but not his skill nor his knowledge nor his dedication to his life-saving task. They are of the spirit. And in such a crisis the God to whom we have given so little attention in more confident, self-assured hours, the invisible Spirit, counts then.

Bereavement is a time of revelation. At first we judge by appearances. When the pulse is stilled we say, "The end has come." But then we begin to look beyond appearances and see that what we have called the end is really the beginning. Nothing is lost that ultimately counts most —personality, spirit, good influences. Something about sorrow snatches the thick veil of externalism from things. As James Russell Lowell sang:

'Tis sorrow builds the shining ladder up,
Whose golden rounds are our calamaties,
Whereon our feet planting, nearer God
The spirit climbs and hath its eyes unsealed.
True it is that Death's face seems stern and cold,
When he is sent ot summon those we love,
But all God's angels come to us disguised.
Sorrow and sickness, poverty and death,
One after other lift their frowning masks
All radiant with the glory and the calm
Of having looked upon the front of God.

Faith insists that when we look at the world from God's viewpoint our calamities become "golden rounds" of a "shining ladder;" death becomes a gateway to new life; hopeless matters become hopeful; big things become little and the little, big.

One of life's most fundamental lessons is the one faith teaches: nothing is merely what it appears to be; everything is more than it seems to be. Look beyond appearances.



"The remarkable thing about school reunions is that your old classmates have gotten so fat and bald that they hardly recognize you."
